

5 I have made public resolutions that failed and the public humiliation made it worse so I stopped trying. Making private resolutions to change have made all the difference. This back up that change is a personal decision at New Year's or any other time rea (...)

5 This is one of those that I wouldn't argue because I have stubborn and pig headed friends. I was in the military for this scandal and that's what it was. There were sides and I see both because I know what was going on.

3 River restoration is nice, I suppose.

2 I feel like we should be helping the poor, but it seems more like we are supporting people who rape and kill because we don't agree with them. I could be reading that wrong. I think my belief that we should help the poor and that we should worry about us f (...)

4 I genuinely believe that people need to be actively aware and conscious to make changes in there every day lives and this editorial reinforce that idea

4 I believe when people are associated with wrong doings in the public eye they will mostly try to make excuses or justifications. This piece reinforced the idea that officials do what suits them best not the people at large.

5 This article is just another piece to help support the beautification movement America needs to support. Those hurt by the events and aftermath of 9/11 would gain so much having the river walk fixed up. It's another case of city and state officials needed (...)

3 I was saddened to hear about the sexual abuse and assault happening to people who thought they were going to receive help. How can we protect other when people in power become animals?

4 I never believed there were WMD in Iraq. I always thought it was a financial move and a distraction from other important things happing in the world.

3 This article was another sad story about poorly tended to American treasures. Another case of there are too many people to hold responsible so let's not hold anyone responsible at all while the situation just gets worse.

4 I have often believed that he with the money makes the rules. The article talks about how the big financial backers are the ones to benefit and I am not surprised.

4 This article reinforced my beliefs about joe Biden and his ability to be a straight shooter and deal in the reality of things not paperwork.

3 The article sites faulty equipment and faulty information that in their misdirection cost the lives of several firefighters. It just implie we need better info and equipment maintainence.

4 I agree that people deal in numbers rather than personal names and faces for challenging events, but I don't believe in donating to corporations.

5 Just because we didn't find them, doesn't mean that they didn't exist.

4 I think a public vote is a good idea for sure because it seems like there is something shady going on. It's a library and there is this much controversy? There is more to the story.

3 I didn't have an opinion in the beginning and by the end, I was kind of confused.

4 Understanding that talking about changing and putting money behind change are two different things is not something extremely new to me. I feel that this article conveys some information that supported my stance that Pres. Bush was mostly talk when it came (...)

4 Not only meat factories, but other factories as well have had to come through the movement of hiring people at low wages and facing injuries to paying people wages and training them to avoid injuries. I am not surprised by the information in the article an (...)

4 This editorial reinforced my stance regarding politicians and their attempt to play both sides of an issue to maintain votes and support their own agendas. The people never mattered, unless it was voting season.

3 This editorial did not feature anything not worthy that supported or opposed my stance. It can be painfully obvious sometimes that our "vote" doesn't really make that much of a difference.

4 The idea that officials need to be impartial is not a new one. The names and quotes from officials declaring that if the people don't like it they can vote us out was new and noteworthy for me.

2 Could it possibly be that this area is so safe and free of gangs etc because the police are well paid and the best are coming to the community to work because they know the pay matches the service they provide? I usually agree some professions are over pri (...)

5 Having significant findings related to the ability of officials to make real change oriented decisions when their meetings are being filmed encourages the idea that keeping a close eye on officials is the way to create change that the community desires.

4 I believe our education system is failing our children. Mostly, because of the standardization and rigorous testing schedule that is administered with a hefty portion of funding going to schools which make a certain grade. This editorial barely scratched t (...)

4 It gave me supporting facts for the idea that the millennium challenge was a failure.

3 I had no idea that ATM voting machines or optical scanner machines were even options. I think if people want to fake votes etc, no matter the machine we use they will find a way.

4 Pres. Bush was always working towards the welfare and best interest of his people, not necessarily the people. This editorial confirms the focus on side issues that the administration took when so many real issues were being faced at the time.

2 I have usually been on the side of open trade with everyone for the relationships it builds. But after reading about Canada's inability to verify their meat as safe, I can understand the need to reconsider open boarder policy.

4 The idea that the administration creates fake news to control the American public or influence the world at large. I have always felt that the government and new stations play off of each other and sort of own one another. The editorial provides support re (...)

2 I have never thought of any thing with the word bank in its name as providing any good to anyone, especially not someone poor. Reading that the bank has done good around the world is surprising and inspiring, if not confusing and curious.

4 I was not aware of this information but strongly agree with the idea that the constitution should be considered a living article that grows and changes with the community at large.

2 This editorial put a lot of emphasis on cutting medicaid and i think that is a horrible idea. I don't see how anyone could afford any significant medical expenses without assistance. If medicaid is to be cut the insurance companies need to be restructured (...)

3 It seems that with out power and influence no one wants a position that would receive so much of the publics scorn etc if mistakes are made.

4 People were harmed and deserve to receive retribution. I think the offer suggested in the article seems like a good idea. I think that people should be able to get free screening if the had been exposed and that preventative healthcare is an important thin (...)

2 While i agree that there needs to be someway to increase the minority numbers in so many different fields I worry for a field such as police work that in my mind seems like such an old boys club, that those who would enter on the plan in article would be s (...)

3 When it comes to environmental issues it is so damaging for the beaurcaptic wheels to barely turn as our heath, earth, and people suffer.

4 It reinforced my belief that hope is very important, especially in its assertion that a human being can't be a full human without hope.

5 This article provided me with evidence to argue against the bush administration's defense of their inhumane torture practices.

3 I had no opinion on this subject prior so it didn't affect me either way.

2 I was not previously aware of the levels of mismanagement in the U.N., I've always supported the US involvement with the U.N. but this brings up interesting points about its internal issues.

5 Just reading this article made me so angry. I was furious over the entire Iraq war because it was all built on a complete lie about the WMDs that the Bush administration then just stopped talking about and the public appeared to completely forget were even (...)

3 I had no stance on this issue before reading the article but I am sad to learn about the books and fiscal mismanagement.

2 I wasn't aware that there was any form of affordable housing action going on in that area of NYC so this challenged my belief that they weren't making any efforts.

5 This article provided evidence to back my already existent view that Condoleezza Rice is corrupt and created an illegal and unethical war based on lies

4 This article provided me with additional information on how many New York buildings still need fire safety improvements even though things are getting better.

4 It provided statistics to back up information I was already aware of in NYC

5 This provided evidence of the Bush administrations utter lack of care for anyone who needed help either domestically or abroad. This mismanaged small amount of money that was virtually useless can be seen here as simply a show to appear as if the administr (...)

5 Most factory and production workers in America are treated very poorly and this article provided examples of these subpar conditions.

3 A mostly conclusory editorial with some inflammatory remarks. It was preaching to the choir.

4 How can you possibly be a "reformer" if you've been in office ten years?

5 Including Justice Kennedy's comment really bolsters my anti-FSA position.

4 America was founded by immigrants and now has the audacity to try to keep people out. People should be fairly admitted in and we need to develop a better way at doing that.

2 Private support can be a good thing, as mentioned in the library editorial, but I still don't believe private funding is the answer to many issues.

4 The editorial talks about the protection that videos can provide for both police and those arrested, but also sites the editing of police tapes. It's note worthy that the police would use the tapes to protect themselves rather than the people.

3 Hospitals need some form of accountability to show that they are effectively taking care of their patients and providing them with the best and most quality care.

2 I drive a pickup, which doesn't get the best MPG. But, I need it for work. So I have little to no choice in the matter.

5 It strongly reinforced my stance that the government, and the way it works, needs a fresh start. I agree with all the rule changes proposed here.

5 It strongly reinforced my stance that the government, and the way it works, needs a fresh start. I agree with all the rule changes proposed here.

4 I agree with the fact that the Sunni population needs to stand up and cooperate with the majority, or else it may lead to another war for Iraq.

4 I had no idea regarding this topic. I am very pleased to see that these countries are doing their best to protect the children, and hope that regions nearest do the same in the future.

5 Action needs to be taken now, so future generations are not affected by our decisions to save money by taking our sweet time.

5 A program in place to offer the illegal immigrants already working in the states would be a great start. However, a hard hand needs to be brought down on any illegal living fro free off the system or engaging in criminal activities.

4 It is less about the color, and more about the statistics. If one color has a lower crime rate than another, why risk the whole community? I am not opposed to this system that has been working well for years.

5 Why bring in the crime that comes with affordable housing, and put everyone at risk, just to 'upset the status quo'? I stand with his decision.

5 If this is how we can keep America secure, then so be it. If the prisoners are on death row for some heinous crime, they do not deserve a second chance to hurt another family. In my opinion, he is qualified enough.

5 I love and agree with all of these actions. Restore the river to the day again! Make it a place to enjoy and to be proud of!

4 I agree with this in that the election is the deciding factor regarding whether or not giving the country a second chance was worth it.

5 I approve of him. Defend the country at all costs.

5 Agency rivalries are responsible for the attacks on 9/11. Appointing one to rein in the rivalries of the different agencies should be an office that is permanent in the government institution.

2 I had not thought of it that way, but it makes sense. To start national savings however, one needs to be closer to being out of debt.

5 Abhorrent practice? Not nearly as abhorrent as watching thousands of innocents die. I believe we need to protect our own, no matter the costs.

5 TWB needs to have someone with an open mind and perhaps even personal experience in these issues. Agree wholeheartedly with the author on this.

3 Information I am already privy too, but it is true.

5 The weak dollar ploy was a failure. A lot needs to be done for the economy, but perhaps at this point it is too late.

5 Absentee voting should never have been allowed. Time to make the legislature act like a legislature.

5 I will continue my stance that this is necessary to protect the American people.

3 I think that in some ways it is important for the US to take an interest in foreign affairs but often time the US creates issues or does things particularly for their own personal advancement, as an entity rather than for the people.

4 Large corporations are only looking out for their best interest, not the employees. It is another case where the gov needs to stop working for and paying corporations and start worrying about the employees, not the owners.

5 Close the loophole, but do not pursue cases against former employees. Once time has passed, they have the right not to be drug back into a case. That is everyone's right.

3 Nothing new to me in this particular article. Most checkpoints are well marked, and it is common knowledge among the people at the time to stop for all checkpoints.

3 I found the editorial difficult to read. It makes assumptions rather points and I was irritated by the writer's style and ridiculous similes.

5 I agree it is biased towards large corporations. But it is a fine line here, hurt these corporations and you hurt the economy.

5 The mismanagement of school funds was a disaster, and should not be repeated again. Safeguarding the funds allotted to education is something that should be actively pursued.

3 Anthrax takes time to ID, so that may be a major flaw to this editorial.

4 The system needs work at every level.

4 Large companies are not going to do things that cost them money when there are cheaper ways to go about what they are doing. They don't care about employees or the environment and are fine with the destruction on the earth because they have the money to su (...)

2 Protection is important. Having the ability to use satellites in war time would be a good idea, but working to prevent the war all together would be better in my opinion.

5 The idea that salaries are taxed higher than stocks is noteworthy. Most lower to middle class people don't have the funds, ability, or knowledge to invest anything in the stock market. When your living pay check to pay check investing isn't what your worri (...)

5 It showed the importance of protecting investors from the pitfalls of corporate largesse, especially when it comes to retirees.

3 It demonstrated the importance of efficient public sector emergency services, which I agree with, but it also demonstrated how large government systems can be rife with inefficiencies.

2 While I understand the need for prisoner privacy and am sensitive to public safety concerns, a revenue-generating program with large public appeal might be worth the potential problems.

5 As the article states, partisanship is a seemingly intractable issue in American politics. That both a Republican and Democrat recognized the importance of clean air and proposed a bipartisan solution shows that the increased cooperation between the parties (...)

4 This article argues against wasteful military spending, which is a position I share. However, the larger issue with the Iraq War is that it was based on willful lies.

4 While I do not know if increased sentencing for drug offenders is the solution, I do know that the drug trade may be the single biggest obstacle confronting the improvement of low-income communities. This article takes as a matter of course that the New York (...)

5 I was against so-called tort "reform" in principle. That a compromise was proposed and subsequently rejected would be useful in arguing about the wrongheadedness of the legislation, and indeed, its extremity.

5 While history often judges the US as the main culprit behind the Iraq War debacle (and rightly so), the role that the United Nations may have played in aiding the destruction and war profiteering is less-known. This editorial encourages me to investigate that (...)

4 The editorial deals with the large players in this story--Cablevision and the New York Jets. However, the money that would go toward the MTA is a public policy issue. The reason I did not say it strongly reinforced my stance is because public spending has been (...)

2 While I support affordable housing, especially in expensive metro areas like New York, it is unfortunate that the shape such initiatives can take have the potential to mirror prejudices which exist in certain communities.

4 The editorial demonstrates the need for improved vote-counting at every level of government, although it did not provide fodder for increased strength of this argument--it showed what is already widely-known.

3 The question this editorial raises is what level of cronyism is acceptable. It's almost a given that friends and associates of a person in a high position are going to benefit. The question truly is how much of this behavior is acceptable.

4 On the issue of the Israel/Palestine conflict, there is a lot of gray area. None of the parties involved can claim complete moral nor policy superiority.

5 I am an advocate for more transparency in the FDA and for food and drug safety generally. That said, this editorial addresses how difficult this is to execute in practice, given the economic prerogatives of involved companies. The drug safety advisory board (...)

5 While I oppose Social Security privatization on principle, this editorial's mentioning that the legal limbo a death before retirement would place one's savings in is a facet of the issue that isn't addressed often enough.

4 Cronyism is rampant throughout all sectors, public and private. The judiciary is one area where we don't often think of it. Using the example of Judge Garson, who I had not heard of prior to this editorial, as an example illustrates that judicial cronyism (...)

5 The situation with Kansas AG Kline really hits the intersection of pro-

choice and privacy advocacy. We are so used to privacy intrusions now that they ring fewer public alarm bells than ever before. Showing in what specifically harmful ways privacy intrusi (...)

3 Separation of church and state is one of America's core governmental tenets. That 21st-century Kentucky and Texas choose to put those tenets in jeopardy is not surprising.

4 This editorial, by chastising both private and public prisons, represents a fair-handed assessment of the national prisoner health situation. Additionally, by mentioning that diseases in prison can spread to the outside, the editorial reduces any punitive- (...)

5 The Bush administration was rife with scandal. The Church report is one aspect of the prisoner abuse record of the Pentagon which illustrates how unseemly its record was.

3 I agree but found nothing new here.

2 I feel that most monies should go to fixing and helping those in America as we are currently not to so great, but after reading we only offer such as small amount to help, when so much is going to other unnecessary things I am reconsidering.

5 This editorial makes some nice points about the value of being engaged in your life and trying to make improvements. I don't know if it helps me argue better, exactly, but it does strongly reinforce what I already believe.

4 I already had this view. But the article had a few details (how long it took Gonzalez to denounce torture) which I had forgotten.

3 I basically agree with this but didnt find anything really new in it.

5 I was already aware of the illegal torture of suspects and strongly opposed it.

4 I agree that the UN needs a major overhaul. This is a subject you don't see much about and so it's nice to read this.

3 I agree with the point, but there was nothing new here to reinforce my point of view.

3 While I agree with the writer's position on these particular nominees, filibustering seems to be a vicious cycle. Both parties use it to delay legitimate appointment processes.

2 While I support a global view of justice in the international arena, in cases of murder, there is much gray area. One interesting aspect of the case that the writer brought up is that of reciprocity: Americans abroad would be less safe, as well. On the oth (...)

2 While I support stem cell research, there is a reasonable opposition to it. Navigating the issue of using public money to fund it is difficult and does not lend itself well to hyper-partisan interpretations of ethical responsibility.

2 While I support stem cell research, there is reasonable opposition to it, as well. Navigating the use of public funds does not lend itself well to hyper-partisan ethical arguments. Sheldon Silver's approach seems to strike a useful balance between public a (...)

3 The issue of supporting governments with less-than-stellar records of democratic governance is thorny. In the case of Kyrgyzstan, military utility took a back seat to ideology. This is the unfortunate but sometimes necessary compromise that often needs to (...)

5 Gerrymandering is one of the most noxious manifestations of democratic subversion America faces. I was unaware of how endemic the problem was in New York state.

4 I value and appreciate the American national parks system. I was unaware that their preservation was a bipartisan issue, as, for modern Republicans, privatization is the primary aim of most legislation concerning public goods. This editorial can lead to a (...)

5 The issue of waste disposal should not be politicized, although perhaps I naively thought it mostly wasn't. That Bloomberg wanted to add a site in a political opponent's district is petty and speaks to the nature of Mayor Bloomberg as a leader who cannot b (...)

5 While I am aware of the antipathy toward the judiciary expressed by many Republicans, I was unaware the depths to which John Cornyn sank during the time of these shootings. Those are impossible statements to walk back, as they offer justifications for murd (...)

4 Energy conservation is a core global concern. This editorial, while bringing the issue close to home for residents of Long Island, demonstrates the local nature of the global problem. While it does seem to openly advocate for LIPA's Green Choice program, I (...)

3 I was not previously aware of the project, so did not have a stance before reading.

5 The reasons the editorial gives for opposing the estate tax repeal are both sound economically and reveal the ideological biases that animated that discussion. Especially given the budget deficit, there is no broader economic argument to be made for an est (...)

4 Although now history, the Bush administration's relationship with the UN did not further America's image globally.

5 The WMD reason to go to war with Iraq has caused uncountable amounts of damage to US relations with the Middle East and cause un-reparable damage to the entire region.

4 This editorial reinforced my basic feeling that too much bureaucracy is a real problem. The example of the library was sad and also convincing.

2 I remember hating the idea of the West side development. -- and I hate the way it looks now. This makes me think that the plan wasn't all bad.

4 I agree with the point that Rice was a problematic appointment and that Congress should have done more to oppose her. It's useful to be reminded of the specifics here.

3 I don't disagree that firefighters are heroic and need support but I didn't find anything new in this.

3 I have mixed feelings about the NYT. This tried to showcase their good side but it didn't especially convince me. Why is this better than another charity?

3 The space program represents a very small percentage of the national budget. It rarely makes news without significant discoveries or disasters. I'm relatively indifferent to the space program, honestly.

5 The Khodorkovsky case represents an illustrative example of the problem of the post-Soviet states. They devolved into kleptocracy very quickly. There are very few characters in business or politics in that part of the world who can be considered virtuous b (...)

4 I disagree with the premise of this editorial. It seems that there is a whole cottage industry suggesting unhealthy habits may actually have health benefits.

2 This is new to me and interesting. I thought I knew about the problems in slaughterhouses but hadn't thought about the worker's treatment.

2 Emergency management is crucial, especially in a large metro area like New York. That there is interdepartmental conflict is not surprising. While I personally tend to endorse and encourage public sector solutions, this editorial illustrates what can happen (...)

5 Many immigration proposals have been on the table over the past two decades. The bipartisan effort described in the editorial was both reasonable and fair to those affected and for those on both sides of a very divisive American issue.

5 The intersection of foreign policy and the drug trade is always fraught with conflict. In light of the conflict in Afghanistan, the Karzai administration not only dealt with the American presence in Afghanistan, but also domestic pressures, as well. The rest (...)

2 I support gay marriage and remember thinking that Bloomberg was too slow to take a stance... but this article made me think. Sometimes issues are used for grandstanding.

4 International aid is animated not only by humanitarian concerns, but by strategic imperative. Building goodwill in Africa would go a long way toward countering Chinese influence in the region. That Britain made a commitment and the United States was reluctant (...)

5 While making strategic allies with imperfect human rights records is sometimes required, the treatment of Mukhtaran illustrates the shortcomings of a cultural relativism approach to human rights. This editorial throws into relief the fact that neither the (...)

4 The editorial presents good faith actors working on initiatives to strengthen the United Nations through both additional oversight and accountability measures, as well as a concerted effort to reduce sexual abuse by peacekeepers. International institutions (...)

2 I've always known that they were gray areas in the Saudi oil trades especially when it comes with the possible ties with terrorism. But I've never really believe it until reading this article.

3 As a Californian, I really don't care how other states run their government.

3 My opinions have not changed since the last time I read this article for the previous annotation.

4 Iraq has a very fragile government and that there are problems between the Shiite and the Sunni. But I've never realize how fragile the government is though.

3 This was so specific and focused that it didn't impact my thinking in the bigger picture.

5 South Asian countries are famous for having problems with trafficking -- both drug and human -- that I'm not surprised that horrible people would take advantage of a tragic situation for horrible means like human trafficking.

3 This had a narrow focus but didn't give enough information -- it just expected the reader to accept statements at face value.

5 I know that nuclear power is clean and good for the air, but it's bad for the environment that surrounds the power plant. However, I need to research this more to better argue the topic.

4 Police unions are too strong -- this reinforced my belief.

4 I agree that small changes to state gov can make a difference. However this article's tone was overly knowing and somehow irritating!

5 While it's nice to gave those who are already in the US a way to become citizens, everyone has to remember that the US has immigration laws for a reason. Also there is no evidence either way that proves immigrants do the jobs that Americans won't do in som (...)

3 While it's true that some people can be racist, this editorial seems to leave things out. Was any real estate rejections based on last names alone or by appearance? There is not enough info from this editorial make any informed opinions on the topic.

3 My opinions have not changed since the last time I read this article in the previous editorial questions.

5 I think that Alberto Gonzalez wouldn't be a good fit for the job. However I need more information than what the editorial provided to better argue my stance on the topic.

3 I agree with this. I didnt find anything new here.

4 I do think when companies ruin the environment that surrounds any of their factories that they should find ways to improve their standards and help pay for any damages their factories have caused.

3 I dont have views on this

5 I think countries should be able to pick their own leaders in elections without the interference of any outside power. This editorial can be used as an example of this.

5 What America can afford? WE can't afford anything unfortunately. I sympathize with the idea, but realistically it is a disastrous idea.

5 I agree with the writer on this subject, this most definitely should never have played out like it did. It is a violation of an individual's rights to allow their family to dictate what happens to them.

4 Gonzalez probably was a terrible choice, but he was given the job, so there nothing people could've done to stop it.

5 A stadium instead of helping the transit system? Ridiculous at best.

3 I dont have a strong stance on this, so it's hard to convince me either way.

3 No new info for me personally, however it is wonderfully written.

3 This editorial is all over the place and totally lacks focus. I don't disagree with its points but it definitely doesn't tell me anything new.

3 I didn't have a stance on this issue.

4 This is an ongoing problem and it's interesting to read about its presence in the Bush administration.

4 The right to die is controversial, but a position I agree with. This editorial chastises Bill Frist for making a diagnosis from afar, likely driven by ideology, not medicine. While I did not learn anything new, the editorial does allude to Schiavo's doctor (...)

3 I don't find anything new here. Also, I agree with the assessment of Wolfowitz but not with the very rosy description of the world bank.

4 I agree with the position that the constitution should be treated as "living". There are good examples here.

4 Peer-to-peer sharing is almost exclusively used for copyright violation. This hurts the content creator. Grokster and other software companies which devise programs to facilitate this profit directly from infringed copyright. The problem is that where one (...)

5 As long as sales tax is the rule of the land in most states, its collection should not be viewed differently whether the transaction is made online or in-person. If sales tax were not charged in online transactions, this would represent an unfair advantage (...)

4 I support the idea of more openness. This reinforced that feeling.

4 I agree with the need for govt agencies to be independent -- this supports that and gives good examples.

4 I agree with This! The editorial was clear and specific.

4 The London attacks demonstrate that terrorism is certainly not a problem exclusive to the United States. While there are those on the Left who decry fear of Muslim radicalism as simple Islamophobia, not addressing Muslim radicalism does no favors to Muslim (...)

2 I disagree with an intrusive surveillance state, but this editorial brings up a great point: not only are symbolic points like the World Trade Center or the Pentagon at risk, and not only human transport, but also chemical transport is vulnerable. This is (...)

3 I didn't have a stance on this. Interesting article, though.

4 I agree with the environmental concerns.

4 I agree with the article. There isn't a lot of new information in it but there is some. I had forgotten about the Real ID law.

5 Public institutions shouldn't be so dependent on private charity to stay afloat. This makes some good points, especially about libraries around the country.

4 I agree about the danger of police brutality, and there are some good examples here.

3 I'm not sure how I feel about this issue. There aren't a lot of details in this.

3 I didn't really have an opinion on this.

3 I didn't have an opinion on this before reading.

1 I tend to have an idealized idea of California in my head so it's challenging to me to read about corruption in their politics especially because family members of mine with whom I disagree with politically are always criticizing California. But this doesn't (...)

3 I disagree with this. Hate the idea that America is responsible for solving Asia's dilemmas.

4 I agree with this. The details -- how the federal agency that insures corporate pensions works -- are interesting.

5 It gave useful examples of arrogance and overspending in the military.

5 I agree with the stance against tax shelter. The details about tax shelter are not something I knew enough about.

3 I am strongly in favor of giving more foreign aid, but found this article's tone condescending and smug. Also i think it puts too much emphasis on what other western countries will think of the us.

3 I didn't find new information here.

4 I agree with this and found some good points, especially about rural stations

4 Like this,, and I like the details about Brazil's universal care program.

3 I disagree about turning to the UN to deal with Iran. I basically disagree with the article so had to choose that it neither challenges nor reinforces 4 I agree with this point and found some good details.

3 This definitely needs to be changed, if it hasn't been so already.

5 Music is sound, why pay for sound? It's not as if someone has to dedicate their entire life to the industry to make good music. One could do so in his spare time.

5 That decision was not just the governments. But rather the corporations backing them. Even if it was, it is better to know your enemy.

4 I agree that prevention is the best cure.

5 I agree with this approach as a way to combat obesity. IT's ridiculous that anyone would oppose this.

5 I support everyone owning a firearm. Except criminals and terrorists. The NRA is off base if they choose to oppose gun checks and restrictions that would limit individuals with questionable ties from purchasing firearms.

5 Professors and teachers are allowed too much in universities. It's shocking that they would be allowed to make comments like this yet if a student opposes it, they get disciplinary actions leveled against them.

5 Just as not enough water can kill you, so can too much. It's something I have felt and seen in person, and it is about time that it is going public.

3 We are already in debt. Can we afford that 0.7?

5 If the students don't agree with the school, they can go somewhere else. But don't take away the rights of the school just because you're offended. The school has every right to take whatever action they deem proper.

1 While it is known that there were people who ignored the warnings, I didn't realize that it was all the intelligence agencies.

4 This somewhat reinforces my stance since I do believe that people in the government have no idea about how to close social security gap. However, I believe that neither tax increases or having private accounts is a great idea for most people.

5 It's very messed up for the US government to torture people, and there should be a bipartisan committee to look into these things if they happen.

5 I agree with the point and found good details to support it.

3 I neither agree or disagree with this article. While I think institutions should always pick the most qualify employees, I don't think that the World Bank has done anything good, nor the people who the author picked would do a good job.

3 While I think that every government should have checks and balances, I only vaguely understand the politics of Iraq. So this editorial cannot challenge or reinforce my stance since I don't have one.

3 I disagree with this editorial and find it leaves out key facts.

5 While the markets always change, it seems for a while that the US dollar have been losing value. This editorial reinforces my stance that many people don't pay attention to the markets in the long term, which can help close any trade deficits.

5 I do think it's a terrible idea to constantly borrow money, especially if it's a government borrowing money from a bank in secret. I am able argue about this topic as the editorial makes a reference to a report that helps explain the difference between goo (...)

2 While I think governmental abuses of power are a awful thing, this editorial has me wondering if non-US citizens even have constitutional rights as stated in the US Constitution.

1 I guess I don't trust the media enough to change my position on anything but I am really starting to see how uninformed I was back then. I thought we were fighting for good.

5 I have a friend who is a firefighter. When the topic comes up. I just give him the floor. He knows his business so why would I argue safety?

3 Seems like a good thing.

1 Well, first Off, where is the money he's getting for this charity going? Second, this writer seems made that he's asking for less every year but since they give him less why should he ask for more? Ugh politicians are crooks.

3 Perhaps they shouldn't kill animals in such large numbers.

3 I'm just hoping love remains love.

2 It's great for states to have ethic laws to stop employees from abusing their power. However, I don't think it's a great idea to try to charge former employees who have resigned with ethic violations if what they did is not a criminal act.

2 While it is sad that innocent people die in war, how could soldiers know who's an innocent civilian and who's their target. While the army can improve knowing who's who, there really isn't a fool proof plan that both protects innocent people and soldiers.

4 I think that it's great to make sure the air is clean and there are lower mercury levels in fish. It reinforces my stance that we need clean air and that there should be some regulation on too much pollution.

5 I'm against elected officials of any kind wasting tax payer money on personal expenses. I agree there should be laws to protected offices, even school districts, from these type of behavior, and this article gave an example on why this is bad.

5 I agree with everything in this editorial. I'm now more able to argue about this topic thanks to this editorial since I can argue on that it's better to be safe than sorry with this topic.

5 I just don't feel educated enough to argue it but it does reinforce my belief that too much power is placed in the hands of some individuals.

2 I would typically believe that poor control over public spending would be the reason why a building such as this library is not repaired but it appears that they may be political motives behind allowing this building to crumble.

2 There are many things that New York could have done over the years to prevent the creeping gentrification of Manhattan, but successive administrations have done nothing or little to address the problem.

3 I read the article several times, but couldn't decipher the points it was trying to make.

5 Everything possible should be done to protect these brave individuals.

3 I have no prior knowledge of this or opinion.

4 Many of the problems in Africa is caused by its leaders, and grandstanding from celebrities, who demand that the US spend money to help solve all of the continent's problems. This editorial proves my stance that many who will criticize the US for being too (...)

3 A government shouldn't have a say in who can live or die whether it's on a state or federal level. While this editorial showed there is a slippery slope in this topic, it neither challenged or reinforced my stance.

2 This editorial, for the most part, supports my stance in that some officials will give special treatments to some companies over others. While it's true that it's unfair, this editorial fails to mention how a possible Jet's stadium can actually help the ec (...)

3 Since my stance on the Israeli-Palestinian conflict is that both sides have caused problems for the other, this editorial neither challenged or reinforced my stance on this conflict.

2 Since I really have no stance on this issue, it was easy for the editorial to challenge me as how will this person know that this legislation will work. Iowa and New York are completely different states, just because something worked in one, doesn't mean i (...)

1 My stance on this issue is that piracy only hurts people if their product is terrible and that the entertainment industry is stuck in the past when it comes to the internet. This editorial challenged my stance in that piracy can hurt small time creators b (...)

5 The US government should not start an arms race between two countries with a history of aggression towards each other. However, I feel that the article didn't give me enough information to properly better argue my stance.

1 It's stupid to tax junk food and people should be able to make their own decisions on their eating habits. While it's true that obesity is a problem and there should be more done to help solve it, taxing junk food is just going to make it seem more desirable (...)

2 While I think that illegal immigrants and people on any terrorist watch list shouldn't be able to buy firearms, I don't think that manufacturers and sellers should be liable when a gun crime happens. As the manufacturers and sellers didn't commit any crime (...)

5 This editorial reinforced my stance that colleges are slowly moving away from people to express free thoughts that differ from any staff without consequences. The fact that the university didn't have protections in place for students proves my stance.

1 Like most people, I didn't know that you can OD on liquids. Now that I know this, I should be probably look up ways to improve my sodium levels if I do any extreme workouts like running a marathon.

5 The editorial reinforced my stance that people think that giving money to African countries will solve all the continent's problems even though it doesn't work. I am able to argue this topic better due to this editorial as the data it uses to support it's (...)

5 If the world loses the Amazon, it will be a disaster. I believe that all the nations should step in to help save the Amazon. After all, it affects us all.

4 The editorial does reinforced my stance that the LGBT has come along way but more still needs to be done to support the community. However forcing anyone to support the LGBT community if they believe it's against their religion is a slippery slope as suppo (...)

5 It's not surprising that people in legislative branch will add projects to a spending bill that has nothing to do with the original bill. This editorial allows me to argue my stance that government likes to waste money on unimportant projects as it gives e (...)

5 Social security shouldn't be cut for anyone, especially those need it the most. This editorial strongly reinforced my stance it provided facts such as wealthy people have very little in social security so any cuts do not affect them.

5 While DNA testing is mostly correct, it is true that human error can mess up any testing. However, the editorial didn't provided enough information regarding how often human error messes up DNA testing, so I cannot improve any arguments I might have about (...)

2 While I think we should more to help AIDS and women who are forced into sex work in third world countries, I don't know if just giving money is a long term solution especially since the editorial never explain how the group helps fights AIDS nor does discl (...)

3 The ethnic strife in former Yugoslavia speaks more to the the history of the groups involved vying for power more so than to the UN's peacekeeping ability.

4 The unwillingness of Israeli leaders to secure basic human rights for Palestinians in their purview adds fuel to the fire of Palestinian radicalism. This editorial is correct in stating that Sharon is doing the peace process no favors by wanting only to ap (...)

2 Pataki has a reputation as a moderate, but I did not know that he ran as a pro-choice Republican. I agree with this editorial that it is smarter politics to approve access to the emergency contraceptive rather than oppose it.

5 The issue of drilling on public lands has been promoted by many Republicans and some energy industry-friendly Democrats. That this practice is included as part of overall energy bills aimed at environmental protection is very telling in terms of profit tak (...)

3 I knew that Mr. Pataki had a mixed record in the state of New York. This editorial, in agreeing with Pataki's decision not to seek a fourth term, jibes with my view of the correct course of action.

4 Creating deadlines for Iraqi leadership and ethnic partitioning of the country is unreasonable. The editorial is right in seeing these deadlines as unrealistic. I did not know that the Iraqi Sunni lands were the ones with the least oil, adding an economic (...)

5 Given the high levels of Native American poverty, a system to redress money owed to descendants is not merely reparations. It is good-faith accounting, and can be used either in community trusts or paid to individual families with the strongest claims to o (...)

4 Cindy Sheehan helped provide a public face to the opposition to the Iraq War, opposition I agree with. I was unaware that she had felt personally disrespected in meetings with George W. Bush.

3 As the editorial states, courtroom testimony is often supposed to serve a therapeutic purpose, it often backfires. That it did not in this case made for a feel-good story.

5 Terrorism is a large problem in Britain. I agree with this editorial reinforcing the importance of security. I also share the editorial's privacy concerns in light of the ambiguous language ("condoning", "glorifying" and "justifying") proposed by Mr. Blai (...)

3 The editorial rightly lauds the peace process compromises made by Sharon and Abbas, but also rightly expresses concern about the peace process going forward in light of the electoral battles both faced from hardliners in their respective constituencies.

5 The tragedy of Katrina in New Orleans was due to both natural causes and man-made ones. This editorial rightly points out the lack of federal leadership and unwise development practices in New Orleans which led to making the natural disaster worse than it (...)

3 I disagree with this. It also feels overly optimistic.

4 The editorial takes a cavalier approach to both public safety and Native rights, which is not surprising, given its snarky tone. It reinforced my stance against nuclear power as a "clean energy" alternative.

3 NASA is always pitting its need for safety (and the potential negative publicity headaches associated with it) with a constrained budget. It also alludes to the inward-looking nature of the American government as opposed to international cooperation.

4 This editorial is right in pointing out the link between hurricane size and global warming. That there was no direct causal link that could be made between hurricanes Katrina and Rita in a point A-to-point B fashion does not, as the editorial states, mean (...)

3 I agree but found nothing new here.

3 I disagree with this, I think John Bolton was over criticized.

2 I would have said that we should leave Pluto as a planet, but this made me hesitate a bit.

4 The path to becoming a supreme court judge is over politicized. This is a good case in point.

5 I was unaware of just how egregious Texas and Louisiana represents were in attempting to use the tragedy of Katrina to try to milk the federal government for outrageous levels of "aid." Such practices undermine faith in public institutions.

4 I agree, and there was new information in here for me.

4 The editorial rightly states that the Bush administration's proclamations about the state of progress in Iraq are to be viewed with skepticism. No clear objectives were ever put forth, and the editorial raises poignant issues, such as the overall regional (...)

3 I disagree and find this naive. So it doesn't challenge or reinforce my views.

4 I agree with this and found the details interesting.

5 I agree. The detail about the 400 dollar monthly bill is very striking, and also the explanation of how the money is used...cable tv seems unnecessary.

2 While I am keenly aware of Republican obstructionism, this editorial made me rethink the partisan cheerleading that accompanies many nominees. Harriet Miers' nomination may have been more about politics than legal qualifications from the Democratic perspec (...)

4 I wish this article made a stronger point, instead of just summarizing.

But the summary about UN corruption is still useful.

4 Public safety is paramount, especially in dense urban environments. While I appreciate the role of government, the bickering between the federal DHS and local police departments seems not only juvenile, but potentially deadly. Such irresponsibility casts g (...)

3 The politics and financial interests of rebuilding at the World Trade Center site were fated to be difficult to navigate. This editorial simply illustrates that point, with both private and public sector benefits and shortcomings.

5 The rebuilding of Afghanistan was not thought out carefully, or at least not with the welfare of the average citizen in mind. This editorial is correct in stressing that additional funding for civil repair is required, much more than the $1 billion propose (...)

5 The W. Bush administration's environmental record is what we would expect from one with so many energy industry players in its leadership. That even staunch allies like Tony Blair would try to convince the administration of its wrongheadedness speaks to th (...)

2 The issue of agricultural subsidies is complex. As Amorim points out, they can hurt emerging and low-income countries but at the same time, do provide a boon to rich country economies. The EU/American negotiations may be of little consequence to Brazil in (...)

5 The conflict between state and federal government over environmental protection measures looms large in this century. That California and New York, country-sized economies in their own right, implement aggressive standards is not surprising.

5 Very strong editorial with good use of facts. I think it's also significant that NY did not shut down the plants; it only forced them to modernize. That will undoubtedly cost the owners some $, but we all need to make sacrifices.

4 I am keen on conservation but more so from an environmentalist perspective. The editorial highlighted another reason that conservation should be top of mind for Americans, and by extension for persons around the world. The means to this end however (the Sa (...)

4 Yes no one should be above the law but you're talking about stuff that happened twenty years ago and the guy is effectively leaving politics. The world won't end if he receives immunity.

5 I agree with that. The Inauguration is a time to focus on the Presidency instead of the President. Nothing really new or compelling here....

4 The Likud Party has a very mixed record in Israel. That Sharon wants to distance himself from it is a positive sign for peace.

5 Idealistic BS. You really think a few mosquito nets and soil nutrients will reverse the cycle of poverty and corruption in the less-developed world?

2 Cleaning the environment is another huge problem that will only be solved by regulations which properly balance corporate and public interests.

3 While Saddam Hussein was certainly not an admirable leader, the Iraq aftermath of his ouster is likely bloody and will do nothing to ease ethnic and religious tensions. His trial is almost beside the point.

1 I wouldn't say it changed me from pro to con, but it took me from "who cares" to con. The author made some very good points about the messages we send when we mistreat people and disguise it as entertainment.

4 It just seems to me that there's no winners in that conflict.

3 Meh.

5 Interesting points about the historical role of high schools and that they should be drastically reworked.

4 Usually I am okay with the economy over the environment, but with the Amazon forest I disagree since there are actual endanger species there. This is editorial does kind of reinforce my stance as the Brazilian government is corrupt so it makes sense that p (...)

4 A mere $600 million in public funds for a new stadium? This must be an old editorial lol. The real issue is whether or not the investment is worthwhile. Sometimes it is and sometimes the team just holds the community hostage until it gets what it wants.

3 The issue of pollution in China is certainly worth paying attention to on a global scale. It does not lend itself to ideological considerations.

5 The Patriot Act seemed like a good idea on paper but it is terrible in life. This article proves this by listing the things the areas that the law over reaches in the public's privacy in the name of security.

1 The editorial showed through very specific examples how in an established Senate/Legislature such as NYC there are those issues that one would expect to be the case only in smaller states. It was compelling because not only was the opinion purported, but i (...)

4 Global poverty eradication is a multifaceted issue. Eliminating farm subsidies in rich countries can help toward that end. As the editorial states, poverty reduction is not merely about aid. It is also about fair trade policies.

5 With everything eventually going digital, it seems obvious that the US should store all of its important data under super secure networks. The lack of doing so by the government shows how incompetent many of these people are concerning new technology that (...)

2 While officials should answer concerns that the public might have about the stadium, I disagree with the editorial as a whole. The stadium is good for local economy especially during football season as it brings people to the area.

2 The support from conservative Western politicians in opposing laws that open up potential private raids on public lands is encouraging and is a reminder not to paint each side of the aisle with broad strokes. The Gibbons-Pombo provision demonstrates that.

2 While there are some scientific data to back up the editorial claims, there are also data that dismisses the claim made in the editorial such as it seems that the dates for the claims keep moving up. Because of this, I don't know which data is true or whic (...)

5 I knew that policing in urban areas was more aggressive after September 11, 2001. The deliberate attempt to incite rather than protect is shameful, especially in light of the very real need to monitor potential threats.

4 Cronysim in the judiciary should be opposed. A telling statistic this editorial relates is that an outsider candidate had won zero times between 1994 and 2002, although the editorial does not specify what criteria were used to label someone a "clubhouse fa (...)

4 I think every building should have safety exits and that new New York architecture should keep 9/11 in mind for safety concerns for both the building and the citizens. However, there is no way to make sure that both the public loves the building and it's c (...)

5 Extraordinary rendition is so fraught with potential human rights abuses that it is a stain on the proclaimed moral leadership of the United States. That a Canadian citizen was sent to Syria and imprisoned for 10 months is shameful. This episode also illu (...)

5 I think that the families of those who died on 9/11 should have a say in the memorial as its the place where their loved ones had died. However, it should be a place of creative freedom. This editorial gives me the words

5 If they would not throw all this unrelated material into the war budget, perhaps they wouldn't have to keep increasing it so much.

5 I think that any judge that qualify to work in the supreme court should be nominee, and the nominee's personal politics shouldn't matter. However, I think the author of the editorial is using politics to make his or her decision on the topic, which is a te (...)

5 Cutting that was one of his worst moves as president. Focus less on privatization and more on long term solutions.

3 I agree with this but it didn't give me any new information.

5 Leave politics out of the American justice system. It is already failing miserably.

2 This editorial was meant to criticize Schwarzenegger but actually made me understand his position better. I still don't like it, but it's understandable

5 They should have signed it. Not signing it only shows that they are so anti-religious that they are willing to drop all morals.

4 The importance of official archives is crucial for historical accountability. The Hoyt proposal represents basic civic-mindedness.

2 I always thought the fuss about voter ID laws was overblown. I didn't realize there was nowhere to buy the ID in Atlanta -- that makes me rethink my position.

5 Roberts is allow to have his own politics but I personally think a judge's personal politics shouldn't influence the way he interrupts the law. However, the author of the editorial seems to think Roberts might be too conservative because of his association (...)

4 I already believed this but it is useful to be reminded of the facts.

4 I agree and appreciate the reminder of the facts.

5 Agents should not have these capabilities for sure. Surpassing the judicial system gives too much power to any agency.

3 I agree that cronyism is a problem. But nothing really new here.

4 I agree with this assessment of how the federal government dealt with the aftermath of Katrina.

5 While I think labor unions are good for workers, it is just the organizations that I have a problems with as they don't seem understand how the economy is changing. This editorial helps me argue the topic better as it mentions the problems that people have (...)

5 Now more than ever cyber attacks threaten the infrastructure of the USA. Perhaps looking into creating close networks would limit their vulnerability.

3 This feels really dated now! Neither challenged nor reinforced.

5 Building that stadium is a joke. It won't bring in enough revenue to justify damaging the already struggling MTA system.

5 Though steps have been taken to help the environment, the government still limits the good it can do due to the corporations who have their greedy hands inside politics.

5 I think the 9/11 memorial should be honor the victims respectfully, but I also think that the people who are building the Freedom Tower should be free to do what they want. It seems that not everyone is going to be happy, but I don't think that personal fe (...)

4 I totally disagree with this editorial and really dislike this type of research. Reading this just reminded me of my views on the subject.

3 The idea of this tower was perhaps the greatest sign of respect any American has ever shown for the victims of 9/11.

4 I agree with this. It had good and useful details too.

5 I don't know much about the politics of Iran other than the group of ayatollahs ruling the country in all but name. I also get the feeling that the elected leader mentioned in the editorial, like the author, will be similar to the others and let the ayatol (...)

5 I was aware of how deferential Republicans in Congress were to the President. This editorial illustrates their deference on both the domestic spying, torture, and indefinite detention fronts.

5 I like this argument a lot -- consumers share the blame for oil consumption. This makes a great case and gives me good ideas.

3 I don't especially agree with this. Neither reinforces nor challenges me.

2 I think in certain areas in the country there are activist judges. I don't think that activist judges are necessarily a bad thing, but I think they should be checked to make sure they don't put their personal politics don't cloud their judgement. Both the (...)

4 I totally agree with this. There's not a lot of new information in here though.

2 While I am typically in favor of large public coffers, pork barrel spending like the kind the FOIA request revealed is one of the unfortunate downsides.

4 I think we need to buy more American made products when we can, however many of the manufacturer jobs have moved to China due to the fact it's cheaper to produce things there. So until we can find a way to make it possible to make American made products ch (...)

3 I agree with this, but didn't find anything new in it.

4 I agree with this and liked the details.

5 I think the Bush Administration has or had a tendency to ignore studies which can lead to money being wasted. I can use this editorial as an example of the government wasting money.

5 When a natural disaster happens, it can bring people together. I think this editorial can be used as an example of people coming together after a disaster.

5 Horrible natural disasters can still happen in the US if the government doesn't properly find ways to lessen the impact. This editorial proves my stance as it mentioned government incompetence for the reason that much of the damage Katrina caused.

4 I don't believe in a police state but it seems like they are trying to find a middle ground

5 People want transparency

1 It made me think differently about how the process operates in larger states such as NYC. The assumption for me was that larger states were more organised and as a result would not be subject to the same issues as the smaller states. This piece provided th (...)

4 "I agree with this and had forgotten a lot of the specifics it brings up"

3 This editorial touts the benefits of reverse mortgages. I believe they are a disaster.

5 Schools need to be teaching skills that transfer to life. All kids are learning is how to pass a test and that is all teachers have to know how to teach. This is why adults can't adult.

5 Technology isn't always a good thing and having a paper ballot count to fall back on just makes sense.

4 This is news to me, very interesting.

4 The importance of child welfare services cannot be overstated. The editorial reinforces my opinion that both funding and creative administration are crucial components of strategic improvements.

4 I agree with this and it's good to read the specifics.

3 I didn't have a stance on this. So this neither reinforced nor challenges me.

2 I thought Bush was a good President but I feel like nothing I have read so far backs that claim.

3 I never understood what mad cow was so I have no opinion on this.

4 While I do not support the trend toward over-schooling, I do agree with the solution in light of the parental work day and its related time commitment, a factor I had previously overlooked.

4 The media likes to play both sides against the middle.

5 A sane immigration policy which respects those who attempt to immigrate legally while also offering a logistically-rational system for illegal immigrants to acquire legal status, all in the spirit of fairness, as the editorial states.

4 We went to help. That's why we were there. We should have helped.

3 I like the sentiment here but it feels too out of date.

5 The constitution stands. It doesn't evolve to include taking away guns because they have gotten too strong or freedom of speech because we have gotten too loud!

4 I agree with this -- well written article.

3 I don't have strong views on this.

4 Transparency

2 Generally I think it should be difficult to get a divorce. The statistics about violence against women did make me rethink though.

4 Generally I think it should be difficult to get a divorce. The statistics about violence against women did make me rethink though.

3 I guess I didn't understand it

4 I agree. The details about Obasanjo are useful.

3 I basically agree but found nothing new here.

3 I don't really have a stance on this issue.

1 I hate eminent domain, and this article didn't fully change my view. But it did remind me that this is a complex issue.

3 I don't have a stance on this.

5 Many laws in Turkey are outdated especially when you compare it to US laws, and I'm not surprise. Like the author of the editorial, I believe that Turkey should change their laws, especially if they want to be part of the EU.

5 This editorial reinforce my stance that the government took too long with Katrina relief. The author also asked questions that I had.

3 I don't know enough about the farm trade around the world to have a stance about it. But I think that the US should put itself first before it tries to help others around the world.

5 I think states should remove Jim Crow era laws as they are outdated and very racist. However, I'm not sure if the editorial helps my argue the topic better though

4 While I agree that the country needs a tax reform, however I not sure that editorial provides any solutions to this problem expect disagreeing with the Bush Administration.

4 "I have also believed that our governement needs an outside, non partisan, non affiliated group to critique what they are up to and speak for the American people at large. Although this group doesn't meet all of the criteria it does show promise.

4 I can remember reading an article like this. I was so upset over the cut of public broadcasting. I think it takes away something that many disadvantage children desperately need. Everyone of those show features learning both academic and social and it has (...)

4 I hadn't thought much about this issue. I picked "reinforced " because I agree and found this helpful.

4 Again not something I knew much about, but I picked "reinforce" because I agreed and found the article interesting.

5 Brazil is saving lives. Patents for drugs that can save lives should be open for anyone. People need this medication and will die without it. Bravo Brazil for not being afraid of American backlash.

5 This made a lot of sensible points about how to incentivize recycling.

5 This made a lot of good points about how to incentivize recycling.

3 I didn't really see a point to agree or disagree with here.

5 I already answered this one! Good article about how to keep people recycling.

3 I didn't have a stance on this issue.

2 I'm usually against spraying chemicals, but this made a pretty good case for using them to fight ticks.

2 I love this idea and hadn't heard it before.

4 I agree with the basic idea, and there were some new details in there.

3 This article is so specific to its time and place that it is hard to relate to now.

3 This article is too specific and I found it impossible to relate to.

4 I agree with this.

2 I would normally side with the unions but this article raised some good points about the need for reforms.

5 I sympathize with the people who lost family there, who want that to belong to the American people and not used as some symbol of vanity disguised as art.

3 I agree with the idea that when it comes to selecting who will be elected, both parties should take their time and investigate thoroughly.

4 I think that improving public transit and roads is great for everyone. However, states having debt problems that prevents any transit improvements is a big problems but passing bonds are necessarily a good idea since it involves more taxes that many may no (...)

2 While I agree with the author that more needs to be done about helping the third world. But I don't think just giving money is going to help in the long run, especially since the US government doesn't even do enough to help those in need in the US.

5 Modern unions are nothing more than rich people in charge of upset middle class and lower class. The system needs a reboot.

4 If you cannot get past your hatred of Bush, Trump, Clinton, or whoever, it's impossible to have a meaningful discussion about anything, even something as pressing as a rogue nuclear state.

5 "Why can't it just stay American? I don't think anything not truly American should be involved with the memorial, and I still stand by that today.

2 It's interesting how leaders, and people everywhere for that matter, sometimes make rash decisions then scramble for ways to support them

5 I agree that Bloomberg can be considered to be one of the best mayors of NYC, and his campaign shows that you don't need special interest group for donations. The editorial is an example of that special interest groups need to be limited in how much donati (...)

5 I think more needs to be done to allow fair trials for people accused of crimes. This editorial helps me argue the topic better as it puts it in terms that most people can understand.

4 Transparency is a good thing, even in something as simple as glass bottle deposits.

4 I saw this one twice...

5 There were problems with the aftermath and regime change in the Iraq war. And the editorial gives examples on what lessons the US government and military should learn, so they can be avoided if there is another conflict similar to the Iraq war.

4 I agree that the First Amendment should protect PBS. But you can't have your cake and eat it too. If you don't like what the feds are doing to PBS, don't take federal money.

4 If someone makes a slight effort, there's progress.

3 While I think it's horrible that the NYC transit workers had a walkout, I honestly don't have a stance either way on this topic.

2 Who has a Game Boy anymore? You can get them at flea markets for fifty cents lol. But seriously folks. The best point in this editorial was that if you're gonna tax Oreos you also need to tax crème brûlée. It's an equal protection under the law thing

3 I try to keep religion separate from politics, else situations like this occur.

5 I agree that more needs to be done about protecting civil liberties against the Patriot Act and that the act needs to be amended. However, the editorial didn't add anymore info that would allow me to make a better argument on the topic.

2 Once shoos start to go bad, a radical solution is probably in order. The problem gets real bad real fast.

5 Disabled rights are often unfortunately overlooked. The editorial posits as a good thing Mayor Bloomberg's proposal to provide for more wheelchair-accessible cabs in the city, as well as for more environmentally-friendly options.

2 How is the government fighting helping people who are sick? It doesn't look like it's punit to anyone because no one could have known when this stuff was put everywhere that this was going to happen. Just help the people who got sick from it.

3 If you don't want the government making broadcasting decisions, don't take government money. Why is that so hard for people to understand?

2 While I think that internet should be neutral and free, I disagree with net neutrality laws. The government has shown time and time again that it is highly incompetent with the internet (and that special interest groups tend to donate to congress members c (...))

3 Accurate school record-keeping is crucial but not an issue which lends itself well to a partisan analysis. However, states manipulating data to misrepresent school realities to the federal government is worrisome.

3 I think more need to be done with air pollution and that it's unfair that many people have to deal with out of state air pollution. However, I don't know if suing people will work as the editorial seems to believe.

4 I think that the US government should stay out affairs in the Middle East. This editorial somewhat shows that it is a bad idea however I don't think its helpful in my own arguments on this topic.

3 The editorial is likely from a conservative-leaning writer, as it describes Medicaid cuts as "brave." Additionally, I disagree with its deficit concerns. Many jurisdictions successfully run deficits.

4 I find the pay of all government workers low in general. The editorial tries to make hay of legislator salaries, but $79,000 does not go very far in New York, even in the suburbs. This editorial helped reinforce my general view that government salaries are (...)

4 While I think that this plan does unfairly favors one community over the other, this editorial has provided enough information to support my stance as it shows that Yorktown still hasn't overpower Peekskill.

5 As a fan of the show, this editorial seems to support my theory that Tony Soprano dies at the end of the series.

3 My view is and always has been that fixing the economy is now beyond our grasp. The only logical thing to do is to try a reset. It will hurt, but it will give the USA a second chance.

3 Administration sticking their heads in the sand and/or trying to change the answers they get from studies to better suit their agenda is nothing new.

5 Katrina rocked this country in a way that can only be compared to 9/11 or Pearl Harbor, except this time it was mother nature herself. I only hope that the government learned how to better respond in the future when the next natural disaster strikes.

4 This editorial takes the stance that the Long Island Bay is worth preserving. I agree with the clam restocking effort, despite the acknowledged difficulties.

4 The issue of cronyism and conflicts of interest should be taken seriously. The editorial proposes just that, and uses examples such as unspecified dental clinics and youth centers as examples of phantom money in these so-called "007 accounts.";91;"";"2018-05-06 22:34:34.280344+02

3 Campaigns are often ugly and politicians resorting to cheap shot attacks is not new. In this case, the editorial calls for a higher civility which will likely never materialize.

4 Pork barrel and conflict of interest spending is a problem confronting all levels of government. These so-called 007 accounts need accountability, as does all public money.

5 That Russia quickly devolved into an authoritarian regime after the hopeful 1990's is sad but unsurprising, given how quickly former Party elites solidified their privileged financial positions.

4 Gerrymandering is a huge problem for states. The editorial stresses that New York tends to gerrymander to favor incumbents, regardless of party. This is different from the Texas model but no less noxious.

3 I was aware of the problems that mentally ill inmates confront, including large rates of solitary confinement. New York's proposal, as the editorial opines, is a humane one.

4 Inflation is a problem, but as the editorial states, stagnating wages are the true culprit behind economic distress. An interest rate pause would do little to rectify that.

5 Academic publishing itself is a highly extortionist affair. That these particular journals published articles by researchers with such obvious conflict of interest is an outrage.

3 The internal power of state attorneys is often a political hot potato. That the Connecticut attorney situation is ripe for reform is not a surprise, and should be closely considered, as the editorial advises.

5 I didn't know about the connection between Rotary and polio. This story is a very good example of what a dedicated ngo can accomplish.

4 Politics even corrupts memorials to dead people.

4 A good summing up of the Israel Palestine mess.

4 There's no such thing as perfect. Typically pretty good is a worthwhile goal.

5 Some good examples of how drug companies hide information.

4 Maybe the mining lobby just saw a potential profit drop and made a knee jerk reaction. Or maybe they understood what was at stake and just didn't care.

4 It's sad that people are sometimes so petty that they don't care about collateral damage.

3 Very poetic piece but I really didn't see anything editorial...

5 A good discussion about the appropriate limits on eminent domain.

4 I see two issues here. First is the balance between pharmaceutical profits and safety; second is this group wants American money and also wants to ignore American policy influence.

3 Meh

3 Honestly, I feel like this article is very one sided and the author pretty much focused on slandering a religion that may or may not actually benefit from oil money.

3 The First Amendment has to be one of the most complex areas of the law. It seems like both sides usually have extremely valid arguments.

3 It looks like this person wants to turn the MTA subway into a police state...

3 This editorial seemed to skip around a lot...

2 Maybe the risks in space travel are a little more worthwhile than I thought...

5 This article further made me realize the effects of the oil money and how it promotes the Taliban and violence. It concerns me that the money they earn through the sale of oil can improve their nuclear bombs which could lead to a nuclear war.

4 I agree with the article that legislators need researchers. This article makes sense to me since a legislator is unable to know the everything about a bill and a researcher to fully investigate a topic would lead to legislators being more informed and mak (...)

4 I completely agree that there should not be ghost voting for legislators. A legislator is voted to represent its constituents and it is not beneficial when one can ghost vote and not be present to represent the people that voted him or her in.

1 I honestly did not have much information about this topic so it really made me rethink my views on this. It appears to me that Iraq needs to be independent of Iran for the benefit of their people.

5 Child trafficking is a serious issue in many countries; however, in areas such as Thailand which have so many orphaned children due to tsunamis it becomes an even more frightening statistic. It is imperative that we do everything we can to protect these ch (...)

5 Board members should always ensure that the organization is on track by assessing it on a daily basis.

4 The county has a problem and someone has to stand up and come up with a solution. The workers want to hide their mistakes at the expense of people's lives.

5 It is frightening to think of that because of the cost of water filters that water continues to contaminate people. There are too many people that can be harmed by this.

2 I feel that this article outlines that Bush is willing to instate a more humane way to treat illegal immigrants in our country and I agree that his conservative friends should support him in this. I also agree that a handful of people that sneak in may be (...)

5 It is horrible in this day and age that segregation still exists to this extent. As a teacher of all African-American children, I feel it is horrible to judge someone on the color of the skin and not have an equal opportunity for all.

4 When tourists visit such a place, they are risking their lives. They should balance their risks and rewards.

5 I completely disagree that a town refused to offer affordable housing due to the fact that it might attract a racially diverse demographic. I think it is sad that a town is not diverse and is geared towards a white affluent community.

5 Clean air is not only important to human beings but to a variety of plants and other animals. The two contestants should continue standing up for the environment.

4 I do not think an attorney general should be elected to represent the people if this is how he handles policies. As an attorney general, it is scary that he chose to get a boss out of jury duty and was involved in the cover up of a drunk driving incident.

4 I feel that American Sugar Refining should have to pay for polluting the water and I applaud Scenic Hudson for working hard to develop parks.

4 Countries should look come up with ways to save on their finances especially when it comes to the defense departments. Weapons are very expensive.

2 I agree with the Iraqi people and how they should fight in a political arena versus civil war and violence. I also agree with the idea the Iraqi should work to become more independent and not depend on the American military.

4 Counties should look for alternative ways to help such criminals instead of building more jails.

5 Mr. Gonzales never should have been voted for as attorney general due to his records. Clearly, he is not acting in ethical ways especially with the treatment of prisoners and should not have been voted for based on his ethnicity.

4 The President should continue standing up for what he believes is good for his country and citizens.

4 It is frightening to think that there was advance notice of the 9/11 attacks and it could have been prevented. This was such a horrible terror attack for our country and affected too many families with the loss of life.

4 Corruption should be investigated and those found guilty charged.

3 I feel that if taxes are to be raised it should reflect the earnings of the people. There should not be that much of a gap in the Social Security program.

4 The debate should go on until a wise decision is reached and agreed upon by both parties.

5 I can't believe in our country that is based on democracy that American intelligence has the ability to secretly detain prisoners. In addition to that, it is unbelievable to me that Congress can request documents and get stonewalled.

4 Communities are entitled to better and affordable housing

4 I think that the president of this bank should be a candidate that would be suitable and consider the countries around that world that are involved. Someone from another country should not be able to become a US citizen with the sole purpose of getting hir (...)

4 Provisional ballots are valid even if they are cast in the wrong place.

4 Mr Pataki should stand up for waht is right and fix the current mess.

4 A government that supports terrorism should not rule a democratic country.

4 I think that the election should be able to create a functioning democracy in Iraq.

4 Government officials should come up with ways to strengthen the power of the FDA

4 I feel it is the job of the President to pay attention to the markets and the value of the dollar. One of his main responsibilities is monitoring this and working to have America as a country that is not in a financial crisis.

4 The government should look come up with better ways to take its share in a private account without ditstabilizing the family through taking all the money.

4 Legislators should reform institutions and keep in mind their needs

4 The privacy laws should not really count when an offense has been committed. Hospitals should submit records in case of an irregularity.

4 Diverse nations should not appear to favor some religions and people.

4 "The government should come up with a coherent, publicly subsidized program of testing, counseling and treatment that would slow the spread of disease, both behind bars and after inmates were released.

4 I think a state's financial information should be accessible at all times. New York's debt tripled in 15 years and put the people in that state at a financial hardship.

4 An independent commission should be appointed.

4 The federal judiciary should be treated in a specialized way

2 Americans should be kept secure wherever they are by the government.

4 Legislators should not ask taxpayers to pay for such services

4 Legislators should not allow taxpayers to pay for such services

5 A president should not have the power to infringe on someone's civil rights and not have the right to put someone in jail indefinitely without the right to a trial. I agree that America should be acting with a sense of a moral compass.

4 America should work with democracies in Europe to create a peaceful environment

4 The Governor should sign it to change how things are done.

5 It clearly appears to me that these state employees broke a law and it appears to me that there are zero consequences because instead of facing them they left their jobs. I believe that they should be able to pursue former employees for any wrongdoing.

4 President Bush should reform all areas which are not yet operating optimally

4 The disagreement between the two official should be worked out soon

4 We should be good listeners for us to argue our points accurately

5 I do not agree with the rules of engagement for American soldiers whatsoever. I can't even fathom the amount of lives that were senselessly lost due to this. That car should have never been shot at or those children had to endure that.

4 Citizens should support the clean energy system for the country to prosper.

2 The repeal of federal estate tax should not happen if we are to maintain sound tax policies.

4 I am glad that Clear Skies that was proposed by President Bush did not pass. There should not be a bill that is instated by a President that would create an increase of soot by 70%.

4 Astronauts should be allowed to follow their dreams and explore t help people

4 "Real justice is the only way to redress injustice.

5 As a teacher that has to buy all of my classroom supplies and all of my students' supplies due to poverty and budget restraints, I find it appalling that 11.2 million was allowed to be stolen from these children and classroom.

2 We all want to stay healthy and active. Having a thin waistline will help us work better and achieve more.

4 A merged fire and police service will keep the city safe

4 It seems to be that a 4 day lag time to get results to see if there is anthrax isn't beneficial to protect those that could be potentially contaminated. Furthermore, for the workers to assume that all tests will be negative because they typically are is in (...)

2 I feel that Mr. Blair had a much better plan for Africa than the US including President Bush. I think the combination of providing aid to them along with helping them realize that they need to make better financial decisions leads to the best outcome for t (...)

4 Immigrants should come out of the shadowy world and be assisted.

2 I agree with the idea that a law can't be changed for one person; however, I do feel that her parents should have the right to make their own decisions regarding their daughter's medical care.

4 Mr Bush and Karzai should work together to achieve similar goals of interest

4 Africa needs assistance from developed countries for it to prosper

5 The Jets should be making bids based on the same "playing field" as all other bidders. They should not be the only bidders that get concessions.

4 The US and Pakistan should work together to achieve more.

4 America and the UN have much in common and will play a big role in the future.

3 It definitely does seem that there would have to be an adjustment in borders for Israel and the Palestinians for peace. I do give Bush kudos for trying to reach a peaceful agreement for all.

4 I think it is good that both of these Democrats started a plan to revise the election systems for the good of the people.

5 I do agree that artists should be paid for their work and music. There are some musicians that aren't as big as others and may depend on that money for their families.

4 I agree that these actions could lead to an arms race. It should not appear to other countries that the US is supporting these actions through the use of our jets.

2 I agree that this tax opens a door that could potentially be hard to close. While I agree that childhood obesity is a serious issue, I feel that this tax isn't the answer to this problem.

5 Gun laws have to be completely reformed. Politicians should not be voted in if they are supported by the NRA. Guns should not be allowed to be sold to be on terrorist watch groups.

4 As a teacher, it is my ethical responsibility to teach without my students knowing my own political beliefs while teaching government. I agree with the complaint of misconduct against this teacher and feel this class should have been better planned out to (...)

2 I always thought that athletes and marathon runners were more at risk for dehydration than for drinking too much water. I also thought that Gatorade contained sodium along with electrolytes so it is definitely puzzling to me on how this could be so harmful (...)

5 As a member of the wealthiest nation in the G8, I can't believe that the US was offering the least amount of aid. I feel that continuing to work and help allies is important to the future of their countries as well as the US.

5 These medical students should not be discriminated against based on their sexual orientation.

5 I agree that $80 billion in war aid when we have pressing issues in our own country is a misdirection of funds that could be used for our own people.

5 President Bush should not be taking more money out of the middle class while only taking 13% more out of someone's benefits that basically earns 3x as much.

3 I see both sides to this. His plan is simple and may work, also his attempt to do it the easy way may back fire and leave them even further in the lurch.

4 My first instinct would be to save the waterfront. After reading this article I say that is the case and hope that Mr. Pataki moves forward with his plan.

4 I am not a fan of some of the practices discussed such as ghost voting and bills getting passed without anyone really knowing what's written in them due to the emergency status farce. America is not a "new" country there is nothing that needs to be passed (...)

4 It's nice to see the "checks and balances" being allowed to actually work.

2 While I think that it's important for everyone to vote whether its in person or by absentee ballot, I disagree with this editorial. Because the people who were forced into exile by Katrina do not know if or when they will move back to New Orleans, I think (...)

4 I honestly do not pay a whole lot of attention to other countries political growth, there was information in this article I was only vaguely aware of so it did remind me that it doesn't hurt to pay a little better attention to politics in other countries.

3 I really don't have a stance on editorials being written about the different regions in the US, so this editorial neither challenged or reinforce anything for me.

4 I think the public should know how their tax money is being used, and that government officials shouldn't use tax payer money for their super secret pet projects. However I disagree somewhat with the New York State democrats as they just assume that the go (...)

4 I agree with the editorial that the Yankees should be paying for their new stadium out of their own pocket instead of having the tax payers pay for it.

2 While it's true that it would be nice for everyone to have health care, the government -- state or national -- shouldn't violate their citizens personal freedoms. First of all, how is the state going to pay for all of this. Also who is writing this law: in (...)

5 I agree with everything in this editorial. I can now argue about the topic better as it provides basic and universal key points on how any government, not just the state of New York, can improve their spending budget bills.

3 I really have no stances on how New York City runs their metro stations as I don't really know enough about it to form an opinion.

4 I think that the government should take care of its roads and other transit systems as people use them everyday. And I think that governments should reform problems that they may have as stated in this editorial.

2 While it's sad that day laborers are treated poorly by some, these day laborers still have to follow the law of the area they are located. They cannot just loiter in buildings at night or pee in the street as these things are frowned upon and/or illegal.

4 I agree there should be some reforms in New York state as it seems that campaign laws are being abused in New York based on this editorial.

3 I really don't have an opinion on how the state of New Jersey runs its government as I don't know enough about any problems the state might have at this point in time.

2 While I agree that schools should have good principals, the editorial doesn't address problems that many educators might have in these position. These things include horrible teachers who cannot be removed due to tenure and a focus on test scores instead o (...)

3 While I think that its good to reduce mercury levels, this editorial didn't challenge or reinforce any stance I have as I don't know enough about the technologies that are able to reduce mercury levels in the environment.

4 While it didn't provide information I wasn't already aware of, it did serve as a good reminder that humantrafficking in still a very huge problem and childrennof disasters are the most vulnerable.

4 I'm glad that the state of New York was able to reform some of the problems that the government faces.

4 I actually wasn't aware of this happening in Long Island, while I can see the point of saving money in an already drowning in debt country, I strongly feel that maintaining quality water sources rates above monetary savings.

4 Immigration is important, the government really doesn't have a clue how to handle immigration and citizenship though.

2 The husband knew her wife very well. However, if she could survive through the feeding tube, they wouldn't have removed it.

4 Technology will always evolve

4 Businesses should not be exempted from paying taxes

4 Terrorism will always be done. Every terrorist has a good reason for being what he/she is 4 Tough security and transportation laws should be enacted to curb terrorism.

4 Mr Karzadic should be captured to ensure peace is upheld.

4 Working together ensures work is done properly and peace is upheld

4 Governor Pataki should ensure that women use protection whenever they want to easily

4 Clean energy is vital for any nation to thrive

4 It is wise to give others a chance to lead while they can

4 Leaders around the world should do their best to inspire peace among their people

4 Justice and the rule of law should always prevail in every circumstance

5 Citizens of a big nation like the US always want answers

4 We need hope and strength to get going during difficult times

4 Honesty and accountability are the cornerstones of a great peaceful nation

4 Negotiations should be considered first before engaging in wars

4 Problems that exist should be acknowledged rather than ignored

2 Nuclear weapons are dangerous. They destroy our planet and thus should not even be created in the first place

4 Space explorations should be done however, they are not compulsory. No need to waste money exploring other planets when we have't solved problems on earth

4 Global warming should not be ignored. It will soon destroy the planet

4 The leaders should help those in need first because they have given their lives to them

4 Leaders should not expect citizens to bury their heads under the sand. they will soon find out what is going on

4 The most experienced and qualified judges should be chosen because they are going to handle very crucial matters

4 Security departments should work together to fight a common enemy

4 Focused leaders help their citizens by solving problems efficiently.

4 Big nations such the US have continued to help smaller nations get firmly grounded.

2 Global warming gases should be kept at bay to improve the environment

4 No none should suffer at the expense of another person

5 Global warming should be controlled. Fuel efficient vehicles will boost the environment

4 Israel needs a good leader just like other nations to enable it prosper

5 Severe action should be taken to control dangerous terrorists such as Saddam Hussein

3 I found this article interesting but still didnt change or challenge my stance

2 I think that this bill would be great and would really help the citizens of New York

5 I think it's a good idea for a state to try to reform their tax laws and I agree with this editorial. However, I'm not familiar with New Jersey so this editorial can't help me argue this topic better.

3 I dont think that you should possibly put people in harms way just to make some profit.

3 While it's quaint for places to be like it was prior to the industrial revolution, but I have no stance on this topic.

2 I think it's great that the state of New Jersey is trying to close their deficit however I disagree with the editorial over the regards of poor people. In fact, I think the editorial is hiding facts as it never states how much the new sales tax is, so you (...)

3 Other countries cannot be controlled as much as the United States and the United Nations may try. Things that happen in Iran are concerning but we aren't able to control what actions others take.

3 I never had a stance where the different boroughs of NYC dump their trash, in fact, I always assumed their was at least one center in each of the boroughs. This editorial neither challenged or reinforced any of my stances since I didn't have one in the fir (...)

4 I think that aggressive debt collecting is a problem that needs to be stopped. However, we need to find a way to make it easier for people to pay off their debts that involves other methods besides debt collectors.

5 While I, personally, procrastinate with budgeting my spending habits, I don't think that the government should do that. The reason is that a government should be more responsible than its citizens.

3 I don't know enough about this situation to have a stance. In fact, I don't think the editorial did a good job in explaining the situation to do those of us who have no stance on the matter.

3 Sadly America as a whole still struggles with fitting people into little compartments. The government can make laws regarding it but it won't stop until people as a whole shift their thinking. Racism isn't a political thing it's a people thing.

5 I think that throwing money at the problem isn't going to fix New Orleans problems as city officials need to make a clear plan to make sure that a disaster like Katrina doesn't happen again.

3 I had no idea that the FBI and CIA had such trouble communicating between the two agencies. It seems obvious that open lines of communication between the two organizations would help the country.

5 The information regarding the amount of individuals who develop this type of lung cancer and the link to smoking is important. People need to realize that smoking is taking years off their life.

2 While I do think that Americans tend to like bigger things, but I disagree with this editorial. I think that the bigger is better movement is a trend, and eventually the big cars and big houses will be out of style.

4 I'm pro long term tax reforms, however I don't know enough about New Jersey's laws. So I cannot know if the editorial is correct and New Jersey has to change its constitution to have long term tax reforms.

4 Leaked information and propaganda cause distractions and confusion among the American people. People believe what they see on the news, or read in the paper and tend to think less and follow more. The more different things that are happening the more confused (...)

5 I think that people in the government should do more for the people like stated in the editorial. The editorial does allow me to better argue the topic as it gives questions that people should ask those who were elected to serve.

5 I think we should preserve Paterson as it has a lot of history that is important to the US. And the editorial helps me argue this as it shows that it can bring in money to New Jersey.

4 I think the need for power is more important than any of the environmental issues that a power plant might cause as stated in the editorial.

3 I have never really had very strong feelings regarding nuclear weapons. I have trouble understanding why it's okay for the powers to have it and others not to. I think it's harmful.

5 I think it would be better for everyone if New York state had a limit in donations. This editorial shows that both parties complain about need campaign reforms while taking money from high donors which is hypocritical.

4 I really like what is happening in Virginia in this editorial. People need an incentive. People don't finish high school and need a way to get through. Getting a GED in 90 days or less is pretty impressive for someone who dropped out in the 9th grade. If I (...)

3 I really don't know much about New York politics to make a stance on this issue, even though it would be nice to see a few Republicans elected in the state government.

2 Searching people before allowing them in to crowded and potentially dangerous areas is an important part of keeping people safe in our world today.

Also, we need to limit people abilities to get these weapons. The easier it is to get the weapons the worse (...)

5 Congress always put some sort of special interest in bills, however this bill did have some great reforms. This editorial helps me argue the topic better as it details all the great reforms in the bill.

4 Pres. Bush did not have any plans for the UN. Complains and ruinations, but no solid ideas as what could create a better and more workable entity.

3 I don't know much about New York state poliitics to have a stance either way with this editorial. I don't have an opinion on the candidates that this editorial supports.

2 I am among those that feel Pluto is and should remain a part of the solar system as a planet. But this article challenged me because of how planet is defined.

2 While I don't think that charter schools are necessarily better than public schools, I disagree with this editorial in that the No Child Left Behind Act was a great idea in practice. But in reality the act was terrible.

5 This is a prime example of no change coming in America until there is a shift of thinking in people. No one is better than the next person. It takes all kinds to make the world go round and until everyone accepts others no matter their social standing it's (...)

2 I think that this is great that these two people can come together to try to improve things for the citizens

2 While I think that North Korea does not need nuclear weapons, I disagree with the editorial on how to disarm North Korea. I don't think being a diplomatic will work.

3 I did not support Gonzales being the attorney general for all of the mentioned reasons and more.

3 I don't have a stance on this editorial as I don't know enough about the candidate and the guy who had the job before him.

2 The editorial provided for me a clearer view as to why the factors inside Iraq may be a more powerful force to deal with as it relates to the political climate of the day than the external factors.

4 Make the fines for pollution higher. As of right now oil companies can spill in fresh waters and oceans and the fines are barely a slap on the hand for them. If the fines were bigger it would make them slow down and ensure pollution doesn't occur.

5 Countries in South Asia, even though many of them lack certain critical resources, should put more effort into protecting their children. The editorial shows that this can in fact be done (even under adverse conditions) and the international community shou (...)

4 Not because something is expensive or difficult to do, should the authorities be allowed to downplay its significance and urgency. Citizens should (and collectively through various lobby groups) demand accountability from these authorities.

4 Corruption in big business and government officials is something that I am never surprised by. Congress should impose regulations to protect American workers if corporations arent willing to do the best they can for their employees.

4 I agree that denying a shot Unocal by China creates further resentment, and frustrations between us and them.

2 I generally believe we need to stay out of other countries affairs, but it's nice to see them benefiting from having other countries step in to help them lay the ground work to a more peaceful life.

3 The issue of immigration reform has always been a "political tool" used by both sides of the political divide to win elections. There is no is easy fix they will soon admit, and then literally do very little (outside of talk) to make any real changes.

4 Racial divisions have been a feature of many Long Island (and many other US) suburban lifestyle. There are powerful (and some not so powerful) groups that have interest in maintaining this status quo, even in the face of seemingly Federal opposition. This (...)

4 America is so ready to jump in and tell other countries what they need to do. They are quick to talk and slow to action.

5 I had no idea that prisons get up to 60% of the collect call cost. They should move to the federal prisons way, yet I suppose that means only an inmate with money could call come. Those without wouldn't be able to call anywhere.

4 Oftentimes, public officials are not willing to make unpopular decisions for fear of repercussion from powerful economic and other local groups. Other times, they use public office to reinforce their own position on many social, political and economic issu (...)

4 The Chinese people being very industrious, the government should look after them

5 Religious beliefs and groups should not be allowed to influence the works of Global Fund if they contribute. Global Fund should remain committed to their vision and the goals that they have set out to meet.

4 Trade rules should consider poor countries as well

4 It shows that even politicians will resort to a play on emotions, or even draw the racial card, in order to support their position on an issue.

4 Land should be protected against mining activities to accommodate people

5 "The police understand what civil liberties mean in a democracy.

4 I really have no input on this, aside from I believe that any of our soldiers who choose to torture anyone during war should be punished accordingly and any higher ups who order them to do so should be punished as well.

4 Judicial elections help in rewarding legal acumen

2 The editorial made me rethink my original position that the US was caught off guard with the events of 9/11. It also uncovers the inefficient and bureaucratic processes that exist in the CIA.

4 It is important for the Judiciary to investigate the executive

4 Mr. Pataki should protect his papers while leading in the right manner

4 The government should ensure that important information is protected

4 Public information should be kept as a secret instead it should be shared for trust to grow

4 Aging Americans need to be assisted as they play a crucial role in the population

4 Reform is cheap in the long run but also time consuming

3 I think the description of the FEMA volunteers as cronies etc is so unfair. So many people volunteer to help and just because they don't know what they are doing doesn't mean that they aren't doing it for the right reasons. Maybe they needed better training (...)

4 Ways to accommodate full day sessions for children at preschool should be implemented

4 Immigration reforms should be humane and practical

4 Legislature should be the role model of the society

3 The editorial assumes the reader already knows intimately the topic being discussed so didn't bother to explain certain components of the workings, for example, of the private accounts. Additionally, at the end of the day, the solution to any fiscal problem (...)

4 Law makers should act as role models to the society

4 Change is a crucial factor when we think of development

4 Correct information should be gathered to have great results

4 The State department should keep public records open instead of disclosing them

4 State judges need a salary increase to work more effectively

4 I feel that the world bank should be ran much like a democracy. Allow those who it will affect to choose who will be running it.

3 I don't really have a stance on this.

3 Most officials are wishy washy and say what they need to to suit the purposes of the person asking. They want votes and will do anything sometimes to keep them.

4 Our country shouldn't need to borrow money to run. We need serious budgeting, which is something none of our presidents have accomplished.

5 Nothing that concerns the public should take place without the public's consent or input. Ever.

2 It is almost appalling to think that American leaders can display such arrogance and gross trivializing in the wake of such a delicate and controversial public and emotional issue - one that borders on gross human rights abuses, for which this same nation (...)

5 Gonzales should have never held the position he held and honestly I believe that even in war torture and abuse for any reason is 100% unacceptable.

5 There should be no escape clauses for anyone in a governmental level. If you do something you should not be doing then there should be consequences, especially when it affects the public you're supposed to be representing.

3 Voting is a constitutional right and it shouldn't matter if you have the money to buy an ID card or not. Several other options of identification should be accepted.

3 The things our soldiers had to deal with in Iraq are disturbing, the things the people of Iraq lived with are disturbing. I can't imagine the fear both had to deal with daily.

4 We need to learn from the experience in Katrina and better prepare for natural disasters of such magnitude.

2 Even the very name of the Bank is in opposition to the presidential selection process that it engages in, as put forward by the editorial. One often holds the view that these very visible, public and world renowned bodies would be subject to the scrutiny o (...)

4 Those in power like to surround themselves who have proven to be loyal and that have made them look good. They are not looking for anyone to questions them, or be innovative in anyway.

4 Clean air and clean water are often taken for granted in America. We need to create better plans to protect our resources.

3 Yet another editorial about Prs. Bush keeping his friends close, even when he says he needs progressive independent people.

4 Nature conservancy should be our top priority as a society

4 Secret accounts should be investigated as they promote corruption

3 During the time of Katrina helping the people overcome such a tremendous lost should have been the first thing on everyones mind. The GOV. should have stepped up and really helped the little guys in that situation.

5 While public school is important they are often granted too many privileges and should never be allowed this much freedom with the tax payers dollars.

4 Election results do not assure good governance. It is the winning parties ability and willingness to unite warring factions and to promote exclusivity that will guarantee this.

4 Intelligence should be respected and upheld

4 Intelligence should be respected and upheld

4 Leadership is not power but a form to help others express themselves

4 Competition will bring life to New York's legislature

4 Sadly, there will always be a threat of poisoning through the mail. I'm not sure what exactly people expect for officials to do aside from the measures they've already taken.

4 Better care is important for everyone to thrive today

4 The American economy is stagnating day by day. Actions need to be taken.

4 Journals should find authors who are free from conflict.

4 Corruption should always be investigated in public offices and those found guilty punished.

5 The markets of the East (including the Middle East) are a formidable economic power to reckon with. The US, with all its political power, is still greatly affected by the economic actions of these other nations.

4 Gov. does what is best for big business, not what is best for the little people or the country at large.

3 I believe stem cell research is a viable form of research that this nation is not taking advantage of.

4 Giving the death penalty to some one who donated to an organization without knowing the full extent of the organization movement in the terrosim area is insane.

2 The windfall tax would be a good thing if it could make movement towards other fuels besides oil. Those big companies do not need a tax break or a bailout.

4 Cutting off trade with a country is not one way to make friends. It causes enemies, resentment and worse aggressive tactics.

4 During war time no american citizen outside of those actively serving know what the government has planned using a horrible chemical that can burn for hours within the human body is disgusting and horrific and should have remained banned after Vietnam.

2 The editorial by showing the changes taking place, is uncovering the undemocratic nature in which large, organised state legislatures and other government bodies are run.

4 Risk based allocation of fund is a good starting point. But I wonder how exactly they are developing the formula to decide what place is at more risk than another.

4 As a nation, the US will always condemn Human Rights abuses when they are occurring in other sovereign nations. There are many times however when it happening right here at home and we turn a blind eye to it, justifying it with all kinds of excuses.

4 I am very wary of any industry left to monitor itself, however the arguments made for the new bill (as presented by the author) also make sense for greater flexibility in dealing with emergencies.

5 I am very against prisoner torture. I don't believe that it gets a solid confession or any other information.

3 As I have no connection to New York, I felt it was difficult to feeling persuaded one way or another. I am often apathetic to nonsense politics as I've experienced them all my life.

4 I believe surveillance of people without authorization and valid justification is not good. It is an invasion of privacy that our gov. takes part in far too much.

3 I don't agree with this article for myself, personally.

4 I feel I agree with this editorial, as each judicial case is extremely idiosyncratic in nature and should be handled as such.

4 I appreciate good work on environmental issues and this article demonstrates bi-partisan progress on an important issue.

3 The events in Turkey are awakening as it could be that way in America if things continue along the path they are.

3 I really have no stance on this. I fully support America in assisting Africa and other countries to get on their feet but keep in mind America is trillions of dollars in debt (maybe more) and you can't get milk from a turnip.

3 I really have no stance on this. I fully support America in assisting Africa and other countries to get on their feet but keep in mind America is trillions of dollars in debt (maybe more) and you can't get milk from a turnip.

2 I honestly don't believe that living on tubes and ventilators is any way to live, I also feel like in this case the Bush administration did not overstep. The case was brought to them by tpeople who live in this country and like a parent the told the state (...)

5 Our government is not responsible for finding anything sport related. You want a new stadium. You build it.

3 I really do not have much of a stance on this. I don't feel like religion and government mixes well, and it's not our place to tell other countries what to do.

3 I really do not have much of a stance on this. I don't feel like religion and government mixes well, and it's not our place to tell other countries what to do.

3 I really do not have much of a stance on this. I don't feel like religion and government mixes well, and it's not our place to tell other countries what to do.

3 I have no stance on this.

3 I have no stance on this.

4 There should be legal actions that people can take when people do not pay for their creative work. If you want free music and videos there are public broadcasting stations that do that. If you want to listen to the same song a million times over buy the mu (...)

4 I don't care if another country would sell these countries weapons of war, America should have taken the high ground and not done so.

2 It's not a bad idea. Make crap more expensive and people would be less likely to purchase it. Make good quality food cheaper and people would eat healthier. It's cheaper to buy a Twinkie than it is to buy a salad.

3 Criminals will be criminals whether we reinforce gun laws or not. Allstricter gun laws do is make it more difficult for law abiding citizens to exercise their right to bare arms.

3 I feel quite indifferent about French politics and was therefore uninterested.

3 He failed to provide anything about Bush that was new or noteworthy.

4 I think if the US wants to be a world leader in foreign aid, then it needs to step up.

3 Public officials should be made to be accountable for their actions while in office. This should be whether or not they have since demitted office. Let them resign/retire but persecute them non-the-less.

5 I think that it is crazy that the nation spends more on its military then another other in history. There is a lot more in the world that needs money too.

3 I think that our justice system in this country is very wrong.

3 This doesnt change my views

3 I think that if more information became available you would see that a lot of these people are doing things wrong.

1 My thought is that soldiers shouldn't arbritrarily engage because of the loss of human lives. This editorial stresses this sentiment but from the point of the psychological effect on the American soldier.

3 I really have no opinion on this matter.

3 This doesn't change my views on anything.

3 "I think that there should be laws when it comes to voting. It should all be done a certain way and the same way every time. No exceptions.

4 I think that it is insane the amount of money that these political people get to spend when the money should be going to what it is supposed to.

3 I really have no opinion about this.

3 I think that this new panel for the drug administration is a great idea. Hopefully, this will help with the prescription drug problems in the world. Its amazing to me that the doctors feed you these drugs but the side effects are crazy.

4 I think that it is insane for the government to tell you when you a retired person with a private account is allowed to start spending their money. These people have worked hard to be able to retire and they are told they have to do certain things before t (...)

5 Big Pharma takes advantage of the sick in America! Go Brazil!

5 It is frightening that in Brazil the politicians have more power than the government and that they feel an increase of 40% of deforestation is not an issue for their country and the Amazon.

5 First of all, the lawmakers that we vote into office should be reading bills that are before them and make an educated vote on each one. Secondly, the FBI should not be able to act and have subpoenas without the consultation with a judge or prosecutor sin (...)

4 Our government should be focused and held accountable for trying to protect our country from cyberattacks. It should absolutely have a plan for recovering key Internet functions in case of an attack.

5 The Jets stadium should not be allowed to be put in this area since it does not benefit taxpayers or the transit system. It seems to me that a safer and newer transit system seems to be a much better choice than a stadium.

2 I feel like in this day and age these things shouldn't be an issue. People should be able to have their beliefs without pushing them on to each other. The schools need to be more selective in who they have for teachers as well.

1 I had no idea about this. I had always believed that you were supposed to stay hydrated. This is definitely prompting further research.

4 It's great that the better off countries choose to donate and help the countries who are struggling.

2 I guess we are all interconnected...

4 Interesting point about Israeli military resources...

5 States rock

2 I fully support anyone who is gay. However, if you're gay why would you want to attend a school that is religion based? Neither should be forcing their beliefs on the other.

2 Sometimes its just time to move on...

2 Its not always easy to draw the line between realpolitik and selling your soul

3 Good comprehensive look at all the candidates

1 Very interesting....some new facts I didn't know...

4 I am so surprised by the fact that prisoners are being counted where they are imprisoned rather than their own place. I hope that this is changed. It makes voting and voting power a lie.

3 Many people in the workforce do not understand savings, 401k or any other terms in this editorial. Peoples parents are teaching them this, and no one else is either.

4 The relationship between the FDA and the companies it regulates has always been troubling to me...

3 This editorial made my head hurt

3 I'm no conspiracy theorist but its worrisome how loudly some people complain about voter ID laws

3 Zzzz

4 This is another case of the corporation taking advantage of the small guy to gather more profits.

3 Allowing immigrants to enter the US through legal channels should be an obvious choice for anyone in the government.

3 We live in a country where free speech should be supported. I agree with the idea that we need to disclose who we are representing when we speak, and that some things that we say may have repercussions.

3 Didn't even mention the First Amendment

4 The bit about delayed filing after storms was interesting...

3 Why do government agencies hire individuals who already have bad reputations to do jobs that are so vitally important to the American people.

3 Extreme nationalism is dangerous but it so rarely takes root that I don't get bent out of shape over it

3 "Quite the love fest for Bernanke..

4 Those second term blues are very hard to overcome. With no looming election lots of guys mail it in

3 Pretty conclusory stuff...

5 The Corps were not created to use as a political tool. Internal reform would be a great start, but creating an oversight committee on the national and state level would be an even better step.

5 It is appalling that Turkey is so backwards regarding the treatment of the mentally ill. Electric shock therapy on children, without anesthesia is downright barbaric.

5 Katrina was a horrible disaster, and this article only further deepens my view that the government, and the president, failed the gulf coast miserably.

5 To make a difference on the farming market worldwide, all the countries have to pull together to come up with a solution that benefits everyone, including and most importantly the smaller communities.

4 If they want to vote, then it should not be an issue to present identification and take the necessary steps. I support this law. It will help keep voter fraud to a minimum, something the USA desperately needs help with.

4 This country does need a better tax system. Bush administration damaged it greatly, having the gall to make his cuts permanent.

5 Any bill that did/does support improving the MTA deserves to be at the front line of all political agendas. Being a keystone in one of the biggest cities in the world, and relied on by many blue collar families, there is no reason it should be bypassed.

5 I can not understand why President Bush wouldn't take global warming more seriously. The staggering effects on our world is frightening and the rise in atmospheric temperatures should be a clear sign that this is an issue.

3 My stance remains the same. Hussein was committing genocide on a horrific level. IF nothing else, at least the USA helped make the world a safer place for many people.

5 Of course the lawmakers were more lenient regarding AIDS. It's a strong vote pull among the LGBT community. The MCC would have been the better option, but again, politics prevail.

2 The plan of the Freedom Tower can be a difficult topic to cover since 9/11 and the World Trade Center can be such an emotional topic for our country. I think it has to be built in order to honor those who lost their lives but still remain a tower built to (...)

3 More of an opinion piece, my stance is whoever does best for NYC, should stay in office. Simple as that.

2 I feel that all of the families should be heard in terms of building this tower. However, I do agree that it is too hard to appease everyone and no matter what not every family would be happy with the final design of the tower.

5 Changes do need to be made regarding the delays in the criminal justice system, but this is a fine line to traverse. Lawmakers in the present and future need to tread very carefully, so as to not violate all American's rights.

5 The war went as expected. the damage control needed after the fact however should have been anticipated and prepared for.

5 I find it very disturbing when a male or male lawmakers feel they have the right to make laws regarding a woman's body and her right to have an abortion. A woman should not be forced to carry a baby to term when they are dealing with issues such as rape or (...)

3 No new or noteworthy information involving my stance. The laws have changed so much since then, it's hard to believe at one time this country actually made an attempt at being moral.

3 I am torn on the subject of divorce. I do not believe in divorce personally but i do believe that people should have the ability to get a divorce quickly and cheaply especially if there are kids involved.

5 The United Nations has failed. It's become a group of people only seeking to keep the superpowers happy and the dissidents quiet. Fairness and equality for all nations has gone down the drain.

5 The White House should never be dishonest about a future Supreme Court judge's beliefs or affiliations because they are voted in based on how they stand on many issues. The people should be fully aware of their politics and legal philosophies.

3 The tax system in the USA is in major need of an overhaul. This article only goes to prove that for me.

5 Now the table shave turned. China actually leads the US on taking steps toward protecting the environment. The US should have been helping the environment years ago.

5 States that offer no fault divorce are better for women. There are fewer suicides, domestic abuse cases, and females murdered by spouses. I am pro no fault divorce.

5 Mr. Toussaint let it get personal. As the leader, with that much power over so many people's daily lives, he should have accepted the deal. Unions are no longer seeking fairness for all their employees, but rather have become greedy.

5 The 'gag order' is necessary to protect the investigations. If investigations into terrorist activities were open and available for all to see, would that not lead to disaster?

5 Internet neutrality is necessary for the development of modern society.

5 It makes perfect sense, the other plants should be regulated, and it's no big secret that their pollution affects everyone in the vicinity.

5 As a member of a union for the working class, unions need to support the working class. Unions need to work for its members, the men and the women who work hard each day for their paychecks.

5 A board member such as this woman should not be misleading others and not representing the facts of the memorial. The important aspect of the Freedom Tower is to honor those whose lives were lost on 9/11.

2 For the sake of this country, I would hope this leader works to bring justice to those who have been unjustly accused of crimes.

4 Justice Sunday is doing an inservice to those who are participating since they are offering opinions about the works of judges and are not facts. I agree that our system should continue to work in the manner of a check and balance system.

5 I feel that more Americans should focus on buying American made products when possible in order to not run into these deficit gaps and be able to create a stronger economy in our own country and promote more jobs.

3 I found no new or noteworthy information.

5 I am disturbed as to why Bush would implement a study that costs 2-3 million when the park is already 23 million in debt. How is he able to waste that kind of money when the first 3 studies found the better choice for travel to Yellowstone.

5 At the time of such a devastating natural disaster, our President should have left his vacation to visit the state and assess the damage. It is heartwarming however, to hear of the people who helped one another in the wake of this disaster.

2 I do feel that the people of Louisiana should have been given the money that they were entitled to in the wake of this devastating natural disaster. However, since the Army Corps had been receiving that kind of money maybe there should be some oversight on (...)

5 It is frightening that a country can treat their people in such a painful, harmful way. Turkey should be focused on how to care for their mentally disabled and provide therapy and counseling for their people and their children.

2 If Bush vowed to try and jump start their economy and vow to end racial financial inequalities, why is he not going through with what he stated he was going to do?

4 Politicians should be looking out for the US farmers when selling to other countries so they are able to make a living and be able to cover all of their costs of production.

5 There definitely should not be a $20 fee charged to those who want to vote. I agree that it is trying to target groups who they feel will not vote due to the fee and lack of funds and I feel it is unconstitutional.

4 I do not like how President Bush has issued a tax reform that has included tax cuts that benefit the wealthy. This is one of the main problem with our economy and why the working class can never seem to get ahead.

4 I think New York is making a fiscally responsible solution to their commuting problem and issues in their state. The state's debt would not mount higher due to this project and the debt definitely seemed to be contracted by the state authorities and not by (...)

2 While I agree the things happening in Nigeria are not good, I have trouble with the idea that it is Pres. Bush responsibility to inform the leaders that he should/shouldnt do anything. It seems presumptuous to think that Nigerias Pres. will listen to anyth (...)

2 As Americans, we look to our government to accurately inform us on all issues. Clearly, they did not find weapons of mass destruction as they had told the American people they would. As a Democrat though, they never should have approved a political deal an (...)

3 This editorial felt contrived to me. Watching television shows, or sports broadcasts are not what make us feel connect to the world. We are not creating an island based on our own preferences. There are other things happening in the world besides the final (...)

2 I feel that it does appear the Bush had done more for Africa than Clinton; however, I feel that he should be doing more and torture at American prisons definitely should be banned and that should be enforced.

3 This editorial didn't affect my stance on our border security.

4 New York has the opportunity to create something meaningful for the people of New York out of the tragedy of 9/11. Having a summit and meetings without the wants/needs of the people in mind and voiced is pointless and meaningless.

2 I don't feel that one could always assume that a large margin of victory equates to a politician that doesn't work hard enough for the people. However, I agree with the article when it points out that politicians with more money should not be the winner. T (...)

4 I wish there were more communities willing to think of preserving the land and leasing it to farmers. We need to support our land, support our farmers, and protect what wilderness we have left. House developments need to be fixed up rather than just leave (...)

4 Jurors should never be excluded due to their race as this is a clear cut case of discrimination. The Streamlined Procedures Act should also never prevent a court from reviewing capital cases.

4 Another editorial pointing out the flaws of big business. When companies look for employees over sees, who loses? The Americans who are now unemployed.

4 New York needs to get things moving regarding family members of adult incapacitated patients being able to make choices for them without living wills. It is a shame and horrible to think of someone you love suffering and not being able to do anything about (...)

4 This supports my stance on personal wealth being needed to maintain a library.

3 I find it curious that the editorial hints at a link between the pesticides and the lobster die off, but doesn't wonder about what consequences those pesticides could have on the other wildlife, including humans in the area. The poisoning doesn't just stop (...)

4 I love the idea of the Bigger Better Bottle Law. Why not pay people to bring in the cans, bottles etc that they have used or found on the street. It gives people without the ability to do other jobs a job that not only can pay, but also help the environmen (...)

4 This article made me want cameras around even more.

3 Steps taken to help create an opportunity for all residents to vote whether in state or not is a fair move and well deserved.

4 I agree that the Bigger Better Bottle Law is great for the environment, cleans up otherwise trashy communities, and provides a small but possibly substantial income for those who would otherwise not have any work.

3 Holding on to traditions and keeping things that remind us of our past are important and should be respected, but in this situation i think that they should have tried both. It could have saved money that could have went else where.

4 The bigger better bottle law is a great choice for the community, the environment, and people who otherwise may have no income at all.

4 The government works with those that support them and their agenda whether or not that agenda is what is best for the common good of all.

3 I think in a case like this with 5 years of research soon to be published it is important to wait and see what the consequences of using the pollutants in the area would be for everyone involved, including the deer.

5 It's truly infuriating that they throw frivolous crap that the government shouldn't even be paying for in with truly important matters that they know will be approved just to pass their personal agendas.

5 At the rate we are going there will be no social security, it's best for those in the working world to make sure to set money aside because there's not going to be anything left by the time our government gets done messing with it.

5 Our justice system is flawed on many levels, this being one of them. Yes, DNA can be helpful but it has to be backed by solid evidence and proof.

3 I think it is potentially a good idea to create a senior living area on a college campus. Before making a decision i think it is important that they look at other areas that have done it successful and explore what issues they may face.

4 Lobbying and earmarking are not new ideas. It is important for the people to be aware of this happening and use our combined voices to make an impact to stop it.

5 It's great that this program exists, however it should be allowed to work at its fullest potential. Donors are important but they should not have a say in the materials used to help, leave that to the professionals.

3 This editorial made me think of how difficult it must be for an official who is not a part of the group to be allowed to move up. This guy needs to get back to his community and keep things going there like I am sure he promised.

4 The state needs to have more control over its own electric prices. They need to be regulatory dependent on their states needs.

3 It's infuriating that people give so little caring about the environment, anything to make a quick dollar.

5 Hospital records in regards to deaths is a very important information to have.

2 I tend to feel that America should tend to its own people first and foremost. But in this situation I feel it is important to encourage Hamas to accept the ground rules already accepted by Egypt etc. Again, I think encouragement should be in a positive way (...)

5 The patriot act was just one giant step in the wrong direction. I sadly think more lawmakers pass laws without actually reading them more often than not. If they aren't going to take the time to learn what they are making laws about they shouldn't be allow (...)

3 I think the states fiscal mess is something the state should deal with and that Union leaders are meant to support the peoples best interest.

4 The government doesn't take cyber warfare seriously, and they won't until something happens and they HAVE to take it seriously.

3 I really have no stance on this outside of feeling like the government shouldn't be involved in building new sports stadiums.

3 This has not changed my mind on the need for our country make nice with other countries.

4 Companies should be taking care of their people. Not the taxpayers job to fix it.

4 Focusing on cleaner fuels is good. Controlling emissions I don't think is ever actually going to work.

4 Focusing on cleaner fuels is good. Controlling emissions I don't think is ever actually going to work.

1 I do believe we need to have the upper hand in weapons but this seems expensive and kind of silly.

5 The middle class always gets screwed. I don't even think anyone argues that point.

5 The India deal was the wrong message to send. A firm hand would have been a better approach regarding the matter.

2 I feel like we should be helping more

3 No new information in this article for me.

3 I don't think Americans will ever really be safe.

5 Agreed wholeheartedly. Not exactly the greatest way to start the season.

2 Umm. PBS Kids is all we let our son watch at this stage so this is confusing to me.

3 No new information for me, and unfortunately I am not a resident of the Big Apple, so little to no effect either.

5 Anytime taxpayers money is being spent by anyone in politics, it should be made available to the public. Every cent of it. To hide these ridiculous expenditures is just an embarrassment.

3 It kind of sounds like the guy doesn't plan on changing anything but I don't really have a stance on it I guess.

4 Bush was trying.

3 I think it is a huge waste of money either way, and a waste of space and resources that would be better used to help out the beleaguered MTA.

2 Medical marijuana would do more.

5 We rely on leaks!

5 It is an unwarranted step into people's rights. The government has no right to force us to pay for something that hardly helps in the event of an emergency anyways. The only people coming out on top of this are the insurance companies and the politicians w (...)

2 This didn't work so well.

5 Transparency, an absolute requirement when it comes to taxpayer's dollars and politicians. I will always support this idea.

5 Bring back American jobs!

1 I don't understand why they were having to watch themselves for anything in the name of public safety.

5 If they are illegal jail strikes, why isn't there a heftier punishment? Unions are about the money and power. Nothing like when they were first created.

5 I support the hard work put into making transparency a possibility in politics, specifically regarding NYC's budgeting and transportation.

3 They were rough on Bush but that distracted from the point for me.

5 I'm still torn up about losing Pluto. It will always be too soon.

5 I'm still torn up about losing Pluto. It will always be too soon.

4 We all know things need to change in how we treat our environment and everyone needs to do their part, it's not just on a governmental level.

4 I think that at the end of the day regulations to protect the environment should be shielded from commercial exploitation.

3 I am for politicians who don't just say what they're going to do to win elections, but actually do them.

4 I agree. This ruling can keep a lot of people out of jail and given another chance. The judges should be given the chance to prove this can work for the better.

3 It just stated that two candidates are both running with this issue in mind.

4 This is a bad idea and can only lead to big issues if persued.

3 I didn't really feel much from it.

4 I agree that it is the duty of rich nations to help those in need.

4 I agree with taking swift action when the lives of people are at stake.

4 I agree that reality shows nowadays take it too far with humiliating people for views.

4 I agree that if something begins to change, that is a good start. New officials should change the status quo.

4 I think sometimes you do have to take a gamble, especially if you think it could actually help the political state.

4 I agree that one of the best ways to help students excel no matter the background is to have teachers who are better qualified. Also to set a standard that that helps children excel rather than just making it by.

3 It didn't really speak to me.

4 I think that rules should be transparent and not benefit one side.

4 One you lose the moral high ground on something like torture its very hard to reclaim it

4 Strikes usually hurt everyone so they should only be a last resort

4 Industries that create the pollution in the first place, should be the ones that are made to pay for cleaning it up. This accountability should be legitimized through enforcing them through state laws.

4 Strongly biased, with just the right amount of ineptitude and ignorance. Crime rate is higher among day laborers such as this, and it's not because they're urinating in public. I believe the crackdown was/is the right thing, to take back some of the jobs f (...)

3 This doesnt change my views

3 This is wrong that powerful people can abuse their powers to harm others

3 I think that this is good

5 I agree that lobbyists have too much power. Bigger corporations and individuals with more money than integrity have plagued the political scene for too long.

4 This country's prison system is not good. The justice system is very flawed.

2 My view has always been that not even auditors are to be given a free hand with public funds as is being suggested in this editorial. Additionally, thieves in my view, will by their nature, spring up anywhere - not only in areas of affluence. This has b (...)

4 This issue should be handled better.

5 A program allowing the principles to retire on their highest salary year would be a great incentive for them to stay. Something should be done to keep the well experienced educators in the system.

3 This doesnt change my views on anything

3 You should always be able to get the help that you need from your country if you find yourself arrested.

4 As a nation (and individuals), we are more reactionary than we should be as it relates to issues within our experience that we should have under our control. When the perceived threat happens, the "blame game" begins.

3 I think that the funding should be available to find cures for these lifelong diseases.

3 I think that it is important for there to be funding to find cures for lifelong illnesses.

4 Saving the environment is essential to preserving the next generation's future here in the USA, and Mr. Pataki took great steps to make sure this happens.

3 This is just politics, only someone who is incredibly naive or foolish would believe that US would send $B in aid when there are so many other things to take care of back at home.

5 Every American deserves to know where every single dollar is going when the government, state or federal, is spending it.

3 Providing support to individuals or countries on particular issues, does not guarantee that they will support you on other issues when your need arise. Issues of development in Africa are always glorified issues to discuss but oftentimes begs for serious a (...)

2 This article appears to be quite old, although there is a lot of cheaply produced meat in the US, there is also a lot of organic/free range/ethically sourced meat available. It is a matter of economics.

3 America is a complex country, the objections to gay marriage (an abortions) come from religious reasoning. Religion has no place in government, however politicians fear an electorate largely made up of religious zealots.

5 Combining the resources of two towns or separate neighborhoods, but not sacrificing their individual identities, is no small feat. But as the writer says, it is a step in the right direction.

3 Perhaps it is a positive symbol, but coyotes are also well adapted to scrounging throughout even the biggest cities. Preserving farmland is a homeland security issue, self reliance is a necessity should another world war break out.

2 I knew nothing about Spano before reading this article.

5 Generally speaking, there are no ethics in US politics.

3 Too much power for one man, that is why we have the Assembly. Asserting his dominance is the least of his concerns.

5 The chokepoints are evident in this situation. The best option is indeed to open up more exits to help alleviate this.

5 Any district in the US with a low crime rate should be praised for it's policing, not criticized.

2 I have never known government to be open or transparent about anything.

4 There are persons who will be made to operate above the law - even if it means changing the law to suit them - just by virtue of their political influence, their economic status or their social or family associations; sometimes a combination of any or all (...)

3 This is an old article, nowadays practically every student graduating high school is expected to go to college whether or not they are academically gifted. This has left us with an entire generation of people who expect more from life than they can actual (...)

3 Which ever lobbyist pays most wins, this is how US politics is operated. Until lobbying is outlawed it will never change.

1 I actually thought pensions were like little nest eggs of money that employers set aside. I had no idea it had anything to do with investments.

3 I'm not sure if it challenged or not. If we have an oil supply, why are gas prices going up every time we tick someone off?!

3 America should work with decomcracies

4 You can't beat someone who isn't fighting fair. You can only be prepared to defend yourselves.

3 I don't understand how this is news.

3 I think they make too much money with too many bonuses and too much power

5 There are issues at all levels but only one guy/program is ever going to take the fall. It's the American way.

4 The office of president was obviously overwhelming for Bush, he focused on matters that won him popularity with the majority of US voters.

1 I was always of the view that certain state contracts (especially those of particular values) had to stand up to scrutiny and would not be made to be completed unless the process was deemed to be fair and ethical - offering the same information and opportu (...)

2 With the entire industry at risk, any large scale testing would be at risk of hidden results should infected cattle be found.

5 Nowadays news channels only report facts and in some case alternative facts that support their narrative. There is no real news anymore.

4 Wolfowitz was a bad choice, given his affair with Shaha Ali Riza and appointing two former Bush Administration members: Robin Cleveland and Kevin Kellems as advisors on $250K tax free contracts.

4 Border disputes are always very controversial with all sides claiming legitimacy to their perceived borders. The Israeli/Palestinian dispute is so deeply entrenched in history, religion and politics that covert diplomacy will not be the fix. This peace tre (...)

2 In my opinion Justice Scalia was one of the best supporters and defenders of the constitution until his death.

3 I'm not clear on what point is trying to be made by this article

4 At this point it was true that the Bush administration could not find the right 'man for the job'.

5 The US has a track record of failing to look after people harmed by it's neglect or incompetence.

4 It takes more than words and policies to change things but it's a step in the right direction.

3 I have no knowledge or opinion on the subject of this article.

5 Illegal immigration continues to be a hot topic because the Bush Administration and any subsequent administration has failed to implement a real solution.

3 I thought this editorial was really going to move me but it seemed to fall flat

3 I didn't have any opinion on this beforehand.

3 Sound and fury signifying nothing

4 This article supported my view of bad financial decisions that had previously been made by New York and other states.

5 This article provided explanations for why no child left behind was a complete failure.

5 I knew long pretrial detention was a serious problem in America but the foreign examples were new to me

1 I had previously been opposed to higher tech voting machines because i think the concept of voter fraud is way exaggerated but this article brought up good points about the security of the machines.

4 Transparency is almos always good

3 Good reform roadmap about an issue I don't particularly care about

3 Next....

2 I am not knowledgeable on how the MoMA and Library is funded, but these artworks should remain in public hands and concessions from the state or federal government should assure this.

5 Excessive force is evident in policing throughout the US, unfortunately, it seems that only video evidence is possible means to refute testimony.

3 I think that it is very important to keep up the roads, parks, etc.

3 I think that this is a good idea

3 This does not change my views on anything

3 The Green Choice program is a good, smart idea

4 The nations estate tax needs some work

3 I think that it is very important to support the space exploration plan.

4 It is often stated that the US has teh best healthcare in the world, in reality healthcare is only good if you can afford it.

4 I agree with the article, but it didn't provide any new point.

5 This article helps provide specific actions or inactions by Bush that resulted in the recession and fall of the dollar.

5 Large corporations should not be supported by any government to escape their responsibilities to their employees.

2 I was skeptical of mad cow disease being as much of a threat as this article states.

5 This article provided examples of propaganda passed off as real news which i believe was and does continue to be a major problem.

4 I think "only the best" may just mean people who try, can pass a drug test, and don't abuse the system.

4 Okay I literally rolled my eyes. The dead may not want their pictures taken people and seriously presidents can't win in these situations. If they show up they are taking away rescue workers and if they don't they are heartless.

1 I thought Arnold was a Democrat and why is gay marriage such a big deal?!
We have always had bigger fish to fry.

4 I agreed with the article that Wolfowitz was a bad choice.

5 No fraud at the polls? That's hilarious!

5 This article provided examples of why Justice Scalia is unreasonable in his assessment of the constitution and i strongly disagree with his opinions.

3 Well, I don't know what to say. I've always felt that it was really a tragedy and I struggle with how to say this. The Titanic was supposed to be unsinkable and its failure taught us how to build better ships.

4 This article provided examples of New York state's fiscal mismanagement, solidifying my negative opinion.

4 I agree, a properly drawn energy bill has the potential to do much good.

5 You know, Obama wasn't really well known when we elected him to the nation's highest office. Aren't most government appointments made based on some form of nepotism? Come on now.

4 Continued investment into weapons development does nothing to further peace or diplomacy apart from on the terms of the person holding the greater weapon.

5 Almost every president appoints their "pals". The media only says it like that when they don't like a president. When it's a president they like it goes "Title, good friend and confidant" or something to that effect.

2 Any form of income tax is unfair, rather than taxing the people, the corporations should be taxed efficiently based on global revenue and the working man, whether rich or poor, should not be burdened with taxation.

4 This article provided examples of why the treasury needed to be improved

3 I don't believe international aid to foreign countries has a benefit anywhere near its cost.

5 Rich prosper at the expense of others.

3 I don't really have an opinion on this.

4 But some of the most deadly bombs have been made without chemicals. What about Oklahoma? Are you outlawing manure?

3 I believe stem cells come from the umbilical chord and I donated my son's.
If it can help someone then I guess I don't see the harm but I don't understand science well enough to get this from either angle.

3 The 'security' measures implemented focused on the wrong targets and did little to prevent further attacks.

5 If you have nothing to hide, why is this a problem?

5 If you have nothing to hide, why is this a problem?

4 This article somewhat reinforced my existing beliefs of the problems associated with an almost entirely white police force in Long Island.

3 Gas prices confuse me.

5 But more Americans would have jobs if fewer things were made in China.

1 I had no idea we engaged in chemical warfare. This just kind of crushed my spirit.

1 I had no idea we engaged in chemical warfare. This just kind of crushed my spirit.

2 I personally don't like publicly funded TV. Many programs are often sold worldwide, but the money raised from such sales only props up these mis-managed institutions.

4 I have no respect for big pharma and would actively support anyone who can circumnavigate their patents legally.

3 All this past rhetoric and thought essentially did nothing.

3 I don't have an opinion on this.

2 I don't believe that the creation of the National Security Service has benefited the peace or security of the US.

2 This challenged my views because it painted Bush in a compassionate light and provided support for the Real ID bill which I think is a waste of time and resources.

5 Simple: The best cure for lung cancer is to prevent it, by not smoking.

4 Rove was clearly caught here and eventually resigned but repeatedly ignored subpoenas to appear before congress.

5 I agree that a strong nonproliferation policy is needed.

2 It's hard to go from an F to an A like that. Something doesn't seem right with this. I feel like maybe something isn't reading right for me,

1 I was unaware of Gov Warner's program but it is an interesting alternative to the standard imposing of tariffs.

3 I have no knowledge of or opinion on Nigeria.

5 Okay maybe it doesn't help but my stance remains. Torture doesn't work because people will say anything to stop it or nothing until they die. If they talk you could waste time and resources chasing a lie. I feel like people given permission to torture must (...)

5 People will still disagree. If you have nothing to hide, why do you care?

3 Unfortunately terrorists of today tend to look Arab or South Asian. Searching the backpacks of people matching this description is not racial profiling, it's just increasing the chances of finding a terrorist.

3 I just have no opinion on Turkish law in Turkey.

5 I have known that Mr. Bush clearly had little respect for either the United Nations or international diplomacy in general long before he left office.

2 If convicted of a felony you can't even vote so I don't understand what this has to do with voting.

3 I'm sorry I just don't understand 401k stuff. Maybe if my husband gets a job with benefits or we get out of debt and can start saving, but right now we are more in the in over our heads category. I was back then too, only with way bigger problems.

3 I'm sorry I just don't understand 401k stuff. Maybe if my husband gets a job with benefits or we get out of debt and can start saving, but right now we are more in the in over our heads category. I was back then too, only with way bigger problems.

4 Okay I didn't have a stance, but seriously the airline situation has been getting worse and slowest. I don't even deal with flying anymore.

2 I feel like we need to make this process a bit more flexible. I don't like illegal immigrants coming here anymore than the next guy, but if the channel to legalization is this difficult...but I still disagree with it because it's illegal.

5 You cannot limit free speech in any way because it is a slippery slope to taking away our rights.

3 I didn't have a stance to support or sway but I see why they are doing it.

5 This ticks me off.

5 This ticks me off.

5 This ticks me off!

5 Two terms is enough!

3 I don't watch sports and I have a three year old. Daniel Tiger gets predictable after a while anyway and I don't have time to care about spoilers.

4 A bill like that could theoretically block a huge development over a sliver of land. That's ridiculous.

3 When you use inflammatory words like "unconscionable" and buzzwords like "family friendly" you lose me.

3 Meh

3 My math isn't too good but if you spend 33 percent on abstinence doesn't that leave 66 percent for condoms? And isn't abstinence and fidelity two thirds of the ABC doctrine this writer embraced?

4 Good editorial about housing discrimination

3 I still think it should have been left alone and made a monument but they are removing a lot of monuments now.

2 It was his land, but we need to be able to grow food.

4 We need more blue collar Americans.

5 Husband and I really need to fill out that paperwork.

3 I think this is environmental. Maybe it's job related. I think it was trying to be cute about it though.

3 I think this is environmental. Maybe it's job related. I think it was trying to be cute about it though.

2 We pay for a recycling bin. I actually tried saving glass bottles, things I would get a bit back for in California, and such and that doesn't happen in Texas. I asked around and people would recycle more if there were some sort of financial incentive but r (...)

2 I just answered this

3 I have never had the pleasure of visiting a full service gas station. Must be nice to have that to complain about.

2 This is the third time this article has come through.

3 Pluto was official classified a dwarf planet on 2006.

4 I think "only the best" may just mean people who try, can pass a drug test, and don't abuse the system.

4 I think that killing a disease spreading parasite is a good thing.

2 Ummm. I don't know if it challenged a stance, but when I'm old do not put me on a college campus. I live in a college town at 35 and get cranky.

5 Pensions just as health care is a farce in the US, benefitting insurance companies more than the people.

5 Politicians are criminals prosecuting criminals.

2 I had assumed US/China relations were stable.

4 He obviously has supporters. It's a democracy so you can't write him out of the race.

3 Why aren't we funding more wind and solar power?

4 There is only so much you can do when one country won't talk peace.

4 Unions apparently need better management

3 I'm confused

2 I think the best idea here is to train teachers! Fund that and fund schools. Stop teaching tests so kids can learn skills.

2 Pointless rhetoric of almost two decades ago and the Taliban and US forces continue to battle.

2 Inmates' families already support the prison system through their taxes, makes the assumption that the inmate's family pay taxes. It's the taxes that all society pays that supports the prison system and it is crimes against this society that has caused th (...)

1 I wasn't previously aware of this.

4 I believe organizations should rely on a combination of government and private funding and always maintain alternate funding sources.

5 Bush's inaction after Katrina was shameful and politically motivated.

5 This article provides examples of why police should absolutely be more carefully monitored.

4 Provided information about the failings of state oversight and accountability that many states are lacking.

4 The Bush administration was not strong with their foreign policy.

3 Politicians in the US will always be afraid of the backlash of an electorate largely made up of religious zealots.

5 United is a prime example of the outrageous breaks that congress gives to corporations without any accountability.

5 The Bush administration failed completely at addressing global warming as this article illustrates.

5 The Bush administration failed completely at addressing global warming as this article illustrates.

5 I agree with the article hag a unilateral agreement of banning space weapons is much safer than any alternative.

5 I strongly agree with the article about providing more assistance to middle income filers and the article provides good examples of how the rich benefit from the tax system.

3 Old news, and no longer an issue.

2 I have mixed feelings on this subject. I agree that it is important to help out needy people around the world but i also feel like it's more important to take care of domestic issues first. This article challenges my ideas by illustrating how little the US (...)

1 I had felt that after 9/11 the Bush administration went way overboard with excessive security measures. I was not aware there were still so many holes.

4 The article reinforced my belief in the importance of public broadcasting.

5 This article provides examples of the effectiveness of Brazil's health program that saves lives and I oppose the US' obsession with patented medicine for profit.

1 I was aware of the failure, but I was not aware that the Corps of Engineers had been blamed.

3 I already thought English only was kinda xenophobic...

3 Public money should be used sparingly to support professional sports but $10 million is peanuts

3 Commuter trains must be a northeast thing...

3 Snore

5 This is such a huge problem and I don't know why it hasn't been addressed by now. Basic mental health care for all is something that needs to happen.

5 This is such a huge problem and I don't know why it hasn't been addressed by now. Basic mental health care for all is something that needs to happen.

3 I do not have a hard stance on this. It really seems like a lot to spend on a monument though. Our country is in massive debt and they just keep going deeper and deeper.

4 It's sad when people can't even come together for something like a memorial without censuring each other.

3 Most members of the Republican party rejected the nomination and Samuel Alito was the nominee who eventually became the Associate Justice.

3 Bernanke succeeded Greenspan and was the best choice.

2 The government should have helped the people in the wake of Katrina, however, there is no reason why any tax code needed to be changed, poor fiscal management is the reason why there isn't adequate reserves in such cases and these should be addressed.

2 The laws are so confusing how are immigrants supposed to change their status?

4 We elect officials who are supposed to have our best interests at heart and complain because politicians are not honest. Then we're surprised when politicians manado ploicy choices. This is a great example.

3 Many of the scenarios painted in the post 911 era were straight out of Hollywood movies rather than based in reality.

4 I lived in California then. Smog was a problem and this was a good idea. I'm not sure how well it worked because people cheated constantly to not have to pay.

5 So called ethical objections to stem cell research are based in religion. Until we take religion out of politics, human kind will never reach their full potential.

2 It challenges me that medicine is run like a business

3 I guess I don't see why it matters how campaign funds are used as long as it's legal.

3 I don't understand how the dollar gets weaker.

3 I don't understand how the dollar gets weaker.

5 The eradication of civil liberties in the US and other western countries since 9/11 has essentially given the terrorists what they wanted to achieve. Their actions were a direct attack on our a way of life and our freedom, and our freedoms were taken away (...)

3 Its exasperating that a government's only solution to any problem is taxation.

2 Political relations with China are far beyond my comprehension.

2 very worrying.

4 Federal government tends to do nothing against state legislature unless under incredible public pressure, or unless the President has no other choice.

3 I guess I don't have a stance

4 I agree that Europe and the US didn't do enough to come to a solution about Iran.

3 This didn't provide any new information that affected my opinion one way or another.

4 Governments should not be able to just lock you up without showing cause to a court, that's obvious in any society that claims to be free.

3 This article didn't present any new information that affected my opinion.

5 I never Judge Roberts and was not happy that he was nominated to sit on the Supreme Court.

4 So why doesn't congress take back the power to spy on Americans?

4 I agree that government officials should be more transparent.

5 This article provided solid evidence against the contradictory standpoint that the Bush administration had about nuclear powers.

5 This article provides a great alternative option to trade tariffs to keep job, something that is equally applicable today.

2 I felt like after the London bombings and after 9/11 there were excessive security measures already taken.

5 I strongly agree that Mr Bolton is not a good candidate as exemplified by examples in the article.

3 Ultimately, international reaction to the trial, did nothing to prevent Pamuk from being found guilty.

1 I wasn't ware of this and if this has not been taken care of, it should be.

3 Instead of income tax, force people to save into a 401K that cannot be drawn against.

5 Judge Roberts did not deserve a nomination for the Supreme Court. While I liked Bush for the most part some of his choices really made me second guess his motives.

4 It's not just airlines, anyone seems to be able to advertise prices that do not reflect reality, nowadays.

3 This was really well written!

4 The only thing that makes an immigrant 'illegal' is the law.

4 Freedom of speech means you have to allow others to say what they feel, even if you don't agree with it.

4 Everyone is scared of the religious right in the US.

3 I can't even believe that they didn't have a no-fault divorce

3 Same article as number 80.

3 The freedom tower was built and the downtown area's usage has not changed that much from pre 9/11 so what did these talks actually achieve?

2 In the military we didn't get to store time like that. State employees here do though and that seems a little uneven.

2 In the military we didn't get to store time like that. State employees here do though and that seems a little uneven.

2 In the military we didn't get to store time like that. State employees here do though and that seems a little uneven.

4 The rules on eminent domain need to be revised, they are commonly abused.

4 There should be a buffer between politics and policy

5 They don't want to hurt anyone's feelings in an effort to stop drugs. They won't let addicts who visit the schools in awareness efforts tell "scary stories". Making kids thinner is more pleasing.

3 I can't tell if "housekeeping" is a euphemism for fraud.

5 Read the last two sentences forever. Argument over.

5 We need to make sure the elderly have dignity

5 Love this! I want to know what doctors get for prescribing as they do

5 I have always been in favor of legislature protecting our natural forests, since they are the only lungs our country, and our world has. And NOBODY will respect them unless there is an authority making sure it is respected. Unfortunately there are too many (...)

3 Same situation as with most politicians, they need to start working and stop talking.

5 I am glad to see that this guidelines are being more accesible now, it seemed unfair to me. Judges are supposed to be capable to "judge" what one criminal deserves based on the evidence presented, as well as the character of the person and the opinion of o (...)

3 This editorial made me feel very disappointed. How is it possible that companies are looking for "loop holes" to avoid following legislation? And I am glad that there are still people out there fighting for clean air, we ALL need to do the same!

5 Once again proof of the type of people that get involved in politics around the world. Immunity, really? wow!

3 Once again, stop talking and start working! Go beyond your wants, this president did not follow his own advice.

2 I'm not generally for unions but this does prompt more research to see how this has progressed. It seems to me like there are more jobs now than what there were years ago.

4 The fact that there were so many arguments about how to create the memorial is disheartening. I feel like diversifying the memorial wouldn't have been such a bad thing and would be a better example of America and our versatility.

4 True to political form. You never know exactly who or what they stand for until they are already in office, then it's too late.

4 We can not remove the checks and balances of our government and expect it to run smoothly. All too often "activists" don't even know what they are protesting and what would happen if it truly changed.

5 The education system is so mismanaged and apparently always has been.

5 As a whole we need to be more conservative and mindful of the America that we will be leaving for our children.

5 I feel like the government is thoroughly wasting money on these studies. Why would a country that is already trillions of dollars in debt spend 2-3 million more dollars on unnecessary studies?

2 I guess they are trying and statistics are misleading, but I still feel like the system is broken.

2 I guess I feel like compromise with those who don't real want to compromise leads to false promises.

2 But he is a brash entrepreneur. Did it ever actually get done?

2 I feel like this docket is diverse enough to be spread out over days and not hours. But that's just me.

5 Self checkout is more prevalent than cashiers and there is something wrong with that. I don't go to a store to work. I'm so tired from not losing it with a toddler and a list and things not on a list and now I have to do what your multi billion dollar won' (...)

3 I don't know what I would be taking a stance on. Nothing about this is okay.

1 I hadn't totally understood the reasoning for including or not including Pluto. I wanted Pluto to be a planet cause i learned it that way as a kid but this article made me understand better why it's better off not on the list.

5 This article provides a good argument for more regulation on corporations and their pension requirements to ensure workers receive what they were promised.

5 I think the Bush administration, as well as the current administration, have done horrible things to our economy by attacking Chinese trade, as illustrated by this article.

2 I generally disagree with the US becoming any more involved with Afghanistan than it already is as this article suggests.

2 It almost seems like a lesser of two evils endorsement.

1 Previously I would have thought collecting phone call costs to pay for other services was a good source of earned income for prison programs but this article makes a great point about why taxing phone calls is unfair.

5 They are letting people get sick! Who cares about a control group if taking out lumps that are precancerous is making sure that they aren't cancer?

1 This article challenges my opinions of the U.N.

5 This article provides examples of why FEMA is mismanaged and why the leaders are not qualified.

2 How did she even get in office?

5 I agree strongly that Schwarzenegger does not have a firm stance on these issues nor is representative of the people.

5 This article illustrates the problem with the racist and unconstitutional voter ID laws that are based on ridiculous notions of voter fraud that don't exist.

2 Who thought it was a good idea to divide the country into three ethnic regions? Seriously?

5 I know for a fact that private care patients can get the same meds cheaper. Me Medicare drug cost 400. Husband private or no insurance gets a coupon that makes it 20 or zero. This is bull and I could go for days.

4 This article reinforced my belief that the tragedy of Katrina floods could have been prevented by better infrastructure care and public management.

2 Well, I guess making public what the CIA could and could not do maybe kept some prisoners from worse things. I don't agree with torture because I wouldn't want it visited on me or those I love. And again false information is not good information.

4 I agree with the article that she was not qualified

5 This article provided a lot of examples of bush's Cronyism and how he chose such unqualified people for important positions.

1 He didn't pass the bar? Seriously?! And the president is pushing this guy?!

3 But they did find their voice, and now we're here again.

5 When it comes down to most Americans don't hesitate to help others in need, it's one of the reasons I love my country so much. Politics and differences aside we all work together quite nicely in the face of tragedy.

4 Nuclear weapons just seem like a bad idea. So I guess Fat Man had to happen to end WWII but since then, they have kind of just been threats. Can't we destroy them? We can always build a new one for WWIIII.

3 I have no strong stance on this matter aside from the facts that the reason our country is in so much debt is we have a government that will pay millions if not billions of dollars for a new football stadium but they don't take care of the real problems. T (...)

2 If what they are saying is true, then I'm wrong about things, but it's an editorial piece. I keep,forgetting that these are editorial

5 The government couldn't even take care of its people in this? They didn't choose to,have their homes destroyed.

5 This is absolutely heartbreaking and something I did not know about Turkey, this article is prompting more research in hopes that Turkey has reformed thier response mental health.

2 Okay, but to meet the percentage, you are Making members of one race a quota.

3 I'm sorry I just don't get this one.

3 It's great when the government can help rebuild but we also need to do for ourselves as well. If you want to build something put in the time and make it happen. Don't depend on the government to do it for you.

1 I seriously, I guess stupidly, would mot have thought FRESH produce needed regulation.

5 First off: protect the first amendment. Second: why are we worried about looking bad in Vietnam? I don't think anyone is really proud of that.

5 Farmers literally are what keep the world alive by providing food, but businessmen get paid more than they do.

3 Actually two planes hitting the twin towers is what created the current disaster

2 Well, when you put a tug at your heart strings twist on it, it does stink how much they have to pay to call home. However, it funds the prison so it isn't a kickback. Also they committed a crime.

5 This is infuriating, America is supposed to be by the people for the people no matter rich or poor we all get to vote. The fact this even came up in modern day America disgusts me.

5 Instead of admitting it didn't work, it continued funding a failed program. Hmm.

4 At least it is a reminder of a physical presence.

5 We still need tax reform, we also need to cut spending for debt reduction. Sadly I don't see either happening anytime soon.

5 I have no kindness in my heart for these people. I don't think they should live with people. There should just be a prison for them or something where they could never see the light of day.

3 Once again we come to a place where things need to be done such as roadway upkeep but our government was likely spending money on some giant building that would be used a few times a year rather than properly allocate money.

3 Whether there were weapons of mass destruction or not I believe we were already on the verge of war, 9/11 coupled with the declaration of weapons of mass destruction just pushed it over the edge.

4 I understand that Africa needs help. With America's debt how much can we truly afford to send there until we crawl our way out from under the trillions we are behind?

3 We have politicians who spend millions of dollars on campaigns... no wonder they can't figure out common sense budgets for their respective city, state or country.

2 There is no denying that our justice system seriously needs revamped. But it's truly disgusting when some how the power to use their racial differences to wrongfully convict someone or attempt to strip them of their rights to habeas corpus.

3 I do not have a strong stance on this.

4 Perhaps penalizing large corporations that shed thousands of jobs may protect the workforce

4 While I'm not really a believer in abortion for myself, I truly feel like our government is overstepping bounds by attempting to set laws on what a woman can do with her body.

4 I have no strong stance on this subject.

5 We need tax reform where all are taxed fairly, sadly I don't foresee that happening in the near future.

4 The the Family Health Care Decisions Act came in to effect in 2010.

4 Even now we all need to make changes to leave the world a better place for our kids. It's disappointing that our government cares more about the almighty dollar than it does our environment.

3 I do not have a strong stance on this subject,

4 The US holds a bad environmental record. A $12.5M out of court settlement definitely suggests that Cheminova worried a credible link between their chemical and the decline in the lobster population.

5 The patriot act is a huge pet peeve of mine. Most of the law makers did not even read it before voting and it saddles Americans with a whole lot of trouble.

1 I didn't know about this and it's prompting more research. I feel like this would be hard for the government to monitor.

5 Manufacturers should take responsibility and active role in the environmental impact their products have. This is good legislature.

5 This is a repeat of #80

5 I like his resourcefulness. If the government refuses to do what needs to be done to take care of the environment I feel the states should be allowed to take matters into thier own hands and force the issue.

3 I wasn't aware of this law, but I think if it is what the people want, then it should be left alone.

4 This is a repeat of #89 and #90

3 I'm having difficulty understanding the point being made by this article.

1 Indeed, I had thought that the only way to take care of this problem was a cull.

3 I was not aware of this initiative but it seems like a good idea.

5 This is the swamp that is meant to be being drained.

3 I have no opinion on a gubernatorial candidate who didn't win an election 12 years ago. Perhaps a more recent article about him being a congressman would be more appropriate.

3 I have no opinion on electricity in Connecticut.

2 The Palestinian situation is too complex for a short article such as this, however, why is no one calling on Israel to make concessions?

2 Unionized state workers need to learn to live in the real world. No one in the private sector gets away with this.

3 I feel that there is really no final solution in place for cleaning the river, so I am neither positively nor negatively affected.

2 It made me reflect on the various reality shows that I enjoy watching.

5 It agrees with how I feel about violence in the middle east - also as my girlfriend is from Lebanon, I have a personal interest in the conflicted area.

2 It challenged my views that the Americans are able to satisfy multiple ethnicities in Iraq.

5 I am extremely behind improved teacher training and valuing teachers' work.

3 It is an issue I have little attachment to (city organization) and therefore have little interest.

4 I agree with this article - there really is not enough transparency in government.

4 I agree that the Sunnis need to take charge and make their own concrete proposals - otherwise nothing gets done.

4 I agree that in order to make a change like this to work all of the groups need to be represented and given a voice.

5 It arms me with the facts of the current situation and strongly reinforces how I feel about the laughable Bush-administration.

5 I highly support keeping the Hubble in service.

4 I agree that a show of power or sanctions would not help the situation, diplomacy is the only way to go.

4 I support any legislation which supports the environment and moves us forward in this matter.

4 It supports my beliefs that further legislation is needed to support environmental polcies.

5 PBS was a staple of my childhood education and I want arguments to protect it.

4 I agree that the Hubble is too important to take so lightly and not treat it like the scientific gold it is.

3 Simply put, I do not trust much of Isreal's motivations and therefore the arguments presented do not sway me much.

4 I agree because it can help small businesses.

4 It reinforces my beliefs in foreign aid and vaccination - but nothing that dramatically affected my knowledge.

4 I agree because it can be helpful to small businesses.

4 I believe the transparency is always the most important in government - as the government is employed by the people.

4 I agree that running public broadcasting with political agendas behind the big decisions is definitely detrimental to the quality of programming.

4 I agree that it is a step forward. Only the future can tell about the underlying reasons.

3 I do not understand why we would share any kind of nuclear technology with any other country.

3 I do not have a particularly hard stance on this outside of the environmental one that we need to be mindful of the America we leave for our kids, and ensure our fresh water sources remain uncontaminated.

3 I don't really watch television and never have so I don't have a particular stance on this.

5 Regulation should still be kept at the status quo. Deregulation would lead to the gutting of our forests and political mismanagement.

1 Pataki was an instrument for some good but in the end, like the others he serves his own agenda. He says one thing and does another.

5 The Supreme Court's rulings should not be undermined otherwise our system of checks and balances will be moot. The last sentence solidifies that--see how it goes and if their ruling does not work out, then Congress has the opportunity to change it--after (...)

5 The New Source is geared towards improving air quality. Both Pataki and Spitzer are tireless advocates of clean air for New York. The editorial is informative about New Source and lays out how both men include clean air in their platforms.

5 Heads of state shouldn't remain heads of state just because. The article outlines WHY Chirac wants this to pass. He was corrupt and by becoming a permanent senator he will think he will avoid investigation and persecution.

5 Inauguration is a solemn ceremony to highlight our democracy and the president's role in it. It is not a day to promote party politics. Bush's statement that day reinforces that by avoiding policies that isolated parts of the constituency.

5 This lays out specifics of HOW the United Nations can eradicate poverty without lining the pockets of the corrupt politicians that run those countries. All the rich countries should do their part. There is no reason why the US should not be in closer rea (...)

3 I am skeptical about companies and their true motives. The agency, acting on the behalf of the American people, published a study that PCBs are dangerous to breathe in. Yet there is doubt. We should err on the side of safety.

2 I believe that if you enter the show, you know you run the risk of being humiliated. I think if you enter you have a hard shell already. This makes humiliation more real and makes me think about what the judges are doing at least.

3 The same old--same old in my opinion. Violence begets violence and will not do anything for the Palestinians. Abbas wants to change that but now the people will have to actually submit to a cease-fire.

5 As always, I say politics and taxpayer's money should be scrutinized down to the last penny. Too much of it just disappears.

1 Bush's belief WHY they should stick to the original timetable makes sense although it doesn't seem it will help the Sunnis much. It validates the sense of democracy and actually does give Sunnis elsewhere the opportunity to limit the damage and feel empow (...)

5 Our high schools are failing because our elementary schools are failing. Retrain the teachers, rethink the high schools; provide technical training for those who are not interested in higher education. Not everyone wants to go to college.

5 Everyone deserves a right to vote in any election whether they happened to be displaced or not. The government has an obligation to the citizens to ensure that everyone has every opportunity to make their vote count.

3 I believe that everyone no matter where you come from or who you are should have a fair trial

3 I really have no views on this other then I think that there are tons of people in the world that are extremely overweight and that can not be healthy

3 I dont think that this plan is right. I think that each department should be in charge of there own departments.

5 I dont think that this plan is right. Undocumented people should not be able to just get the visa. They should have come into America the right way. They snuck into this country and shouldnt not be able to get visas

3 I think that they need to figure out a better plan for the Afghan prisoners

3 I dont really have any thoughts on this

3 I agreed with most statements, not so much on others, but I like the bold and confident way it's presented.

5 It's just another example of government officials misusing government funds and letting the important issues wait while they waste billions on frivolous junk.

4 I don't understand why new stadiums and parking for said stadiums would take any precedence over more important projects. It's really quite ridiculous if you think about it.

3 This is a pet peeve, the government now requires us to carry insurance but there is no truly affordable insurance. If we can't afford insurance we can't afford the fines imposed due to not having it either.

3 Madison Garden's offer is lucrative for the city. The Jets' are putting their business first over the city and people.

5 Democracy is supposed to be transparent and present. By not being both, things stay stagnant and reform is absent. Bruno is defending the status quo versus championing progress.

5 Democracy over dominance. Offering an olive branch and listening with an open mind is the only way democracy stands a chance. Otherwise the fighting will continue.

5 This article reinforces my belief that republicans don't care about people who need help the most.

1 I believe that all of the security measures after 9/11 were overkill but this article brings up some really good points. However, I still think that it's all paranoia.

5 The history of the lack of negotiations and its effects make it evident that changes need to be made. North Korea needed to feel like a priority and needed to be answered as such. Although we never want to entertain a dictator, you definitely do not want (...)

4 This article helped clarify some of the benefits of stem cell research which I already support.

5 The Hubble in itself is integral to our study and progress of what lies beyond us. We don't need a band aid and we don't want to just disregard it and let it fall to disarray. That would be a greater loss than the cost incurred.

4 This article explained how much easier the patriot act made getting the death penalty, which I oppose

2 This article provided a lot of new information on the economic interdependence of oil and other energy companies. I'm not totally sure how I feel about it and this article brought even new information and questions.

5 I totally and completely agree with the author. Aid should be provided directly, his ideas are awesome and concrete. I really hope our country is there by now!

5 I agree that Bush needed to improve the relationships with China, this article helps explain why

5 Using the example of white phosphorus, this article helps support my strong beliefs opposing the war in Iraq and how hypocritical the US actions were During this illegal and unethical war

3 Maybe that's what the government needs is someone who will be strict with the budget and stay to it!

4 I'm not a huge fan of unions, but I agree he should have stiff fines or jail time for ordering illegal walkouts.

4 This reinforced my stance in that it supported my belief in convress' incompetence

3 I have no strong stance on this

2 I didn't realize that the torture ban laws had come with so many negative consequences as well.

5 It is nice to know that debt collectors have their limits as well. Especially when it comes to disturbing your everyday life!

5 We have a lot of changing to do in this country, everyone should be treated as equal human beings. In America no one should have to worry about harassment due to their race.

5 Every elected individual should be able to be deposed or recalled if those who elected him see fit. It is ridiculous that they have the power to ignore what the common people want, seeing as it was said common people who put him in that office in the first (...)

3 It was a difficult situation for all the government involved. Handled poorly, but still, people were given the chance to leave if they so choose.

3 I think that they should require that any leftover campaign money be used to lower the debt of the country or the state.

5 Why does the government have any right to tell us what size of house we can or cannot build? I understand the connection between self indulgence and supersizing lifestyles but housing? Noone has the right to tell you that you can't build a mansion.

5 The article reinforced the arguments for why the deposit is environmentally and citizen friendly. However if the meeting has been in private, would that have even been taken into consideration?

5 Sometimes certain parts of the government, state or federal, become so broken that it would be a disaster to try and fix the system. Sometimes a fresh start is the best answer available.

4 I strongly agree that the connection between large fund contributions from corporations to politicians is too high, and in my opinion should not be allowed at all. For a change, let the little man, the everyday American, be the only one electing someone in (...)

3 First I had heard of this, but I think it would have been, or perhaps was, a great decision. Keep the politicians away and it would do the whole country proud, not just the town itself.

5 Blackouts in summer heat can kill people, I think that alone is reason enough to open the plant(s).

5 How about no campaign contributions from any business, and only from individuals. Limit it to the $2,100 for individuals. Let the people choose again!

5 Same editorial as the one previous. Transparency ensures that the benefits to the environment and the citizens are being taken into consideration rather than their pockets.

3 No real opinion on the matter.

3 Perhaps with a steady hand, and a watchful eye, this bill could be beneficial. Not sure the government could ever provide that.

5 Thai article provided specific examples of the wrongness of NSA Spying on Americans.

5 If every Democrat wants him to win so they can reap the spoils, that alone is definitely enough to warn competent voters off.

5 I agree that Turkey needs to update their laws and this is a prime example

2 Education is the last thing that should be frozen when it comes to funding. I do understand that they may not have used the funds appropriately but education should come before more frivolous projects.

5 The public school system can be fixed, and it shows promise. Increase incentives to faculty and pull in more teachers with better training.

3 And yet, North Korea and South Korea are now at peace. Something must have worked.

4 Politicians should have no influence over LEO except in extreme emergencies. Anything else is clearly a violation of ethics policy.

4 The editor failed to take into account that building these schools in poorer neighborhoods won't necessarily give anyone a better chance. Who would teach there, who would guard the schools from crime? It won't change the lifestyle of some of the communitie (...)

5 You can't overwork and underpay educators and expect them not to look for greener pastures.

5 Every wilderness bill should be closely examined to root out instances like the Utah example. No corporation should receive incentives to not destroy what little wilderness is left in America.

3 Every now and then the state government does something so wonderful, there can be no opposition to it. This is a prime example.

4 We are slowly getting better about taking care of our enviroment but we still have a long ways to go when it comes to what we are leaving behind for our kids and grandkids.

3 No new or noteworthy info in this particular article.

5 Agreed completely with this article. Turkey cannot be overlooked. They have sacrificed much for their support of the West and have suffered as a consequence.

4 All financial transactions that uses government funds made by any branch of the government should be completely transparent and teachable. It's no wonder our country is in the hole so bad.

3 I don't really have a hard stance on this subject.

4 We are slowly learning to live with nature but we need to be careful of sprawling housing areas that are taking over the farmland. We need farmland.

5 Any reforms on the broken system of politics would be a great start.

4 True to form, another branch of government mishandling finances and falling into uncontrollable debt.

3 As a whole our country needs to follow other countries lead and learn to manage our waste better. There are countries using trash to create clean power, why can't America follow those models?

4 Sometimes energy requirements trump visual aesthetics. If the Coast Guard is okay with it, then it is good to go.

3 Don't have an opinion regarding this particular matter.

4 I think in that richer countries should definitely have better systems in which to aid smaller countries.

4 I think that openness in government is the best way to keep the public's trust.

5 This article provided a good argument against using inmate populations to draw district lines

4 The article provides reasons for why Americans need to understand savings and investing better.

4 I agree that consumers deserve more transparency than this.

2 I generally believe that investors are responsible for the investments they make. If investments don't pan out its because investors did not do their due diligence on the management of the company. The article made me reconsider this point of view slightly (...)

5 Public broadcasting is an independent source of media. Sponsoring it through a trust versus the government ensures that it will remain independent and not swayed by those in Congress or the presidency.

4 Just goes to show you how inefficient anything run by the government is.

3 I think that negotiations between Israel and the Palestinians have always been fraught with complications. I think any move towards compromise is a good thing but I'm hesitant to believe any good will come out of it.

4 I agree with the editorial and it is presented in an interesting way that I wouldn't have considered on my own but doesn't really present any new information.

4 I was unaware that the US did not even match 25% of its agreed upon foreign aid. It should not renege and match the obligations of other countries that reached an agreement.

5 Though I do not like government, the environment is one of the areas I believe it should be involved. This example allows me to show a time in which environmental regulations worked positively.

5 Transparency has opened the door to improved diplomacy. This article relays specifically how an open room and a meeting with more than three people in Albany has improved the local government.

3 I think that they should restore the area back to its natural glory. This may be more costly and risky but it stimulates both the economy and environment.

5 The article has provided examples of more unacceptable government waste and provides more detailed information to my point that the military spends too much money where it is not needed.

5 Bolton is now in Trump's cabinet. Reading of his past actions and beliefs makes his current appointment even scarier.

3 There is no information in this. We know that even if statesmen have good intentions, their livelihood often wins. Look at what happened with the vocal politicians after Parkland.

5 I was not for privatization but this argument lays out the misleading info that Bush was using to SCARE people. Using the facts proves that the argument was deliberately misleading.

3 I didn't have a stance back then. I was unaware that Bush's administration was so hostile to the UN.

3 I agree with the editorial but it provided no new information or a new viewpoint.

4 There needs to be restructuring to ensure that gerrymandering is discontinued.

5 It lays out just what is at stake and that rhe system is weighed in the Jets' favor. To be fair, the bidding needs to be done in s timely fashion and rezonknh should be available to everyone.

3 The extra tax hasn't stopped anyone from smoking. In Chicago the tax on pop was repealed because of overwhelming resistance. However the tax on plastic bags has had a positive effect of people using reusable bags.

4 Schools that constantly mismanage should be supervised by a higher office—regardless of racial demographics or educational proficiency

3 I did not have a strong opinion about tort reform. Therefore the editorial was informative but it did not really challenge or reinforce any preconceived notions.

4 Obviously the Freedom Tower deserves precedence over the stadium. I don't know if the change in plans has anything to do with political ambitions, it may purely have to do with security measures which should come first.

4 I was unaware of the corruption scandal before reading the editorial so it did not give really challenge or reinforce my views on that. It is another example of government inefficiency and waste.

5 PBS should not be politicized. The people Tomlinson want in charge of PBS are prominent people in the Republican Party. PBS would become synonymous with Fox.

3 I think it is hard for people to be able to separate their personal beliefs and how to follow, support, or ban laws.

2 The Stadium deal was good and should have been built regardless of the Olympics. The editorial brings information to light about the process of its building and financing that challenge my previously held assertion but does not change my stance.

2 I hold that gentrification is a positive for neighborhoods though it displaces some of the people already living there. The editorial brings to light some of the racial components that I had not previously considered. It still does not change my previous a (...)

5 I was unaware that there was such a great surplus during the Clinton administration. The fact that we went into such massive debt during the Bush administration is staggering. Bring back the bond but curb borrowing as well.

5 This editorial reinforces the need to vaccinate across the board. The repercussions that abounded spread globally affecting those who had been proactive in the first place.

3 "I had no initial stance that was challenged or reinforced by this editorial

4 I appreciate the more holistic approach to immigration that is being suggested here.

3 Nothing new. Politics have a way of shaping even the most nonpartisan of issues. Politicians and municipalities have to stay away from this memorial.

2 I actually think that the Imams words should not have been protected under free speech because he is a government employee speaking with influence so I don't think that's a good example of Bloomberg's free speech.

4 I generally feel that government is inept and corrupt even when led by politicians that I agree with politically. Mr. Pataki is no exception. The article would not dissuade for voting for him as he pushes policies I agree with and can support.

5 I believe really strongly in the availability of the morning after pill and that the FDA should do more to protect its accessibility.

4 Student aid needs to go to qualified students

4 I agree that New York should have easier divorce laws.

4 I agree that New York should have easier divorce laws.

3 Meh

4 Some interesting points about property taxes...

2 Maybe tax cuts are a good idea after all...

4 Isreali settlements in Gaza and the West Bank are heavily getting the way of a peaceful solution. This editorial supports that point of view adding some extra information about the process of evacuation.

4 I agree that Bush is obligated to help nigeria avoid a civil war

3 I don't really have an opinion on this.

3 How is federal control supposed to fix underperforming schools?

4 I remember them taking forever to come up with a plan for ground zero and i think there should have been more meetings to come up with a solution faster.

3 What was the point of this editorial?

1 I oppose eminent domain in all ways but this was an interesting example of positive use of eminent domain.

3 I don't really have an opinion on this.

4 I agree that New York needs to update its laws on this matter.

3 It's kinda naive to think any commission is "independent" and the legislature still draws the lines anyway

3 Repeat

1 The editorial presented government regulation of the pharmaceutical industry in a positive light shining on how it can protect patients and doctors. Normally I see this as hindering competition and elevating the cost of medication. Seeing it from a differe (...)

4 I am glad that there is research being done into lobster deaths and pesticide linkage. I think that more research in this area should be done before mass sprayings.

4 Spot on analysis of Palestinian tactics

3 I already thought that the Russian economy was kinda messed up

3 Sometimes a cease fire is a good idea and so.sometimes it just leads to more violence

5 This article makes really good points about why the bottle return is best for the environment.

5 This article makes really good points about why the bottle return law is best for the environment.

1 I did not know that New Jersey had a lower tax than other states, i previously would have supported the abolition of full service gas stations based on cost savings.

4 Debates are largely dog and pony shows. A few good one liners doesn't change change that.

5 This article makes good points about why the bottle return is the best for the environment.

1 I generally see the privatization of Social Security as a good thing. The editorial presents some challenges I had not considered before. I still believe, however, that the positives of privatization outweigh its negative aspects.

5 Very good editorial about airline security

3 A conspiracy theory editorial

2 This both challenged and reinforced my beliefs in different ways but I chose challenge because I did not know that the HUD was so corrupt.

4 I think this is a really good idea to try to keep ticks at bay.

5 I support this idea because i think that these methods of mixing old and young people are really effective and this article provides a good argument for why.

4 Pretty good editorial...

5 This article helps support the argument about corruption and abuse of power in Washington

3 I don't really have an opinion on this.

2 Pretty good point about being able to support Israel without giving its leaders carte Blanche

4 I agree that the surcharges on energy bills should be forced to be used for better energy conservation initiatives.

4 I believe judges should be appointed and not elected. This editorial reinforces this belief with examples I was not aware of (though I was already aware of more egregious examples).

1 I disagree and believe the US should in fact walk away.

2 I disagree hat the proposed solution is viable for tackling financial problems.

3 Reinforced what I already know. Peace is indeed a two-way street.

2 I am against late-term abortions, but I do not like the clearly egregious violation of Mr. Kline and his intentions. Though I still maintain my stance this type of action makes me very anxious.

3 Creating a government community where each individual feels represented and heard is an important part in recounciling differences in the Middle East

2 In some ways I have been opposed to the No Child Left Behind Movement. Reading this editorial made me reconsider the relationship between reading scores and abilities and the use of the No Child Left Behind Law.

5 I believe religious symbols do not have a place in public life. This editorial provides clear reason why they shouldn't beyond my limited perspective that I disagreed with it.

4 I completely agree that the status of state prisons for those with mental illness is atrocious and should be changed drastically.

1 The article reinforced my position that privatization of prisons is not good. It did, however, challenge my notion of not providing public medical aid to prisoners. These are not capable of purchasing their own healthcare and their diseases have externalit (...)

4 The prison policies of the Bush administration in Iraq were pitiful and the article shows this.

3 The sole possibility of health risks cused by exposure of PCB's should be enough for at least an investigation, sure. But while the cleaning procedures have begun, not after the investigation is over!

3 I had no prior knowledge of these judicial nominations so the editorial could not challenge or reinforce my views.

4 "International diplomacy and co-operation are important even at the expense of occasional oversight by international bodies. The article points out a valid case for this that I had not previously considered

3 I'm in favor of stem cell research but against government funding. The editorial both reinforced my belief in stem cells and challenged me on the idea of government funding scientists.

3 My belief in stem cell research was reinforced by my belief that government should not be funding it was challenged. I am still firm in both beliefs.

4 I was unaware of this particular story but also think it is good news when dictators are ousted and thin that European and American forces should promote democracy.

5 I believe that laws should be put in place to stop gerrymandering. The amazing statistic from NY that I just learned illustrates why.

4 National parks are important and need to be funded. This editorial illustrates the magnitude of the problem.

3 I did not have an opinion on waste management in NYC or the different players involved before reading the article. After reading I am in favor of the plan.

3 If we going to send jobs south, it is our duty to ensure that workers are protected against labor indignities. This reminds me of NAFTA.

5 The drug industry needs to be strictly regulated because even with regulations in place to protect the public, three of the biggest names are failing to do so. How do we know that their pharmaceuticals are safe?

5 The IMF has the funds to support and raise these countries out of debt and not be negatively impacted. Unfortunately the greed of special interests groups has more clout than the lives of millions.

4 I heavily agreed with the points made by the editorial. Separation of powers should be maintained and the behavior by the Senator is absolutely abhorrent.

5 I believe in trade agreements. I was surprised to see that in 2005 it was the Democrats who were avid opponents of the trade deal.

3 This was not about any certain stance. This was about how weather is out of our control—we did not bring the mugginess because of immoral behavior, etc. We need to take a deep breath and relish good weather.

1 I'm always appalled when people lose their houses. However when put as an action in the best interest of said city, it makes sense.

2 The editorial advocated for government action in curtailing electricity use. Though the article pointed out the amazing growth of the use of power I don't think the right way to go about it is for the government to ration electricity. I liked the idea of a (...)

3 I was unaware of the situation and am not swayed either way because I did not have a stance.

5 As we know, resources to investigate fraud of government assistance is minimal. However, I did not that only 37 cases were found to be fraud when we know that that is not true.

1 I am in general against taxes and have never had a really strong opinion on estate taxes. Prior to this article, I'd say I was against the estate tax but now it makes sense especially considering the low effective tax rate of only 20%. Maybe when we have a (...)

5 There is nothing new that I am unaware. Journalists should not be forced to reveal sources if there is no threat or breach to national security. There have been none to date and it's not something that should be subjectively decided.

5 I was unaware that the budget for security was so high and yet only a small portion was used. It is of utmost importance that we spend and do all we can do to protect those using public transit.

4 Republicans either want to harshly remove immigrants, or keep them around for cheap labor.

3 I don't have an opinion on this. The anti-Chinese stance has not been discarded today.

3 It did neither. I read this as an interesting anecdote about the Shuttle and although we encounter problems we have much success.

4 "Res. Bush's choice for officials has been ill chosen throughout his Presidency. We need someone in the UN that is ready to work on big changes, not someone who is dismissive of the importance of diplomacy in a time like this.

4 California has and will be a forward thinking state when it comes to environmental issues. The United States should follow suit and really understand the damage that we are doing to our one and only planet.

3 The army needs to rethink their recruitment opportunities and success in order to maintain a strong force in the world.

3 Hospitals are a necessity. Many people in our country use hospitals as their own form of medical care, no yearly check ups, no primary care doctors. Keeping hospitals running through funding is an important piece of our community welfare.

2 I do feel that a woman has rights to her body and should be given the right to an abortion if she feels that is the right choice for her. However, I do struggle with the thought that a teenager needs her parent's consent to have one. I feel it would depend (...)

5 The fact that John Bolton can disrupt the goals of the UN and make demands that he feel can be met immediately is frightening. Furthermore, his threats to hold up the 2 year budget until he gets his demands met doesn't seem ethical.

5 The whole issue with our economy and the rich is that they are allowed to keep getting richer by such foolishness in our government. Why would someone who makes over a million dollars a year reap the most benefits which would then lead to cuts to necessary (...)

4 Politicians are always looking for more ways to line their own pockets as they say they want nothing more than reform. When it comes down to it the poor stay poor while the rich get richer.

4 Climate change is something that all countries should be taking seriously. The developing nations need to be part of the equation to make a real difference for our world.

4 As a member union myself, I know how frustrating it can be around contract time. However, I feel that Toussaint acted recklessly, especially when what the union workers were being offered was a reasonable offer. Furthermore, it affected so many people in t (...)

2 9/11 was such a traumatic event for our country so I feel that the Patriot Act was enacted for greater security. However, I do not feel the US should have the ability to subpoena such information for some because i feel their rights are being violated.

5 I feel that network neutrality is a bill that needs to pass in order to maintain fair business dealings. It is not fair for some companies the ability to get faster connections due to the fact that they have more money.

5 I agree that Mr. Cooper was extremely resourceful in his lawsuit for the pollution being a nuisance and something needed to be done. It is sad that a government agency would actually being the one to cause the most amount of pollution and they didn't feel (...)

1 I don't believe it at all. I too believe it was whitewashed to quelch fear and hysteria.

4 The main take away from this editorial is a fact that people seem to miss. A healthy economy is one where people are working, earning a livable income, and putting that money back into the economy. Without a paid workforce, that can afford to spend their m (...)

3 I never paid too much close attention to the judicial procedures for another state. I feel that sometimes the calls are so far out of the hands of those who speak for the good of all, that the race is won before it even begins.

5 As such a strong country, why is the US dependent on the good will and constructive behavior of Shiite fundamentalist parties. It is also troubling to me how Bush is sharing nuclear technology information with other countries.

4 Sometimes the person who is the best for the job, in this case Mr. Green doesn't have the best personality. That doesn't mean they don't know how to get the job done and in this case fight for the consumer.

2 Cutting spending is important, but these people worked for that time off and vacations days and if there is nothing against them cashing them out then they should be able too. It is a situation where the law needs to come in and say from X point in time no (...)

2 I do agree that contaminated stormwater getting mixed with drinking water is the more pressing issue in this article. I also don't feel that the Department of Environmental Protection should be bending rules.

3 It sounds as if NASA has gone from being a space exploring research focused entity to something that is allowed movement when politics give it the go.

3 I never watched this show but everyone I know that have watched it have loved it and Tony's journey, especially my Italian friends.

4 I think the movement to ban sugary drinks and sweets form schools is a bit over kill. I think having all options available is important. I agree with the editorial that food and obesity is the trending battle and that people need to focus more on drug abus (...)

5 I feel that of all times this is the time when New Orleans needs a strong leader and now. The election should not be allowed to continue to be pushed back when there are pressing issues to be figured out.

4 I feel that it is important for New Jersey to have its own Sunday editorial as one that focuses on the issues in their state.

5 This editorial gave me the names of associations that are making big donations to political "housekeeping" accounts and essentially buying politicians and future policies.

5 I do not understand how politicians are able to pass a budget with so much money being listed as "line items." It seems to me to be unethical and it would possibly lead some to be tempted to spend on other unimportant things or pad their pockets with it. (...)

4 A team such as the Yankees with millions and millions of dollars should be able to pay their own way and not depend on a state budget to build a new stadium or for transportation.

4 This editorial made me feel outraged at the lack of care and support someone who risked their life to help others has received by our country. These people may not be military but they sure as heck have face horrors and sacrificed their own wellbeing for t (...)

4 Americans these days seldom take care of their old and elderly. They place them in nursing homes that run up outrageous bills. Not only should they continue to provide care for the poor and elderly, they should rework the medical system as a whole so that (...)

1 I feel that everyone should have the right to health insurance but the costs at times can be staggering. I feel that Massachusetts has a good plan; however, to say that a younger person would have less prescribed benefits is troubling. I have a child with (...)

4 I love the idea of a bill that would force drug companies to reveal who the doctors are that are receiving all their gifts to push their medication on the poor and sick of America.

5 I agree that the points this author makes are essential to reaching a state's budget and all are beneficial to all involved.

4 It is always a bad scenario when the people in charge have no previous experience and refuse to listen to the people who do.

5 We cannot expect children to excel and learn in school when their basic needs are not being met. Our social services are failing our children as much as anyone else.

2 I don't feel it is fair that the workers received penalties for the strike when they were doing it on the guidance of their leader. I understand obviously, the loss of wages for the time when they walked out is understandable. I do feel that they should ac (...)

3 The editorial said a lot about what Ms. Rice should tell the Israelites etc but didn't not offer anything on how she should tell them so that they can hear, understand, and appreciate the value behind her words. Telling people to do things, even emphatical (...)

4 I think it is important that Hevesi was appointed to monitor these authorities and I agree that transparency is the solution.

4 We all need to except that regular everyday private citizens are not doing half as much damage to the earth as large corporations. Until they commit to doing more to save the planet there is little that the regular person can do.

5 I feel that this lawsuit was justified and the Latino people were discriminated against in many different arenas in this town.

5 New York's finance laws without a doubt need to be reformed. No politician should be allowed to use funds to pay for trips or personal items. It seems like there needs to be a complete overhaul.

4 It seems that another big box company has taken away from their workers to line their own pockets. Walmart should be able to pay their employees a living wage, supports their elderly employees, and reward their full time employees. Not disrespect, underpay, (...)

3 Setting up a fund, and pricing medical equipment is good, but letting people die for something that it is obvious they didn't do is a shame. The nations should do something, within the presiding legal system to help these individuals.

5 There should not be a freeze on the school districts especially the poorest ones. These Abbott schools should not have programs cut and I feel that there will be continued progress.

5 Education and the education field is getting tougher in all areas. Good principals are essential to the success in a schools' staff which then equates to students success.

5 I feel Mr. Pataki has made important suggestions and implemented many great ideas related to clean air and mercury. Other politicians, especially Republicans, need to take note and follow suit.

4 I couldn't agree more that there should not be any types of budget changes without the consent of the legislature.

4 I like this idea of sharing services while remaining individual entities and towns.

2 I do feel it is important to have farmland and I understand how it can be harmful to have too many deer. There definitely seems to be more of a balance in the food chain.

2 I do feel the easiest way to balance the budget is the easiest way and it should be by increasing the sales tax.

2 It definitely appears to be a problem that is not an easy one to answer. It does seem like each borough should be responsible for its own trash, but recycling also needs to be reviewed too.

4 The Congress intentionally fed the fear of China one-upping us, causing a culture of mistrust and fear. The same thing is still happening.

3 This serves more as a warning for Sharon to not think his actions are not end all be all.

3 Exemplification of a stalemate. The states can only act independently to a certain degree before the federal government steps in.

4 Doing what we can for the environment is a bigger win in the long run than just making money off of commercial ventures.

4 Someone who has a record of making bad decisions concerning other countries should not be given a role as big as a United Nations seat.

4 I agree that a close eye should be kept on lobbyists.

4 I agree that a lot of time government officials use numbers in a way to scare people into buying into their plans even if those numbers actually mean something different.

3 I'm not sure of what the outcome was, however, whatever it was, it doesn't to appear that it worked...

2 The incentives and penalties provides motivation for schools, districts, and states to manipulate test results and there are suggestions that this happens.

4 The mentally ill should be treated in facilities designed for them.

4 The US has lost its way with immigration policy. The right push a narrative of endangering jobs and soaring crime rates, the left are inactive on the issue.

2 John Bolton was a contentious nomination, given his views on the UN, however, he was nominated again and didn't leave the post until he resigned. Many of his critics changed their minds.

4 A real solution would include a benefit to the people who contribute to lowering emissions.

4 I think that if events like these occur then there should be no one turning a blind eye. Change needs to happen.

3 Healthcare in the US is a shambles, the Bush Administration did little, Obamacare, although noble was naive and caused more damage than good.

4 There has been talk of campaign finance reform for years, but nothing happens. Why? Because the lawmakers are the ones who benefit.

2 Nothing has changed.

3 I have no knowledge of this subject.

4 $688K for a self promoting 150 page report? Shameful!

5 These kinds of payouts to 'civil servant' is ridiculous and a blatant waste of tax payer's money.

4 NASA has often been the victim of politics.

5 Drug use among students is at epidemic proportions throughout the US, but very little seems to be done about this growing issue.

4 Years after this article was written and the problem is even worse. No one who is in a position to change this wants to.

5 There are many forgotten heroes from 9/11 and I agree that taking care of them is a national obligation.

4 Change from the status quo can be a good thing.

3 We need to do better when it comes to making "friends" with the people from other countries. We should take into account how they treat the people of their own country

3 "This doesn't change my views

3 I think that this situation was a tough one. I have mixed feelings about this topic.

3 I understand that problems with illegal exchanges of copyrighted music. I understand that it is not fair to the artist. But I think that if you want to make it illegal you should make the tools to get the music illegal as well.

3 I don't think that businesses should be exempt.

3 Terrorists threats are a huge problem for all nations. I feel there needs to be something done. Just not sure how to tackle that issue

3 I think that all of these things should be put in place to protect us from terrorist attacks. I dont get why these people are fighting the security tatics.

5 I have never been a big fan of this kind of shows for the reasons described. There is The Voice, la Academia, that really, trully gives new talent a chance. Why the need to embarrass people on national tv? It is mean and disgusting!

3 I dont really have any thoughts about this

3 It is about time somebody smart enough is elected, the fight in the mideast has gone on for too long and without a point. Hopefully peace will finally start settling for those people, God willing.

3 I dont have any views on this

3 I think that this bill is very important. These things should be available to women. It is a way to help children that are not wanted or planned to not be brought into this world. I am not a believer of abortion so this would be a helpful thing

3 Again, pointless fights. People acting like savages, and a super power who should not be there in the first place.

5 Absolutely! Our teachers need better trainning, our students need more rigorous rules and demanding schools yes! But they are missing a key part: parents! We are the first step in getting our children all the way to college.

5 It is conforting to know that at least some politicians are considering people's needs before business.

3 Reform is necessary, you cannot keep running a country with old guidelines. It needs to be updated in so many ways. No ghost voting is a good start.

3 I think that there should be measures in place to try to help protect the earth.

5 Unification is key for democracy to work.

3 I think that it is great that he decided to not run again.

3 We have to figure out something to be able to avoid another war.

3 I think that the Indians should get what is due.

4 This is not right. I dont understand all of the details to this. But I think that the president should have taken the time to meet with her. Her son was good enough to give up his life for this nation and the president cant even take the time. What a disgr (...)

3 The justice system is flawed. I feel this young man should be held accountable for his actions. He could have killed this woman. I understand forgiveness but "you do the crime you do the time".

3 We need to do better in the fight of terrorism.

3 Peace talks need to happen sooner then later.

4 We need America to become "a stronger" place by avoiding these crises.

3 I dont think that this storage plan is a good one.

3 I think that this a good plan for the space program

3 "I think that it is very important that people try to protect the earth. No matter what the truth is about global warming or not. We should all work together to keep this planet clean and healthy.

3 I think that the government should help these people. They need to come up with some sort of plan that makes everyone happy.

3 I think that the government needs to be straight up with its citizens about the things going on. Not cover up or not tell the true details.

3 I did not have an opinion either way and do not know enough about Morgenthau to make a decision. Generally however, I believe there should be term limits.

5 Sharon is a champion for Israel and is willing to take risks to ultimately benefit the people of Israel. He has proven his position. Conservative action at this point would be a step backwards.

5 It details Betsy's experience and accomplishments. It gives good reason as to why she should be re-elected.

3 "This doesnt change any of my views

5 Disclosure is of the essence and obviously displayed with this young man's life. It should not be considered proprietary. As we put warnings on cigarettes and other products, the same should be done for medical devices.

3 I found it interesting to hear about Weiner's diplomacy in light of his current transgressions. I believe the law should be followed to a tee, and if they need to amend it to accommodate such situations, it will be better for future elections.

5 I was unaware of some of the obstructions and costs set in front of people so they would not vote. Reform needs to be made to ensure that all get to vote without costing them a penny.

3 I really have no views on this matter

3 After the attacks on 911 I think that it is very important to take this security matter seriously and keep the citizens of New York informed.

4 I think that the site of the World Trade Center is very important. This site deserves the attention just like the stadium.

3 I totally agree that there should be elections in this country. I think that will drastically help them to be a better country.

3 We need to do what we can to protect the planet.

4 I concur, the nation does need a better way to pay for elderly care that is not at risk of cuts.

3 I think that Europe should agree to the plan. It could be very helpful

3 I think that this plan is good. California is right on when talking about automobiles emissions. I think that other states should take this into consideration.

3 "I really do not have any thoughts on this matter

3 Lots on honorable suggested bills, but I'm not sure of the point of this article.

3 This is a terrible man. I dont have much to comment on this matter.

3 I think that China needs to really investigate this event.

3 I think that these two need to have a meeting. I think that we somehow need to figure out a way to get along and help each other out

3 I think that these two need to come together and put some protections in place.

4 It should not be possible for any no-bid contract to be awarded by anyone using public funds.

4 Education, just as healthcare, should have limited government control. A budget should be awarded and the business of running them should be left to the experts.

4 This is not right. This is so wrong. Police in this nation need to get it together.

3 I really dont have much thought on this matter

3 This is not right and someone should be held accountable for the torture this man endured.

3 This doesnt change my views on anything

3 This is not ok that American soldiers, etc have an are tortured prisoners. They should be held accountable for their actions.

4 I think that it is crazy how these people lie and cover up their money spending. There is so much like this going on in the world. Not just this one thing.

4 I think that this country needs to do whatever to help protect their citizens. I think that people should not have to be scared to get old. Like worry about how they are going to make it in their later years.

4 Something needs to be done to better protect the children of this world. These children are helpless when it comes to the abuse. We have to do better. These abused childrens lives depend on it.

3 I agree with this plan. I think that this is only beneficial for the kids. It will only help to learn more, learn better. And also with the full day schooling, it allows some children to be put into better environments then their home lives for longer thre (...)

3 I dont really have views on this

3 This doesnt change my views

3 This seems to be the same as the editorial before. I don't have much to say about this.

3 I think that it is so important to make things easy for the wheelchaired bound people of NY. Public transportation is basically the main way that their people get around. They are still individuals and have every right to be able to get around easily.

2 This is wrong. You should be able to gather whatever information that you want about the schools that you are sending your children to. I dont understand why everyone is always so sneaky.

3 This doesnt change any views for me

3 Judges should get paid what they deserve. This is so crazy the way things work in this country

3 I think that this good. I think that it good to try to improve this body of water. Its sad how careless we has humans are when it comes to taking care of our planet

3 I dont think that it is ok that these government officials are just able to find ways to hide money.

3 This doesnt change my views on anything

3 This seems to be the same editorial as the one right before this.

3 I dont have much to comment on this

3 This doesnt change my views on anything

4 We need to do better for the people suffering from mental illness.

3 I dont have too many views regarding the stock exchange

3 Im not sure how I feel about this issue

3 Corruption is everywhere. We need to figure out a way to get it under control. I cant imagine the things that have yet to be brought to life.

3 Although I see my self as more of a democrat I can understand where this editorial is coming from when saying that a democratic majority can be difficult. We as a society need to be represented.

4 I think in the fight against cancer, and the desire for early screening CT scans sound promising. I agree that further research should be conducted to guide practitioners.

2 I disagree that pressure and promise is the best route. If it hasn't been working previously, then why would the editorial consider it a gainful approach.

5 Diplomacy should always be the first and foremost way to solve conflict, specially when it comes to situations in which countries are at risk. Visceral approaches are the first thing to avoid, specially when there are nuclear weapons involved. RESPECT!

4 I agree that to settle our position and potential withdrawal from Iraq both the republicans and democrats will need to evaluate their stances and communicate with each other.

3 I do not understand how this man's decisions are absolute. He is in charge of directing the program, but the boss is still the president. The hubble is probably the most important contribution NASA has given humanity.

4 The pharmaceutical companies lobbying strength prevents any politician from doing anything that would benefit the people paying for the very expensive drugs.

4 These documents should be made public. The government is here to protect and serve the people, and not control. CIA agents should not be doing anything to prisoners that would be so heinous that they would need to be absolved from the actions.

3 I simply do not understand how taking care of the environment is not important enough for these people!

3 When wondering about the ideology of the Pres. one only has to look as far as those he respects and chooses for important

3 How is campaign donations even compared with taking care of our environment at all?

5 Drugs should be thoroughly tested before being approved. This shows another reason why— not only for safety purposes but to ensure that its potency is worth shelving older drugs.

3 I believe there should be limits in campaign donations by all, including candidates. It was interesting to note that there are Supreme Court Justices that believe those laws should be more lax.

2 I'm of the belief that too many people claim bankruptcy. It was interesting and enlightening to learn that those who do are more often than not surviving some life loss.

5 This rings a familiar sound—Trump and his tributes to President Javkson, calling Nazis very fine people. This just serves as further proof that we need to distance ourselves from what we once considered victories, yet were blights in our history.

3 I had no opinion to Bernanke. However this laid out info supporting his appointment and was convincing.

4 Cheney til this day defends the torture of the terrorists held. However I was unaware that he championed this cause against the globe.

3 I was already privy to this information.

3 I was unaware that Bush's administration covered up so much of the torture and according to this editorial, were complicit and responsible.

4 The strikers should not have to be fined wages. It takes a lot to actually teach that point and the negotiators need to take that into consideration.

5 The editorial was very informative about the demographics hardest hit and the cost. The simplest answer with the greatest impact would start with knowledge.

4 I was unaware of just how unrelenting lobbyists were and how much they lined the pockets of the politicians.

4 I did not know that this happened in other countries to such an extent. It's bad enough over here for those who are unable to pay fines or bail.

5 These specific examples are exactly why transparency is needed.

5 Informative as to why transparency is necessary and ways to implement it.

4 It is unfathomable to think parents cannot be privy time their adult children's medical records and decision is times of emergency. Since such a small percentage actually have a proxy, there needs to be a stipulation.

5 The editorial detailed how wetlands benefits both the environment and society. These are details that are good to know when arguing for environmental protection.

4 Almost the same exact editorial as two previous. It is necessary for there to be a loophole in which relatives, and more importantly, parents can review their children's records and make decisions in such dire times.

3 I'm not very knowledgeable about this and thus had no stance.

4 It's important to not let religious values get in the way of successful health-related programs.

4 Affordable housing is necessary. Affluent towns need to be held accountable for their racial and economic steering.

5 This MAGA policy has been around all these years. Trump just gave a name and legitimacy to it.

3 I was not aware of this and have no stance.

5 American infrastructure is underfunded and ignored. This puts a price on it.

3 I have no stance.

2 I was unaware that aid was unregulated in such a way that colleges were abusing funds. I believe we need more access to aid, but the need for regulation is obvious.

3 I agree with this completely but it does not strengthen my argument.

4 This occurs in Illinois as well. The fact that this occurs in Connecticut as well strengthens my stance.

4 Democrats seem to be from this editorial more humane when it comes to the treatment of immigrants.

5 Politics and money never belong together without the public being immediately involved and completely informed.

3 I have always supported this move. It's a fresh and perfect example of urban planning.

3 Just read this same article in this list.

3 Transparency should be key when it comes to voting for a particular politician. The public should be informed of this information before hitting the booths.

3 Cooperation between city officials and agencies are key, and to provide that should be one single leader.

5 Says a lot about the democratic party that they are dragging their feet on this while the republicans are pushing for it.

5 Russia is one of the greatest threats to America, and to the world. We should all hope that Russia manages to find her freedom once again.

3 In this situation it is hard to say which path would be right. I don't agree with being hard, hasty, or hostile. Somethings need time to simmer and the truth of the situation will come out. Iran may need the technology for what they say, they could have po (...)

4 "The Trump situation is very similar. He lauds tax cuts for all but in essence it's for the rich and corporations.

4 Pres. Bush is disinterested with anything that is not providing him with increased income. He can not see the damage in Iran. But also, it is not his place to put timelines down for the Iranian President. They need to learn to run their own country and ask (...)

4 I agree that the Katrina victims were not treated correctly. I especially agree that they the Gov should had enlisted the Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Section 8 housing for the whole country to Katrina victims so that they were no (...)

4 This editorial reinforced my stance that we need way to increase diversity within our schools, work places etc. By using diversification we will better server our children.

4 Helping countries to govern themselves by supporting the countries surrounding them is a good plan. Having an open mind and working towards resolution is important in Iran. But this may just be a talking head.

1 I was not an advocate of Common Core until I read this. This is shameful and makes Common Core necessary to ensure that no state is shortchanging our students.

4 The gov. should combine the two agencies. All of the food that is eating in our communities should be checked in the same systematic way to prevent food born illnesses. The budget should be even split between the two fruits/veggies and meat.

4 The government is overreaching by using a subpoena to get access to a document just because they don't want the info linked. They are aware of the info in the doc and don't want anyone else to know it. That does not warrant a subpoena.

5 Quality trumps all else. Obviously the quality of the teacher dictates how children will learn.

4 I agree that anything that can be done and will actually work needs to be embraced by the Iraqi people, backed by American know how and implemented carefully.

3 This happens everywhere.

3 This is the same editorial as the previous one. This happens everywhere unfortunately and the parties refuse to make this a nonpartisan issue.

5 I trust the numbers as they explain both sides (liberal and democrat) and offer a sensible solution through a tax increase.

4 The collect calling system is a sham. It robs the already poor and prevents those who want to speak to their loved ones from doing so. There needs to be a different system implemented that would be fair to everyone, no kickbacks or commission to the prison (...)

4 The Israelis have to protect themselves on all fronts. This is unfortunate that there is no reprieve for them.

4 Putin is not to be trusted. This is just one more reason why.

3 I agree to checking who is entering the country, but I don't feel it is necessary to check who is leaving. The VISA's issued by the US can be checked back up on to see if the person remained in the country.

4 If the United States or the UN for that matter want to enforce or command movement from another country to help those in Darfur then they need to be prepared to really take action, and not use open and backless threats as they are not working.

3 Bush got nailed for anything get did in the Middle East. It would be right for him to step in but his detractors would find fault either way.

1 I have previously felt that the zoning for pedophiles helped to keep law enforcement aware of their location, but this editorial suggested otherwise. This editorial definitely challenged my opinion of zoning sexual offenders.

4 The underdog should not give up, as the editorial proves. He may not win because the cards are stacked against him and he doesn't have another chance for another debate.

3 Mr. Wolfowitz has both admirable and shady parts to his history. He is working to help the poorest countries and change the way things are happening world wide.

4 Net neutrality should be a basic right. The internet needs to maintain its status as a free thinking, flowing entity to allow for everyone the opportunity to get ahead in America. Not only those who are already wealthy and established.

3 Mr. Spitzer talks the good talk of working for the people who put him the office, the voters not the lobbyist but his true colors have yet to be seen.

4 We have to find a way for all of our intelligence agencies to work together cohesively if they are to support the United States in the issues here and abroad.

4 TSA is our first and last step of security when going on a plane. Whatever we need to do to ensure safety is not an inconvenience.

4 This editorial is another example of small town politicians trying to overstep boundaries and bring their hateful agendas to fruition.

4 The infrastructure in the US is deteriorating. Here is another specific example of such that needs to be brought up to date.

3 I'm not committed to a stance on Israel relations.

2 Yep, that worked out well...

4 Branson's suggestion does nothing to allay my doubts that his proposal was just money motivated, how many private jet has this hypocrite flown during his billionaire lifetime or are there really scheduled flights to his private island?

4 If precedent is to decide every case, how will things ever improve?

4 Huge corporations will continue to put profits before employees until government prevents them from doing so. We're meant to have a government of the people, by the people and for the people, but the last part seems to commonly forgotten.

4 Obviously putting innocent people to death should be opposed by the international community, however, the US can hardly claim that executing the wrongly convicted is something that doesn't happen here, so how can we take the moral high ground?

4 Politicians will not readily pass into law bills that will seek to threaten the status quo

4 The seeming battle between the protectors of intellectual property and the creators of varied artforms on the one hand and the consumers on the other has always been one that is split right down the middle. While there is a valid argument for accessibility (...)

3 I have no real opinion about the subject, but the editorial was resoundingly condescending.

5 Non-invasive scans are fantastic medical breakthrough, I hope, in time, that the technology will aid the advancement in diagnosis so the problem of 'needless biopsies' and 'needless surgery' will reduce.

5 Whatever they ended up doing certainly didn't work. The international community always stands by with pathetic diplomacy or sanctions that goes nowhere until war becomes inevitable. With North Korea, it may eventually result in the end of us all.

5 The troops didn't leave.

3 Public television should remain neutral, period!

4 I feel it is correct that corporations and the government work together to develop residential areas. This article demands social responsibility from all parties.

5 I feel it gave me concrete logical examples to use in an argument with someone who would support Bolton.

3 Egos, agendas, personal interests is what keeps this "conflict" alive.

4 Lobbyists run congresses - I've known this for some time and am confident that they will continue to do so.

4 Now this foreign aid is urgent and necessary! So many other big companies could help like the Gates foundation, where is Walmart, amazon, ebay, etc?

4 I feel strongly about foreign aid and felt this article made arguments I agree with.

5 I find fairness in voting (and fair representation) is essential to democracy. How representatives can unfairly draw the map is beyond my understanding.

3 I do not have much of an interest in such a topic.

5 Obesity is a big issues and needs creative answers. I think the money used from the taxes could be put into preventive measures.

3 I found the article difficult to read and not able to pull out much an opinion.

3 I get very frustrated with articles about ground zero because I still dont trust the government 100% about 9-11.

5 It shows how republicans try to label any public tv shows as "leftist".

4 The Bush administration took a massive surplus and ended with a huge minus + 2 wars. End of story.

3 The US will align with whichever government it feels supports its cause on the day, irrespective of that's government's political ideals.

2 I had no idea that Rotary clubs were so involved in a public health issue. Nice job.

4 Politics getting in the way of progress - standard.

5 Powerful interests will always argue for their case irrespective of the impact on the populace. Additionally, not because something is bad for you means that there will be enough deterrent in political or economic society to lobby that position

3 It didnt provide me with anything new about the conflict.

5 I like the arguments for providing jobs in central america and telling the american industry to get itself together and improve.

4 the Pharma industry does what it wants - there is very little control and these are just further arguments to prove this point.

3 I am of the view that as a nation we are not serious about gun reform. Too often we are just reactionary after a mass shooting or some other incident involving the indiscriminate use of guns. If things are to change, we have to get serious, much more than (...)

5 I felt it gave a good solution and suggestion that is again stopped by special interest groups.

4 Dem or Repub - dont let politics trump logic.

3 I dont think it made much of an argument about anything.

3 No one cares that David Beckham is or isn't playing soccer in America or elsewhere. To say that the future of soccer in America rests on Latino immigrants is foolish. If more people were interested in soccer more people would play. Schools rarely off socce (...)

3 When the money is there people say don't spend it, or spend it judiciously when there is not money people cry for more. Most are never satisfied. New York needs to show that they can effectively handle and distribute those funds appropriately.

4 There needs to be court approval for any and all wire tapping. They are encroaching on our civil liberties, listening to personal conversations with no just cause.

4 I agree that it will take diplomatic movement to ban the building and use of antisatellite weapons.

2 It challenges my beliefs. I do not think it is fair for the government to take privately owned land and give it over to other private domains.

4 If there is no research to back the idea of global warming then there is no need to worry about it according to the GOP. We need to get the information and we need the gov's backing to be able to know the extent of global warming.

4 After 9/11 they put so many different safety things in place, uncalled for and unfounded, but refuse to do things that would actually protect the people.

3 i dont feel the arguments presented pushed me in any direction

5 Medicaid cannot be cut.

5 It simply adds to my belief that journalists need to be protected at all costs.

2 I disagree - more police is not the solution. Better police is the solution.

3 I have little opinion on the matter.

3 I feel that NASA needs more support and this article doesn't do much to help or hurt NASA.

4 I have trouble trusting Chinese interests. This article confirms these beliefs.

4 I agree with any policy that ends the Israeli occupation of Palestinian lands.

5 Bush may have not gone about it the best way, but at least he tried. That's a whole lot more than what Obama can say.

5 Perfect example of misguided leadership. Listen to the experts, not the politics.

5 Our liberties continue to be slowly eroded since 9/11

5 "Victims of election eve politics". What a laugh, they aren't victims of anything other than the truth finally coming to light.

5 There were weapons in space before the Bush administration, put there by far more dangerous superpowers.

4 States need to take charge when the Feds do not.

5 Better to build the much needed structure than to waste 230 million.

3 I have very little opinion about this political race and was unaffected by the arguments.

3 Cutting safety standards to save money is always unacceptable.

5 Always anti abortion. And partial death abortions are despicable.

5 Israeli troops need to get out of Gaza and the West Bank - a vote to support him now would make sense.

3 No new or relevant information affecting my political opinion.

4 Simply her support of meals on wheels had me - a massively important program.

5 Should have a government agency dedicated to protecting the lower political individuals, not constantly hiring outrageously expensive companies.

3 Economy changes more often than I do.

5 The fear of nuclear reactors is much greater than the danger of nuclear reactors.

5 Day laborers, even if they are legal citizens, don't help the economy any.

3 I dont feel there is enough hard evidence to blame anyone here.

5 I have a friend who works for the government and she is in constant fear of a shutdown because that means she does not get paid. I think that Beck's idea of continuous meetings about the budget is a great solution so lawmakers aren't waiting until the last (...)

4 Just another example of wasted taxpayer money of an inefficient government.

5 Cutting the funding to guaranteed to support long shot chances are bad politics, just looking for the vote.

5 the 2000 election was a farce and this article describes why.

3 No new info for me.

5 solid numbers regarding why new drugs are not significantly better but cost more.

2 This article definitely challenged my beliefs and thoughts on this issue. If Mayor John Fabrizi had used drugs prior to office, I don't feel he should be punished if he has addressed the substance abuse issues and put them behind him. However, since he adm (...)

5 Finish what you start before branding it a failure.

3 I didnt feel there was a clear message in the editorial.

4 I feel that this law hurts those who are most in need.

3 i dont have much interest in Japanese politics.

3 It appears to me that the University simply put in place the committee to look into the allegations only as a result of public pressure or the public's curiosity into how the University would handle the issue. It is not clear to me whether or not they wer (...)

5 The people of New Orleans are struggling and there needs to be a plan put in place to rebuild. They have had enough time to meet and discuss and think of possible options. There are too many still without jobs and it seems to me that the future of this c (...)

3 I am not sure how much I trust the arguments - there is nothing too convincing.

5 I agree that Iraq could have better been sorted out by a lot more tolerance and understanding as this article suggests.

5 Dick Cheney has nothing but tarnished America's reputation across the world - this article just points it out again.

4 Journalists need to be able to report freely -as long as their information is accurate.

1 This article makes a case for no child left behind but I do not and did not support NCLB at all. And now in hindsight we can all see that it failed so this article did not change my opinion.

5 Torture is wrong - nothing about it. This article calls out the Bush administration exactly how it should.

5 I definitely agree that the state falls short in their care for the mentally ill and this article helps provide an argument for a better program.

4 I agree that the U.S should worry about the future if China will no longer need to buy treasuries.

2 While I agree with the articles declarations of the incompetence of congress, I disagree with its main suggestions of fixing this bill which I thought should be scrapped entirely.

2 I am normally in support of unions as I feel they are absolutely necessary - but they might have overstepped their purpose here.

5 Health and exercise options to battle diabetes is simply smart and cost-effective.

4 I agree that Bolton was a terrible U.N. ambassador and the US should have been making more of an effort to win the support of the UN

4 Lobbying simply is the death of democracy in the USA.

4 California should be especially vigilant about preventing global warming because of their agriculture and production overuse of resources.

4 I agree that he state should help support hospitals.

5 Campaign financing is a big issue. I didn't know this about New York's limits but it makes a strong case for the need for campaign financing reform all around.

4 I agree with the articles suggestions to constrict celebration, especially in hindsight given what happened next to the economy

3 I didn't have any opinion on this.

3 It sounds like a lot of big talk and no action. We need to work harder to erase the damage that we have made to the earth.

4 If we want ex felons to be able to return to society and actually be active and helpful part of society we do ABSOLUTELY need to allow them to get assistance like Pell grants.

3 I can't stand by anyone who votes against contraceptives.

4 We need a system of checks and balances to prevent lobbying and other unethical events in our political houses.

4 Democrats should push to increase the social safety net, especially with help insurance and increase wage assistance for displaced workers.

4 Giving an adult rape victim the morning after pill should be allowed EVERYWHERE ALL THE TIME! There should be no reason to deny them that form of care.

4 Swift decisive action to decrease emissions by the large corporation will slow global warming. We need this action to be taken.

3 Our voting practices are so easily messed with an un supportive of our actual votes.

4 I don't think it is Americas place to tell other countries what they NEED to do. We need to help, support, and mentor to other countries.

3 There is no reason for the local governments to have to match the federal gov. They are in a state of disaster, they need the support now just as much as FL or NY did during the disasters mentioned in the editorial.

4 We should work from a place of negotiations and compromise instead of telling other countries what to do or face the consequences.

1 I was always of the view that you could die from drinking too little water. Water is a good thing, so there is no such thing as too much of a good thing - has been the popular belief. This editorial certainly challenged this perspective

4 We need to find a way to keep Americans employed even with the increases in technology in the automotive department.

4 Powerful parties have more rights than regular people.

3 I see no issue in allowing Sirius and XM to merge into one. I think if another satellite radio corporation wanted to come in they wouldn't have to work any harder to be seen and profitable than they would if it was two entities rather than one.

4 A full environmental impact assessment would be important before any work was done on the Casino. But I think a casino is a pretty good idea considering people are going to gamble anyway.

4 Richer countries often have strings attached to "aid".

4 States should be held accountable for the monies that they receive.

4 No one should received funds from anyone that has a direct interest in whats happening, and we need to get state workers pensions safeguarded.

5 Everything is not being done to support American troops as they return home from war. The American system is send them off, break them, bring them back and forget about them. I am not surprised by anything in the editorial.

3 "The primaries should be rotated so that each gets to be first as the editorial states.

4 Democrats need to work together to push for the removal of American troops, to deescalate this war.

4 New York needs to join the rest of the nation in no-fault divorces.

4 New York needs to catch up with the rest of the country and do away with no-fault divorce. it just causes damage, finger pointing, and endangers women.

3 The use of eminent domain to force out the little guys is a shame, and should not be allowed.

3 Public transportation increase to the island certainly would be beneficial to all.

3 Just because an individual is an immigrant doesn't mean that they should be treated like animals. Their children are citizens and they need their parents here to keep them from need more care like mental health, health care, and housing.

1 Especially in liberal states such as NY, I was of the view that these issues of sexuality were not an issue

3 I believe that there should not be an estate or inheritance tax. This does not in any sense convince me otherwise.

4 Some aspects of this deal just seem unfair and the outcomes are very predictable. The cities and people can suffer because of it.

5 It reinforced my thought that with the increaaingly high rates of obesity we need to do whatever we can to help. This article gives information on an alternative that can really help.

4 In situations where the students' futures are threatened the state needs to definitely step in.

4 I think that projects like ground zero should be more of a priority compared to a football stadium.

4 I agree that we should keep political squabble out of public broadcasting.

4 To gain favour for their interests, politicians will use legitimate and urgent issues to disguise their own interests

4 I think the government should admit their faults so they public will trust them and if they have a chance tl make a deal that would help everyone, they should be transparent with their reasoning.

4 Republican tax policies oftentimes seem to favour the rich at the expense of the poor

2 How can a system that has the ultimate punishment of death, the finality of death, be riddled with such errors?

4 This organization has helped many.

2 Whilst the programme should seek to help all persons diagnosed with AIDS, it's policy should reflect the views of its mandate to prevent its spreading. I am of the view that not all interests will be served or satisfied irrespective of the position that is (...)

4 I think the politicians should unite to create a great museum instead of fighting for power over the exhibition.

4 I think that even these steps will lead to even bigger change in the Palestinian and Jewish relationship.

3 Globalization has taken the wages from the lower levels up the higher hands. I agree lower income families have low wages, that are just getting lower, and subpar schools. We need reform.

4 I am always pro things that will help the environment in the long or short run. Having government buildings change the fluorescent lightbulbs is a great change.

4 I very strongly agree that there is no winning in Iraq, pulling out and leaving it be is the closet thing to winning we can do for our military.

4 The Micronesian and Caribbean Challenges are great to preserve the water.

4 I agree the more of the same old people in office limits ideas and newness.

4 I think that with deals like this, the benefit of the workers should definitely be taken into account.

4 I think it is a great idea to tighten the rules and to make everything transparent.

4 I think that if the deal can possibly help a lot of smaller countries than the President should indeed push for it.

4 I agree that when the stakes are high and payoff is positive, the representatives should let it go.

3 I didn't feel very moved.

4 I think if the plan benefits everyone and the city in the long run than it's a good one overall as long as they keep their promise to compensate those people.

2 I feel that it is one's right to build a house whatever size they want: however, I do feel that in today's age too many people are building obnoxious sized houses which truly aren't necessary to live in.

5 A state's budget can be in disarray for many reasons. Urban schools that are special needs should not have to compete with more affluent schools. Furthermore, there should be accountability and a series of checks and balances with spending.

5 I think that so many politicians are elected into office based on their platforms and beliefs that they state are important to them. However, I feel that once they are in office many do not follow through on what they were elected to do.

2 Paterson National Park could be a hinderance to the city if politicians get involved and start dealing with the financial aspect of it. however, it is important to preserve the old mills and homes.

5 If the U.S holds the most money then it can basically sway the outcome every time which is not okay.

5 I agree because it is simply wrong to be a health insurance entity but to bend to corporations while damaging the lives of the people.

4 I agree that journalists should not be charged for something like this.

Maybe we should the boundaries ckr=

4 Either get lobbyists out of government or government out of healthcare.

4 There is a lot the city can do for riders to feel safe.

5 I agree that if the same issue becomes a reoccurring thing that NASA needs to stop everything and not risk lives until they have positively fixed it.

3 Potentially rejected presidential nominees is a continuing story, I don't even know why they bother making nominations that have no chance of being confirmed, perhaps it's just to fill up newspaper column inches.

5 I think that China is no longer a mid tier country and now has a hold on the U.S. This needs to be acknowledged because the U.S cannot easily win out against China anymore and has to deeply think before any action.

4 I agree that this is just a first step and there is still much to be done.

5 The administration has to begin to wholeheartedly take global warming as seriously as states and the public for the sake of the country and the world.

4 I think that change comes with the times and this is an example of that.

4 Immigration will never be reformed in the US.

3 Information I already knew.

5 I agree that Betsy Gotbaum is the best candidate because even with a limited budget she still fights for those who need the most help.

4 I agree that if a consensus is reached on the physical aspects then people should now focus on the mental aspects suffered by the people in those areas.

5 These companies should be held accountable when they thoroughly fail those who rely on them to survive.

4 Whatever agreements are made or sanctions are put in place, ultimately they will not resolve the situation. They never do.

4 Nothing is finished until the last vote is counted. A candidate should never risk the legal fallout.

4 Does it really matter on which administration is in the white house, this appears to be an un-resolvable problem that will never go away.

5 I think that we should never pass mandates that would make it harder for people to fulfill their constitutional rights.

5 I highly agree that they should always make sure the new generation of drugs improve upon the predecessors.

3 Doesn't really skew my mind.

5 We never know what events lead people to their current financial situations and we should never assume or disregard.

5 I think that a move like this does the opposite of what was intended and ruins any progress made over the years.

3 Does not skew my mind.

4 As President one should be able to do the simplest efforts of diplomacy and also maintain one's cabinet in check during international events.

5 They want to constantly hush the messenger but the issues won't just go away that easily.

5 Before we start telling someone else how to clean their homes, we should ours first.

4 I agree that both sides were wrong in some aspect.

4 They shouldn't just wait for things to get worse.

5 I agree if change is to happen with lobbying, all of the aspects of enforcing lobbying rules need to be reevaluated.

5 This is a tragic occurrence that benefits no one.

4 I think everything should ne revealed and be transparent especially where government funds go.

5 If the old way is clearly not working something has to change. Changing the system is what is needed.

5 It is truly detrimental to keep act like this from moving forward. If other states have already passed similar laws then what is stopping New York?

4 This environment factor should not be seen as trivial.

3 Good news for sure!

5 This should have been and should be a cause for concern. It's nothing more than theft.

5 This is such an important piece of legislature that needs to pass. If other states have done so already then so should New York.

5 The education system needs to be worked on, in a major way. The schools aren't the problem, its the educators.

5 I strongly support this.

4 I think after all that Iraq has been through it deserves a leader willing to help change a long for the better.

5 If they are in the bay, they deserve to be there. Terrorist activities forfeit the right to legal representation.

5 I think the government should rely on it's health professionals for health issues and not their own ideologies.

3 No new information for me.

5 I disagree completely with this article. It is wholly bias. The only reason minorities are affected more is because minorities are responsible for more crime in the US.

5 Smart growth, the perfect idea. Now to see if it can actually be carried out.

5 All of these items are wonderful ideas. Necessary as well, if Americans are to finally gain control over politicians.

3 Iraq is finally getting a hold on her future. Apparently Bush did something right there.

5 The government has no right to tell cities, towns, how to use their land.
Low income housing has a higher crime rate for sure. If they dont want that, they shouldn't be forced to do that.

5 I agree that this housing issue should have been resolved a long time ago.

3 The whole system is broken. Everyone bickering over temporary fixes just wastes more money.

5 The hub needed this, and still does. Put aside political differences, and do what you're elected to do. Make a positive change in the community.

5 It's infuriating to think that a country that includes a motto to welcome immigrants has places in it who are disgustingly xenophobic.

3 Does not skew my views.

4 Transportation Systems need full backing.

2 One would think the Democrats would be more open but the opposite occurred here.

4 I do agree that colleges should revamp programs to help students who might not do as going forward.

2 I believe in helping those in need but I do see how people can take advantage of that.

5 I highly agree that the promises should be kept. The people will stop trusting if they don't get reimbursed.

5 I think that that a lot of families are struggling and if they stay in that struggle the country as a whole will will suffer.

5 I completely agree that the U.S is far behind in education compared to other powerful countries. There should be a unified standard and states that cheat the system should see federal consequences.

5 I agree highly agree that having great teachers changes matters no matter the financial demographic of a school.

5 I agree that fair mapping should be a focus. Cheating the system by modifying maps is just wrong.

5 Fair mapmaking will put an end to cheating the system by some politicians.

4 I agree that Israel should watch they responses because normal Palestinian citizens will just see them as evil for their actions that end up killing innocent people even if they are just answering the provocations of the Hamas.

4 I agree that Russia needs to understand what they can and cannot do in order to enter world trade organization.

4 I agree that a united force is needed showing that it is a united issue instead of just Israel looking like bad guys who are just killing innocent people.

3 Did not skew my views.

4 I would rather be safe and carry less than risk it.

4 I agree that if he wants everyone to play fair, he should instead make it about helping immigrants and bring things out in the open rather than launching an almost manhunt.

4 I agree that the system needs to be brought into the 21st century.

4 I agree that the U.S should help when needed and speak up when needed.

4 I completely agree that holding someone before trial should be illegal - however the suggestions made were not very convincing.

4 transparency in government spending is essential to democracy - this is a bipartisan issue.

5 It was very well organized into specific arguments. It helps me to argue the points further in future conversations.

5 It doesnt help me argue but I strongly feel that wills should be required by the state.

5 Wetlands (and environmental bills) consistently are more important in the long run of humanity.

5 I agree strongly with the opinion of the author, but do not feel I can better argue my point about it.

3 I am unconvinced that things will get better for Iraq in the near future.

4 It made good points that abstinence-only education as a prevention for AIDS is simply ineffective.

3 I found it difficult to empathize and therefore felt little connection to the content.

5 Great editorial on the ridiculousness of a pointless nationalistic law wasting taxpayers money.

3 I didnt feel very persuaded - the state support of sport is a good thing.

4 A working rail system (public transit in general) is a requirement of a country like the usa.

2 I think primaries are also often pointless - but I understand the public deserves a choice.

3 I disagree - "taking advantage of" only means that more people get a college education. This is a win for the state.

3 I dont agree that closing hospitals will help - I believe the problem begins with the fact that people are not insured.

4 Not trusting the government is simply an american standard - we need to be better.

4 I feel big initiatives often become small changes because people are afraid of taking the responsibility at the higher level.

3 I feel this still misses the point of why are children are falling behind - it's the way our education culture is set up in the usa.

5 Teaching teachers is the best and really only way to improve the education in the country.

5 Gerymandering - next to money in government - is the most corrupt concept.

5 gerrymandering along with money in politics is what corrupts the most.

4 Israel acts too often in a way that makes it look like a bully. If it is a good state - it needs policy changes.

4 Nothing too new about Russia- but informative arguments about Gazprom.

5 It draws out important aspects of the conflict. I don't want the USA physically interfering - but they need to keep Israel in check diplomatically.

3 I feel unchanged because I do not have any connection to this political race.

3 This is a simply a fear-driven article. Let the people in charge of this take care of it.

3 I find it ridiculous that a company needs to submit a report each year that they have no illegals.

4 I support ideas that increase public transit and get cars off the road.

4 America has one job - and that is to help negotiate peace - through talks, not through violence.

3 The bottle bill needs to pass. It should help the environment and the community.

4 This immigration reform is ridiculous. We need to allow people in not based on their potential value to our society, it was like there millions of people would have died over the years.

4 It's naive to believe that the 'greatest country in the world' supports its citizens when needed. It's every man for himself.

5 Higher taxes on the rich simply make sense.

5 clear and concise. The deposit will bring in more valuable income and is in no way a tax.

3 I am not exactly sure if I am convinced by any arguments presented.

4 I do think social programs for the poor should be in place.

4 I find it good that schools are public dollars are held accountable.

4 "The poorest people are always hit the hardest.

4 Stabilizing or even reducing emissions with our current technology is a goal that everyone should be carefully working on.

4 The city should not be responsible to pay for corrupted work and services or individuals who were in on a corrupted deal.

4 Without obvious results it is time to pull out and end this war so that American troops can come home.

4 With all of our technological advances we should be able to track votes and confirm voting stances for each and every American.

3 American should only align themselves with foreign rulers who respect and uphold democracy.

4 The budget committee is where good bills go to die.

4 The internet can be amazing if people use it wisely. Children and adults should be made aware how dangerous it can be.

2 This is not anti-integration, anything based on race, whether positive or negative is wrong.

3 To be honest, I am tired of this, we are all aware that practically everything to do with the 'war on terror' has been a blunder.

5 I strongly support all of these motions.

3 Nothing new for me.

5 The military needs to raise its standards, badly. It's currently a disgrace to those who have served before.

4 Treated them abusively? We are all independent humans, how embarrassing is it that we can't make our own adult choices and look at the weather before hand.

5 Do what must be done to terrorists to keep this country safe.

4 My solution to illegal immigrants? Ship them back.

5 He deserved what he got. Gun control is no control.

5 Credit is a joke. It requires too much work just to be damaged so easily.

3 No new or noteworthy info for me.

3 I agree the "pay as you go" plan should be abandoned.

2 Generally I am against raising the rates such as this, but it seems to be a positive step forward in helping the general public.

3 This isn't really anything about persuading a stance. This is just giving us the agenda for the day.

5 "Lining pockets is s big problem

In government. This exemplifies one of the many ways it is executed. "

5 The statistics reinforce that the poor are in a tenuous position and that without sufficient programs there is little possibility of escaping poverty.

3 I agree but there is no new information in this to support my stance.

3 Tariffs shouldn't be imposed but Medicaid and social security should not suffer.

5 Republicans often are self-serving and sell themselves as the party for middle class, but it looks like it hasn't changed.

5 This reinforces my stance that there needs to be strict environmental protections, not only for the sake of our environment but for humanity.

4 Like the DOJ, Parks needs to be run apolitically. It's very disheartening that politics play a part in every department.

4 Candidates should actually run for office to put policy in place. And all candidates should have opponents to ensure that their campaign is run seriously and they must hold to the campaign promises.

2 I am not against gambling and although it presented the misery of gamblers and lives affected, my stance is not affected.

3 Someone needs to start thinking about realities. This is just fear mongering nonsense.

4 The rights afforded to us under the constitution and bill of rights only exist until a government decides that they do not apply.

3 This explains what reform needs to take place to rid Albany of corruption. It stresses that politicians need to put partisan ideas aside to get rid of corruption.

5 Today, the administration accuses the media of fake news. This sounds look Iraq in 2007.

3 Hillary Clinton has always been a great stateswoman. This speaks well of her but does nothing to further convince me.

4 This explains in detail what practices are undertaken with buyouts to benefit the old-boy network.

2 I believe that terrorists in name do not deserve the rights of our citizens. I agree with Bush. However this editorial raises concerns about Bush overstepping it's power.

5 This reinforces the goal for a fact checker that accompanies such media so voters can see through the lies and fallacies purposely spread.

3 We must measure progress by deadlines but we must set reasonable ones so that democracy is correctly put in place.

4 This tactic is nothing new and we saw this in the last election. In danger of losing, the Republican Party calls foul.

3 Diplomacy is necessary but I don't necessarily agree that it's always America's job to step in.

4 Both parties need to be honest and stop catering to their bases if anything is truthfully to be accomplished.

4 It's sad to note that the same old battle continues. Voter registration should not be a partisan issue.

4 We have to play hardball with Syria. This continues today.

5 I was unaware that those with an income of 100,000 dollars or more get larger grants than lower-income students. Schools need to make it more affordable for them instead of catering h to the richer.

5 Just let the truth come to light for all to see. Protect project sunlight, finish it.

3 Same one as before.

5 We must be diligent in defending our environment. I was unaware that the EPA was not the greatest advocate for global warming.

5 Get rid of the illegals. They only damage the county.

3 This was a hydra that had many heads. It's difficult to battle all simultaneously. We need to be more diligent in the heads we fight.

5 The AEC badly need to be revamped.

5 I strongly support Mr. Spitzer's actions. Its a shame when the fair option is the unpopular option.

4 This calls into question the motives of those in power. For such a program to succeed, partisan politics at be put aside.

5 Definitely need to follow up with other offices to see what else is being lost in the broken system. We, the people, deserve better.

4 Good ideas, sure, but need to be careful to watch the crime rate.

5 The fees are a great idea. Build up the public transportation system with that money, and get people more active, healthier, as well as clean up the air.

5 NYPD division specifically for these crimes. Stiffer punishments. Start with day... Life in prison.

2 People did not like Bush but I thought he protected our country well after 9/11. This editorial sets out to prove that Bush was incapable of leadership in the Middle East.

5 They should do this in every state.

5 Oversight to prevent bad judgment and mismanagement is of the utmost. This scandal solidifies that stance.

1 I believe that alleged terrorists do not have the same rights as us, however this brings to the forefront the mistreatment of those who are wrongly accused.

5 Perfect example as to why laws need to be amended to avoid such miscarriages of justice. A child should not suffer because of a poor law.

5 Doctors as well as anyone got that mayyer, perform better when rewarded for good behavior. Tying payment to quality is desirable.

4 I agree that environmental protections need to be upped. Unfortunately Republicans like that of 2007 are the se when it comes to this issue.

4 I was unaware of this issue. Jobs however need to keep their salaries in line with cost of living

3 Wages should reflect current cost of living. It does no good to cut taxes for corporations and the rich but not raise wages for lower and middle class.

5 The facts at the beginning of the editorial reinforce my stance regarding emissions.

3 I don't have a stance on this.

4 There should be no previous agreement that the government will not bargain for better prices with big pharmaceuticals. This is not in the best interest of the American people.

4 I believe that developments should take into consideration the desires of the constituents but should not cower to them.

4 We should have technology to protect fliers. However I do not believe people should be able to opt/buy out.

3 Affordable housing is frowned upon in many areas. This editorial does nothing for my stance that affordable housing should exist in communities.

4 A reasonable timeline should exist and the zotesufrby should try to work with its limitations.

5 All advocates of possible advocates of climate change should be embraced.
Although Dingell doesn't see eye to eye on all issues regarding climate change, it's best to work with those who can be persuaded.

3 This is more of an informative editorial.

4 Tax cuts cannot reduce the deficit. This is obvious.

4 In the city of Chicago, principals are responsible for their school budgets. I have seen principals be stingier with whom they higher. It needs to go a step further where principals and their autonomy is dependent on the quality of their teachers. This wil (...)

3 No new news.

5 This is exactly what I explained my stance to be a few editorials previous. This editorial serves as a reinforcement.

4 I agree with what Spitzer aims to accomplish. By freezing payments, he forces hospitals and nursing homes to be more thoughtful and frugal with their budget.

3 Tax reform is a nonpartisan issue and should be fought for by everyone.

4 It gives solid arguments explaining why protectionist policies are ineffective for long-term US growth.

3 I was not convinced because it comes across as a lot of name calling and not much call to action.

5 I think it cuts to the core of business environmental practices - if you don't get caught, it's not a problem.

4 It pointed out one important message - politics need not take precedence over environmental causes.

3 Although I agree with her points on accountability, I was not much affected by the arguments.

4 I feel the majority of people have the choice to gamble or not - although addiction is a sickness. Giving them access does not take away choice to participate.

5 Very well thought out and organized points. I liked it very much.

5 It shows how corrupt the US has let Iraq become.

2 I actually was against Hillary skipping out of her last two years as senator - I think one should not run when knowing they intend to quit.

4 I find mergers mostly benefit the top management.

5 American claims to be of a higher standard of justice - then it must act so.

5 I would love for negative and false ads to be stopped.

3 I have no stance but Spitzer seems to be a stand-up guy facing a lot of opposition for no reason except for people's pride and pockets.

2 I believe that our armed forces should have whatever they need but this explains that there are extraneous costs.

4 The judicial branch should be above reproach and be above any behavior that reflects impropriety. Why this is even an issue is beyond me.

5 We know that lobbyists pay for law. This editorial lays out the ways that it is done and the illegality of it.

3 Bush's role in the Middle East in this editorial is overplayed. The conflict between the countries is too large for him to bridge.

5 This is what our military budget needs to be spent on. What exactly saves our troops rather than shiny toys.

5 This gave more ammunition as to why the crash happened. The banking industry was too flexible and allowed it to happen.

4 Cuomo is a standup guy and all his reform goals show that.

2 This editorial shows the olive branch was extended but rebuffed by Israel. Rice should continue talks with Israel.

3 Our allies were pulling out. So either they thought it was hopeless or getting better. Depends on whose point of view you believe.

2 I'm hesitant about this vaccine. It presents some statistics in support of the vaccine.

5 There is no reason that the government should be funding religious organizations with tax payer's money. This only strengthened my argument.

3 This is a rehash of what we know. The US allowed the housing and banking industries to continue unbridled.

5 This behavior is nothing new. Putting pressure on others to pass the Republican agenda. It didn't start with Trump apparently.

2 I believe in free speech but having worked with young children, I don't think it's unreasonable to ask the girls not to use that word for an evening. However I get and support 1st amendment rights.

3 I believe in all the reforms that Spitzer advocates for but this editorial does not have anything new to support them.

3 This was informative as to what the intend to do but does not include anything new to support my stance.

5 Too much bribing money exists in campaigns. These laws not banning or ignoring these shenanigans are awful.

4 It is important for the United State to lead the world in Space exploration. If we don't somebody else will and reap the rewards. The article agrees with this position.

4 Russia's oligarchy is a great threat to the countries future success and democratization. The article points out in how many ways it is harming the process in Russia.

2 My notion has always been that being overweight is unhealthy independently of how overweight one person is. Clearly, there is a study that disagrees with that notion challenging my stance. I am only skeptical because one study cannot be counted as definiti (...)

3 I did not have a prior stance on the rivalry between the police and fire departments. The article makes a good point for integrating the two and without further information, I agree with it.

5 The state has the highest disparity of any. The state cannot be successful without educated citizens. And it is only fair that every child has the same educational opportunity.

4 This is the same editorial as before. There are too many opportunities for lawmakers to line their pockets and ignore what is best for their citizens.

5 Wow. There needs to be no collusion between the administration and DOJ. This is scary.

4 I agree with the editorial that immigration needs a large overhaul and support measures similar with the ones presented in the editorial.

5 This just goes to show another example where there is decided outrage when genocide occurs across the globe. This is political and racial.

5 Federal regulations should be a baseline but if the state in question requires stronger regulation because of its circumstances, federal law should not have supremacy.

5 This is reminiscent of what is occurring right now. The results are clear and reflect the trajectory of today's economy.

3 Again, I think the situation goes beyond what we can control. In this situation, we can advocate on our behalf, but this is centuries old.

5 We need day workers. By dehumanizing this and treating immigrants like criminals, we set up a bad situation. By setting up a system as described, this would take the laborers out of the shadows.

3 There are too many taxes. I get the point , but I'm sure it's not for public health, rather to raise money.

5 The DOJ needs to be separate from the administration. This is yet another example of overstepping boundaries.

5 The statistics brought up in the editorial only prove that abstinence-only programs are a waste of time. We need to be realistic and realize that it is only one component of sexual education.

5 Totally agree--too much behind closed doors and none of them are completely altruistic. The public should be involved.

5 A prime example of taxpayers' money wasted. Unfortunately at the expense of the governor's safety.

4 Legislation should not be party-driven. They are so intent of one-upping each other that both parties are willing to succumb their policies.

3 Im not sure how I feel about this

4 Policies of eradication have been proven to only work in the short term. More long term solutions advocated by this article are correct and reinforce my held stance.

4 The same rules need to apply to everyone. Spitzer has great ideas but he has to model the same behavior to keep credibility.

5 Our infrastructure is lacking. The two human deaths in this editorial highlight that there need to be not only safety courses for workers, but upgrades and upheavals to the equipment.

2 I am not fond of allowing alleged terrorists rights. Although I understand the need to in case they are innocent.

2 The article takes a stance that is contrary to my own. Aid does not truly help poor citizens around the world. The article gives no information that changes my mind only tries to guilt trip the US into support.

5 The United States should stand for freedom around the globe and cannot be friends with foreign governments that work toward the subjugations of women. This article makes very valid points towards this point.

4 The United States should take a leading role in international affairs. This article applauds these efforts and pushes for more.

4 Every person has a right to decide when and how to die if that option is not available their proxy should be able to make that decision. this is an example where this decision as the humane and right one to make.

5 This just goes to prove that this behavior has been going on for decades and Trump did not write the book. It seems that no legislation preventing this from happening has been out in place

4 Intellectual property needs to be protected. The decision is a correct one and the article is right to defend it.

5 This gives me more to argue for my stance because this editorial gives exact examples of statesmen who abused the law and yet collected pensions.

5 Police officers need to be generously compensated for putting their lives on the line. With a surplus, this is a no brainer.

5 Again, the DOJ needs to run in a nonpartisan manner and the White Houndini needs to run independently of the DOJ. Justice is not blind if it is political.

4 I believe the military should be budgeted as much as it needs to be however our non-military needs need to be met just as much. Otherwise what are we protecting?

2 I am generally against taxes, so my initial reaction would be against increasing sales taxes for online sales. I, however, agree with the article that taxes should be leveled equally.

3 This editorial repeats that when given power there are those lining their pockets. Spitzer seems to want to reform this.

3 I don't have a stance on this. It is common sense that more caution should be taken.

4 Merkel has been such an advocate for global warming protection. She must be more than frustrated with the present as we had just made great strides.

3 I agree that democracy requires competition for public servant elections. However if he is doing a great job, there is nothing they can do. I am impressed that both parties agreed.

5 The statistics support the stance that schools need to encourage good eating habits and that while on their watch, only good choices should be offered.

5 Anyone nominated for such a high position should be serving ALL people. There should be no racism allowed.

5 Yes Kevorkian took things into his own hands. Oregon is correct when mandating it that serious thought goes into this and several medical experts have to agree.

5 No excuse for this. Our soldiers need to have the weaponry and the safety equipment to keep them safe. There is no room for bargaining and politicking.

3 Martha Stewart did the worst kind of cultural appropriation, taking their Chiefs name and using it to market a brand. She owes them.

3 Good stuff all around. This is a summary of the legislation Albany wants to implement.

3 This is the same editorial as 199.

3 This is an interesting read about Ward and his upcoming job and the challenges he faces.

3 This does not present an argument but details what needs to be done for a sustainable tomorrow.

3 I'm not really sure what my opinion is on this

5 I agree this should be better regulated, sick days should not be exchanged for money because that punishes people who fall sick.

4 People should not be able to hold more than one public office at a time. They are not able to effectively govern over two different and entirely separate entities, and get paid for it.

5 Death and grief should not be publicized. The case of Sciavo reaffirms this.

4 I think it's unfortunate NASA faces any budget constriction but I think that could be solved by better management

2 I disagree, i think banning soft drinks is a great first step and drug prevention programs aren't very effective anyway.

3 I think that we failed the people after Hurricane Katrina

5 I agree that New York definitely needs to reform its campaign financing laws

3 I was unaware of Law Day so I did not have a stance but this argues a case for Law Day.

5 It's heartbreakign what has happened to 9/11 first responders, i strongly agree that more needs to be done to take care of them

3 I don't have a stance and didn't find one after reading this.

4 Something should be done about the fact that a prosecutor chose not use his their abilities to help Replublicans get into office were fired is a shame. They should recieve some retributions.

3 This doesn't ask for a stance. These are opinions.

3 The struggles in Iraq and Turkey are terrible but they have been going for centuries. Americans need to fix American issues before they can help anyone else.

5 Separation of church from state. This church was wrongfully targetted which makes it even worse.

3 Someone needs to come in a revamp the justice system into something the at least resembles something to support the people and uphold the law.

4 Officials who are convicted of corruption when in office should NOT receive their pensions!

3 This is a repeated editorial. It is important that the memorial is soscul enough so that All can personally appreciate it and have the dignity it deserves. However they teach an agreement it needs to the least political it can be.

5 Transparency is the only way the ultimate reform will come to fruition. Spitzer has awesome momentum.

5 This is another repeated editorial. Environmental protections should not only protect the environment but also citizens.

4 I think Arthur Miller will be remembered as an artist that captured the American Condition, not for who he married.

5 The editorial outlines what reforms need to take place but ultimately the system needs to change because the legislators don't want it to.

3 There should be rules and regulations related to who can provide funding for political things, and they should be followed.

3 This is an uplifting editorial about the positive change taking place and how it is s good start.

3 I don't agree with the author. I agree with the walkouts and the protests. They need to make the people feel uncomfortable.

2 I don't believe the FBI should have sweeping power but I do agree that there is a need in certain situations and that it should be allowed if proven to be so.

5 I totally agree. There needs to be hype but in the meantime there needs to be a thought out and organized system.

5 Totally agree that when the state and employers get involved and committed to healthcare, we are healthier as a country and will save money in the long run.

2 Both sides are presented in this editorial. I believe that the 5.75 million is too hefty of a remedy and the money is best spent elsewhere. Although I do understand the visceral response of wanting to be able to sink in the seat.

2 I agree that the military needs to have what it needs and beyond. But the editorial brings up the fact that those builders who monopolize the industry take advantage of their advantage and thus the overspending takes away from other just as crucial items (...)

4 I agree that there needs to be steep improvement in the care of the elderly in the US

5 A better health care system includes shutting down inefficiency even if it may seem to have the opposite effect. The overhaul may be more costly and time consuming initially but worth the reform.

5 These present more reasons as to why preventative programs need to be put in place. Also I totally agree that juveniles should not be in general population for many reasons.

3 the article did not really promote an opinion that challenge or reinforced one that I had at first. The reactions to terrorist attacks are strong and emotional but do not challenge any stance of mine.

4 I agree with the article in supporting the bigger better bottle act and campaign finance reform

3 I'm not really sure of my opinion on this.

4 I agree in that there should be more effective reform of racial inclusion in schools

4 I agree, the people should be able to hear and see all evidence in cases of political importance.

4 Trade wars accomplish nothing.

5 They have every right to fly that flag. It is a symbol of many good men who sacrificed their lives to protect states individual freedom.

5 Using dead babies, not old embryos, let's call them what they are, dead babies, in the name of research is barbaric.

4 The two groups need to broker an agreement and I don't feel the US should be the momentum behind the negotiations.

2 Intuition says that the floating depot is dangerous however the report challenges my intuition.

5 So the cost of conservation is 150 million? That seems pretty affordable considering how much money is lost every year on vain government projects.

3 No new information to influence my opinion.

4 I think it is a wonderful idea, and worth the approval of all politics and people involved.

5 Campaign contributions from the rich negate the significance of any contributions from the poor, common man.

5 I don't know enough about it to debate over it but I do agree that to conquer AIDS, the red tape had to be removed for the best of public health worldwide.

4 I think that anti-terrorist funds should be put into risk-prone areas and modes of transportation not just in security theater. The article reinforces that notion.

5 Apparently Bush's policies weren't that big of a failure, looking at it now.

3 No new or useful information.

2 Was unaware about that issue, generally I'm against states taking total control over corporations but perhaps it would be a prime situation here.

4 The United Nations is a bureaucratic mess that is very difficult to manage efficiently. They have failed time and time again in their missions and need severe reformation. I still believe it is important but needs to be really changed.

5 Yes, give something opportunity and it will thrive.

5 These are good laws, and can only have positive affects on the cities.

5 The last paragraph mirrors my stance. I was unaware that Graham was for the imprisonment at the time but this does not surprise me.

4 It was/is a good cause, and should not have encountered any resistance to fundraising that amount.

5 More reason to close the loopholes instead of slashing taxes on the rich. Change the legislation.

5 Tougher punishments for this particular type of crime would be a great start. Personally, I would also like to see tougher punishments for rape and murder both as well.

4 The peace between Israel and Palestine is heavily influenced by extremists on both sides that pull the levers of power in their direction. Hamas or the Israeli right have been extremely detrimental to peace. This editorial points this out and shows how the (...)

5 Patience should not be exercised once a country has defiantly started making WMDs.

4 I support Bush's stance on this.

4 The incidents described advocate for further study to see if Ambien is safe. This is why there needs to be strict regulation by the FDA.

5 Campaign reforms are beyond necessary not just for NYC but for many cities across the States.

5 The article reinforces my view that the morning after pill should be available over the counter and that moderate Republicans should champion it both within and out of the party.

5 Illegal immigrants, no matter who or when or where, need to be kicked out. It is a subject that is sensitive, but the fact remains, our economy is getting worse due to it.

5 Loose lips sink ships. Send him to jail.

4 When dealing with another superpower regarding nuclear weapons, calm minds are exactly what is necessary.

5 I've dealt with this first hand. Alcohol has no place on a train. If so, strict limits and only allowed inside a barroom.

3 I have really mixed feelings on this so I'm not sure what my opinion really is.

3 I didn't have a stance but this is s very compelling concept.

5 More lining of pockets, more mismanagement, more waste of tax payers' money.

3 The article both reinforces and challenges my stances. I am generally against government regulations against companies, for example, fuel efficiency standards for cars (fuel prices will increase these alone) I agree with the government promoting corporate (...)

3 Hypocrisy from the Bush Administration. I was unaware that such inpropriety existed then as it does now.

5 I support Spitzer's common sense demands that acts in the best interest of the public.

3 This editorial was seen earlier. I agree with all the reforms that Spitzer is advocating for.

3 Very compelling argument for congestion pricing. I had no stance but I do agree.

3 I had no previous opinions about the legacy of Gov. Pataki, therefore, there really is no stance to challenge or reinforce. I agree that the Governor should not veto the morning after pill bill.

3 I agree that Spitzer needs to honor the ciry's commitment. I am unaware as to why Spitzer won't.

3 The countries economic plan needs a lot of work

5 Evolution is science. If they want to teach all three theories so be it but don't try to discount evolution because of religion.

2 My view of Iraq has always been that it needs to be split along religious and cultural lines. The current borders are imposed by imperial powers anyway. This editorial espouses trying to use a compromise to keep Iraq united. Of course, I have the vantage p (...)

5 The citizenship over lobbyists. This shows that Congress faces dilemmas when sidelined by corporate interests.

5 Journalists and their sources are to be protected. No fishing expeditions allowed.

2 I disagree. I appreciate Bush's posturing. Yes diplomacy is indeed needed but Bush is up against no ordinary enemy.

2 I am a supporter of Booker and his ideals. This didn't cause me to change my mind but the new info gave me reason to pause.

4 I agree that veterans should not have their benefits cut but neither should women and children.

3 Did not teach me anything new--lawmakers need to walk the walk if they talk the talk.

4 Indian treatment has been terrible and individuals should be able to control the land and it should not be in trusts. It is important to change this through legislation or courts.

3 I didn't have a stance but I do like the editorial and agree.

5 The Constitution is to be followed and laws are meant to be followed to ensure that democracy is followed. The Senate cannot change the law because they are not getting the results they desire without it.

5 I agree that there needs to be more regulation. When no one thinks the responsibility is theirs, recklessness prevails.

5 Just like lawmakers, doctors are under the temptation of being bought out. There need to be ethics guidelines for doctors as there are for lawmakers, as well as for lobbyists and investment companies.

4 The war in Iraq was a huge geo-political blunder. The article highlights one of people personally affected and against the war and points out the general discontent with the war and its management.

5 The statistics provided advocate for stricter regulation of e-waste. It provides compelling reasons why.

3 No stance on this because I was unaware of it. However, this is complete irresponsibility and disheartening.

5 This strengthens my belief in the law that there needs to be separation between the state and church. Bush was wrong.

5 The criminal justice system is much too strict and harsh. Imposing penalties that far outstrip the crimes and do not rehabilitate criminals. It's nice to see an example of compassion ruling the day.

2 I agree consuming seafood that is uncontaminated in moderation is good. However, the editorial gave me pause about what is moderation and what is safe. I agree that labels need to be more comprehensive.

4 Measures taken to protect us after terrorist attacks tend to impinge on our freedoms too much. They are wrong and hurt everyone involved and rarely work to protect us.

4 I believe that slumlords manipulate and take advantage of poor people while making money off of the government sponsoring their housing. Surprise inspections would keep them on their toes.

4 Israel pulling out of Gaza was a positive step. It did, however, lead to a lot of chaos, but at the time this editorial was written they didn't know that.

4 The handling of Hurricane Katrina by Bush was absolutely horrendous. This article illustrates that well.

4 This is a good proposal to help curb the amount of pollution released by planes.

4 I agree with the editorial's assertions about environmental protections

5 This article strongly supports my own opinion on needing to raise the minimum wage and that that doesn't need to mean higher prices as evidenced by Costco.

5 This is a good example of how the US fails to interfere in a lot of human rights abuse cases around the world. I don't necessarily believe they even should interfere but this goes to show that they let a lot slide by.

3 I have no opinion on this.

4 If Nuclear power is to be used as a viable source of energy we need a plan to store the Nuclear Waste. The article aptly points out that Utah is a good option and private enterprise are looking to fill the gap that the government couldn't.

2 This has now become Standard practice to screen preemptively for lung cancer so it's interesting that there was any debate back when the first study was published.

4 I believe that the USA should take a leading role in Space Exploration. Right now I agree with the notion that it should be left to private interest at the time this would feel like a much more realistic course of action.

5 Global Warming is real and human-caused. This article points to the dangers and downfalls of ignoring the damage.

4 While I do not like government regulation when it comes to global warming I generally disagree with my own position. This article tries to reinforce the notion that these protections are important and should come from the government.

4 The Iraq war was truly mishandled and mismanaged. Though US interference is important to keep peace in the world that was not the right strategy. The article is right to point out the utter incompetence of the Bush administration at this time.

4 The article criticises both democrats and republicans for politicizing the process by which judges are selected. I agree with the notion that this should not be done in a political way.

4 I think this is a valid attack on territorial politics between regional and local police departments. I did not have a strong opinion about it prior to the article but I agree with its assessment.

4 I did not have a major opinion on the reconstruction of the 9/11 site. Though I agree with the article that the government of the city of NY should be involved. Especially at a point where the State is losing its grip.

5 "The article is pushing for more US funding to building Afghanistan. If the US mission to push out extremists and build a democratic nation is to succeed this is essential.

5 Regulatory controls are important when it comes to environmental damage. The cost of cleaning the environment should fall on those causing the damage. This article shows that the cost will not be passed to the consumer in great measure. A positive point to (...)

4 I agree with the need for more diplomatic pressure on North Korea without military action.

4 I agree that the Democrats need a stronger strategy than just being anti-war.

4 I agree with the need to be able to negotiate drug prices

5 Agricultural subsidies are wrong. They should not continue either in Europe or North America, even more so if they are a barrier to free trade on a global scale.

5 This article definitely supported my view that there should be more transparency but it didn't help me argue cause it didn't really provide a lot of hard evidence.

2 I have been of the opinion that higher gas prices will eventually lead to the market asking for higher emission standard cars making government involvement mute. The article tries to refute that notion but in my opinion, does not give enough concrete facts (...)

4 Women, and everyone else too need to listen to there bodies, be aware of the possible symptoms, and feel comfortable enough to talk to their doctors. But many doctors these days just want to prescribe a pill and move on to the next patient, the next 35-50 (...)

3 I dont have views on this

3 I agree that Elected officials cannot fairly represent two constituencies and should not

3 This doesnt change any of my views on anything

3 I dont have any views on this

3 I think that same-sex couples should be able to marry

3 I think that something needs to be done to improve the reliability of voting machines.

3 What is happening to the women in these countries is awful. We also have an astounding number of missing and murdered women in America.

3 I do not have any views on this

3 The dangers of the other countries testing their nuclear weapons is very high. This is going to cause a lot of issues.

3 We need to do something about the illegal immigration to America.

3 North Korea seems to be a loose cannon to me. Like a ticking time bomb just waiting to go off.

4 Strong relationships with other countries can be both positive and negative for the United States.

4 It makes no sense that America can look past their own injustices and so hypocritically point the finger elsewhere. We need to clean around our own backdoor before telling anyone what to do.

3 I dont have any views on this

4 It is not healthy for Democrats or Republicans to be solely in charge of anyone state, etc. we bipartisan and need to be represented as such.

3 I dont agree with hedge funds

3 I think that this bill would be great

4 Taking care of the environment is a vitally important charge. Changing the taxicab fleet to ones with lower emissions is a wonderful idea and all states should follow.

4 I agree the Republican party has failed on these issues

4 People who are in the country illegally and continue to get into the country illegally do so sometimes out of ignorance to the laws, they are told they can make a good life in America and are trafficked from their homes to here working endless hours for no (...)

3 I think that it great to improve the Hubble. Space exploration is so important

4 Guantanamo Bay is an awful un-American institution that should be shut down.

3 I dont have much to say about this issue

3 Medicaid fraud is a big issue that needs to be tackled. We need to figure out how to get rid of the fruad

4 Making an independent budget office would put specific people in control of a specific thing, rather than allowing it to float around freely.

3 Ethic reform needs to happen all across the United States.

3 I think establishing a code of conduct is good, but that the government should allow the small business to continue running on their own.

3 I think asking tax payers to pay for stem cell research would be unfair as many would not agree with the research. I think instead they must do something that doesn't ask people to go against their values.

3 We need to overhaul campaign funding financing.

4 I am glad that scrutiny and sound judgement is being used. It is necessary to find out what the problem is here and how this happened. Just because someone is an immigrant, drunk, or suffering from a mental health issue does not mean that they are deservin (...)

3 The ability to get along with others and be diplomatic is important, but it is not the most important thing for an auditor to have.

3 We need to limit our borrowing.

3 I do not agree in segregation between countries based on their faiths. I do not believe that church and state should be aligned and I do not believe that we should encourage the catholic church by encouraging them to share their opinions based on countries (...)

3 I am not sure of state matched public financing.

3 Recurring lobbyist to register and keep track of where their money is going would be a good idea, sense they are going to put their money where they want to anyway, if we had way to keep track that may be better.

4 It is obvious that even with decisive moves from the American Military, the Iraqis would not benefit from it without serious input from their own government.

4 Electing a person to any office, even judicial is a difficult task. Some people may be good and just until they get there finding that their are more ways to line your pockets than the legal ones.

3 It is a very scary time for women in Iraq. They are in danger of being treated badly and losing many rights.

4 The United States should follow Canadas lead and get to the high ground in respecting basic human rights.

3 Privatization of Social Security is absurd and the American people know that.

3 Head start, food for the elderly, low income housing, veterans needs are necessary if we aren't taking care of our people then what are we doing?

3 Being prepared for a catastrophic event is important. But it is more important that those trained to handle the even are prepared and ready for action. The most prepared citizen can make mistakes and do things incorrectly, but someone trained should be the (...)

4 Prs. Bush should not have the right to take anyone and put them into a prison without a clear definition of what crimes they have committed.

4 Human trafficking is a horrible crime and helpless people are trapped and misused every day. We need more people aware and working on this huge problem.

3 We need to fund the EPA.

3 Detainees held at Guantanamo Bay should be allowed to speak and courts, our justice system is innocent until proven guilty, not guilty until I change my mind.

3 Government procedures should never be a secret, transparency is what we are missing in so many parts of our government.

2 I stand with the alternative, restoration of natural flora and fauna would be the result. The first choice sounds nice, sure, but humans are destroyers by nature and providing housing by the river would not help with the restoration.

3 This war has been lengthy, costly, and done not a lot of good.

3 There need to be mandatory ceilings on emissions. We need to work towards change rather than discussing it repeatedly with no actual movement as our earth is destroyed around us.

3 People are upset because they can't make enough money to live. Wages are not keeping up with inflation and no one seems to understand that education cost, housing cost, and other costs add up as an individual tries to get enough education to be "smart" enough (...)

3 A lawful and dutiful hire site for immigrant workers allows for safety for the community and the workers.

3 The education system is failing our children, as many parents are failing their children as well. This is a systemic problem, parents can't be home because they have to work multiple jobs to make enough money to pay rent that has inflated so much that work (...)

3 Counterfeit medications are dangerous and people lose their lives. There should be more hefty fines and consequences to dealing in fake drugs.

3 Protecting our environment should be the number one priority on so many people's minds.

4 Mentally ill inmates need to have their SSI or medicaid benefits reinstated once they leave prison. The punishment of prison is supposed to be over after they are released, but it's not. There are so many barriers that are in place that keep prisoners in "prison" (...)

3 The United States needs to get out of Iraq, bring our military home, and deal with issues here.

3 "This doesn't change any of my views

3 I don't have any views on this

3 This kind of helps my views

3 I agree that global balance requires cooperation. We all need to figure out a way to work together.

4 I think that this is a major issue that these political figures are using money that they shouldn't for things they shouldn't.

3 This does not change any views for me.

3 I think that AIDS is a huge issue but this article has not changed my views on anything

3 We need to do better when it comes to immigration into this country.

4 HouseKeeping Dollars! We should have lists and limits following who this people are funding and how they are being retributed for their funds. If we could compile listing maybe we could know whats happening.

3 I agree with the students from Tehrans elite universities.

3 I really dont have any views either way on this.

3 I have no remorse or feelings about Saddam

3 I agree with Mr. Spitzers education plan. I think that it so important that the students our future get the money that they need

3 Turning the 9/11 memorial into some kind of political race is a disaster. Its disrespectful to the memory of this who died and their survivors and those who worked to save people that day.

3 "This doesnt change any of my views

3 I think that these goals are great and should not be lost

3 I like that they are preventing the big box store from coming in. Thinking about how awfully Walmart treats its employees, how much traffic it was cause, and other issues are important. It seems Walmart thinks it can do whatever it wants.

3 This doesnt change my views

3 Lawmakers need to do whatever is necessary to keep our children safe. Sex offenders should be punished to the highest level to protect them.

3 I think that it would be beneficial for the president to focus on reducing the number of old nuclear weapons

3 "This doesnt change my views

3 Making it more expensive to harm the environment than it is to follow the rules seems to be the only way to get plants and things to follow EPA rules.

3 I dont know how I feel about this editorial

4 I feel that as a country we failed the people after Hurricane Katrina. We should have done better, done more and better supported our citizens in their time of need.

3 "I agree he should have been fired

3 FEMA should not be responsible for providing extra relief during Mardi Gras, yes New Orleans may "need" this but sometimes you don't get what you "need" especially if you can't facilitate it safely.

3 "This doesnt change my views on anything

3 Sometimes politicians are not the best answer for every position. Sometimes we need people with different skills, and a good reputations of using said skills appropriately to enact action.

4 A fence, a wall, or whatever is a horrible idea. A worker program could help.

3 If a Iraqiian government needs to follow UN advisors if they want to be apart of the UN.

5 I tend to feel very strongly about the concept of hope and being able to fully utilize the ability to not only make a resolution of commitment to oneself, but to fully follow through with said commitments. Everyone has hope and I completely agree that any (...)

3 Although tourism and property rights are important in the short term the long term is absolutely EP. Without protecting the environment there will be no property to own and nothing for tourist to see.

5 Anyone questioned on matters relating to our country, especially those in political and governmental positions, should be required to answer honestly and not simply dance around subjects or avoid questions. Proper policies should be upheld and those in vio (...)

3 This is so wrong. Laws need to be stronger and stiffer for these types of things

4 The Likud party though good on economic terms is a disaster for peace in the Middle East. Praising Mr. Sharon's departure from the party is positive. I agree with the editorial.

4 Rule of law and level-headedness in emotional situations is very important. The editorial is right to defend a slow and methodical treatment of Saddam Hussein in the courts. I was not aware of this situation before reading the editorial but I agree with it. (...)

4 Strong government control of the economy is never a positive. This article shows the effects of highly centralized economies such as China's.

4 The article is right to point out that subsidies and lack of free trade is bad. It should also point out that lack of agricultural free trade is bad for rich countries as well. It is also accurate in pointing out the slow moving nature of EU and how often (...)

4 Environmental policy is one of the few areas where regulation is needed. The editorial is right to praise this action in Congress.

4 The editorial is right to point out the overbearing power of the government to invade our privacy and deny our first amendment rights. It is important for police to protect our freedoms and not violate them.

2 The editorial is wrong in supporting the election of judges. Judges should be appointed by state legislators and given lifetime appointments to ensure their power over the legislatures.

4 The article is right in pointing out that the government should be held accountable for the torture of innocent people and should not be engaged in torturing anyone.

4 Citizens should have access to the records of their state and local officials. The editorial is right to push for these rights.

4 The article points out some of the atrocities of the Bush administration and calls for Congress to stand up to it. I agree that this should have happened.

4 The article is right to criticise public money being spent on government officials pet projects in order to get themselves re-elected. Its another example of government run a muck.

4 "Reverse mortgages are a valuable option for elderly citizens I believe that they should be pushed as does the editorial. I do however, not like the idea of the government promoting them instead of the free market

4 "I generally believe that government should do as little as possible. This is an area where I believe the government should be involved. That does, however, lead to mismanagement and inefficiency as show by the editorial.

2 I generally believe that government run education is very inefficient and wasteful. Extending that to lower ages does not really benefit anyone. This article points out the benefit to lower-income families but still does not convince me its a valuable plac (...)

1 I have believed that a path to citizenship for illegals already in the United States is a smart policy. This article tries to dissuade that notion and makes the valid point I had not previously considered that this is unfair to those waiting for a Visa out (...)

4 I believe that government should not regulate many areas it currently does. Financing of elections is one. The government has a vested interest in stopping corruption to make sure that it can do the things that it should do well.

4 The government needs to police itself. Stopping corruption is the only way to make sure government is as efficient as possible.

4 Local governments should fill the needs that private companies will not. The City government making sure cabs are good for disabled people is important. A better solution still would be for other companies that cater to these individuals to spring up.

4 My opinion is that the federal government should not be involved in education at all. This article reinforces that view by pointing out the huge mess that even attempts at federal oversight is creating.

4 Another example of excessive government gone wild with waste and fraud.

4 More example of why governments are too big and need to be cut to size. The article is pointing out that high legislative salaries do not equate to high quality legislatures.

5 I always thought it was an odd choice, and did not know all these facts! Wow! Normal diplomatic relations should be kept regatdless of if the country is "normal" or not!

3 A lot of work needed in this closed doors form of running a state, i am just glad they have started trying to make changes.

3 Amazing how the government uses people's almost null knowlledge of finances to make them follow their agenda

3 Resisting reform presents a problem. The world is changing constantly and governments and organizations need to update constantly as well to stay current and cover the needs tha change presents

5 Change resisting entities present a problem in a world that is changing constantly.

3 This sounds like all business for a few, not caring about the tax payers money that could be used for other actual needs.

5 Totally agree! Obesity rates are alarming! Easy and convinient foid does not have to be fattening. Why not buy an apple instead of an apple pie at mcdonalds?

5 Reforms are needed, urgently! Children are not only the future of our country, but the present as well. This is unacceptable!

3 Again, this whole new stadium thing sounds more like a personal business interest. Just ask around, people will never prefer a stadium over rebuilding ground zero, ever!

3 It is discouraging to learn that the only network that was supposed to be completely neutral, it is not!

5 I am a strong believer in the development and upkeep of parks and beautification processes, especially in areas that are either lacking or have become unruly/unkempt. Both parties should share the cost of the development and promote the furthering of this (...)

3 I believe that all these issues need to be addressed and handled

2 I somewhat agree with Mr. Spitzer

3 I think that it is very important to upgrade the Long Island Railway. There are so many people that use it that it should be at the highest standards.

3 I dont really have any thoughts on this issue

3 I think that this issue should be reconsidered.

3 This doesnt change my views on anything

3 I think that Indonesia is wrong for not supplying the virus

3 Congress needs to step up and do what the president wouldnt

3 I believe there should be affordable housing in New Jersey.

3 This doesnt change my views on anything

3 I dont agree with this. The word in question is a part of the body and it is a word that is used. Maybe we shouldnt try and keep everything from children. The word wouldnt be such a big deal if people didnt make it that way.

3 I dont know how I feel about this

3 "I think that Gov. Spitzer has a good plan for the casinos

3 This is the same as the previous one

3 This is the same one as pervious

3 Even though we cant make up for the loses from these tragedies we need to make better stricter laws.

3 I dont have views on this

3 I dont know too much info about Latin America so this doesnt affect my views

3 The terrorism in this world is out of control something needs to be done about this

3 This doesnt change my views

3 This country should make sure that at least the children of our nation have medical care. Not all people can afford the incredibly high prices of health care. The children shouldn't be punished.

3 I think that they should be able to demonstrate in central park.

3 This doesnt change my views
